ACREMENT OF THE STATE OF THE ST

PARADISE LOST.

BOOK I.

The first Book proposes, first in brief, the whole subject, Man's disobedience, and the loss thereupon of Paradise wherein he was placed: Then touches the prime cause of his Fall, the Serpent, or rather Satan in the Serpent; who, revolting from God, and drawing to his side many legions of Angels, was, by the command of God, driven out of Heaven, with all his crew, into the great deep. Which action passed over, the Poem hastens into the midst of things, presenting Satan with his Angels now falling into Hell, described here, not in the centre (for Heaven and Earth may be supposed as yet not made, certainly not yet accursed,) but in a place of utter darkness fitliest called Chaos: Here Satan with his Angels lying on the burning lake, thunderstruck and astonished, after a certain space recovers, as from confusion, calls up him who next in order and dignity lay by him; They confer of their miserable fall; Satan awakens all his legions, who lay till then in the same manner confounded. They rise; their numbers; array of hattle; their chief leaders named, according to the idols known afterwards in Canan and the countries adjoining. To these Satan directs his speech, comforts them with hope yet of regaining Heaven, but tells them lastly of a new world and new kind of creature to be created, according to an ancient prophecy or report in Heaven; for, that Angels were long before this visible creation, was the opinion of many ancient Fathers. To find out the truth of this prophecy, and what to determine thereon, he refers to a full council. What his associates thence attempt. Pandemonium, the palace of Satan, rises, suddenly built out of the deep: The infernal peers there sit in council.

Or Man's first disobedience, and the fruit Of that forbidden tree, whose mortal taste Brought death into the world, and all our wee, With loss of Eden, till one greater Man Restore us, and regain the blissful seat, 5 Sing, heavenly Muse, that on the secret top Of Oreb, or of Sinai, didst inspire That shepherd, who first taught the chosen seed, In the beginning how the Heavens and Earth Rose out of Chaos: Or if Sihon hill 10 Delight thee more, and Siloa's brook that flow'd Fast by the oracle of God; I thence Invoke thy aid to my adventurous song, That with no middle flight intends to soar

Things unattempted yet in prose or rhyme.
And chiefly Thou, O Spirit, that dost prefer
Before all temples the upright heart and pure,
Instruct me, for Thou know'st, Thou from the first
Wast present, and with mighty wings outspread
Dovelike sat'st brooding on the vast abyss,
And madest it pregnant: What in me is dark,
Illumine; what is low, raise and support;
That to the height of this great argument
I may assert Eternal Providence,
25

And justify the ways of God to men.

Say first, for Heaven hides nothing from thy view, Nor the deep tract of Hell; say first, what cause Moved our grand Parents, in that happy state, Favour'd of Heaven so highly, to fall off 30 From their Creator, and transgress his will For one restraint, lords of the world besides? Who first seduced them to that foul revolt? The infernal Serpent; he it was, whose guile, Stirr'd up with envy and revenge, deceived 35 The mother of mankind, what time his pride Had cast him out from Heaven, with all his host Of rebel Angels; by whose aid, aspiring To set himself in glory above his peers, He trusted to have equal'd the Most High, 40 If he opposed; and, with ambitious aim Against the throne and monarchy of God, Raised impious war in Heaven, and battle proud, With vain attempt. Him the Almighty Power Hurl'd headlong flaming from the ethereal sky, 45 With hideous ruin and combustion, down To bottomless perdition; there to dwell In adamantine chains and penal fire, Who durst defy the Omnipotent to arms. Nine times the space that measures day and night 50 To mertal men, he with his horrid crew Lay vanquish'd, rolling in the fiery gulf,

Confounded, though immortal: But his doom Reserved him to more wrath; for now the thought Both of lost happiness, and lasting pain, 55 Torments him: round he throws his baleful eyes, That witness'd huge affliction and dismay Mix'd with obdurate pride and steadfast hate At once, as far as Angels ken, he views The dismal situation waste and wild: 60 A dungeon horrible on all sides round As one great furnace flamed; yet from those flames No light; but rather darkness visible Served only to discover sights of woe, Regions of sorrow, doleful shades, where peace 65 And rest can never dwell; hope never comes That comes to all; but torture without end Still urges, and a fiery deluge, fed With ever burning sulphur unconsumed Such place Eternal Justice had prepared 70 For those rebellious; here their prison ordain'd In utter darkness, and their portion set As far removed from God and light of Heaven As from the centre thrice to the utmost pole. O, how unlike the place from whence they fell! 75 There the companions of his fall, o'erwhelm'd With floods and whirlwinds of tempestuous fire. He soon discerns; and weltering by his side One next himself in power, and next in crime, Long after known in Palestine, and named 80 Beëlzebub. To whom the Archenemy, And thence in Heaven call'd Satan, with bold words Breaking the horrid silence, thus began.

If thou be he; but O, how fallen! how changed
From him, who, in the happy realms of light, Sa
Clothed with transcendent brightness, didst outshine
Myriads though bright! If he whom mutual league,
United thoughts and counsels, equal hope
And hazard in the glorious enterprise,
Join'd with me once, now misery hath join'd

In equal ruin! Into what pit thou seest, From what height fallen; so much the stronger proved He with his thunder . and till then who knew The force of those dire arms? Yet not for those, Nor what the potent victor in his rage 95 Can else inflict, de I repent or change, Though changed in outward lustre, that fix'd mind, And high disdain from sense of injured merit, That with the Mightiest raised me to contend, And to the fierce contention brought along 100 Innumerable force of Spirits arm'd, That durst dislike his reign, and, me preferring, His utmost power with adverse power opposed In dubious battle on the plains of Heaven, And shook his throne. What though the field be lost? All is not lost; the unconquerable will, 106 And study of revenge, immortal hate, And courage never to submit or yield, And what is else not to be overcome; That glory never shall his wrath or might 110 Extort from me. To bow and sue for grace With suppliant knee, and deify his power, Who from the terror of this arm so late Doubted his empire; that were low indeed, That were an ignominy, and shame beneath 115 This downfal: since, by fate, the strength of Gods And this empyreal substance cannot fail; Since through experience of this great event In arms not worse, in foresight much advanced, We may with more successful hope resolve 120 To wage, by force or guile, eternal war Irreconcilable to our grand Foe, Who now triumphs, and, in the excess of joy Sole reigning, holds the tyranny of Heaven. So spake the apostate Angel, though in pain, 125

So spake the apostate Angel, though in pain, Vaunting aloud, but rack'd with deep despair: And him thus answer'd soon his bold compeer.

O Prince, O Chief of many throned Powers,

PARADISE LOST	7
That led the embattled Seraphim to war
Under thy conduct, and in dreadful deeds	130
Fearless endanger'd Heaven's perpetual king,	1
And put to proof his high supremacy,
Whether upheld by strength, or chance, or fate;
Too well I see and rue the dire event,	105
That with sad overthrow, and foul defeat,	135
Hath lost us Heaven, and all this mighty host In horrible destruction laid thus low,
As far as Gods and heavenly essences
Can perish: for the mind and spirit remains
Invincible, and vigour soon returns,	140
Though all our glory extinct, and happy state
Here swallow'd up in endless misery.
But what if he our Conqueror (whom I now
Of force believe Almighty, since no less
Than such could have o'erpower'd such force as	ours)
Have left us this our spirit and strength entire	146
Strongly to suffer and support our pains,
That we may so suffice his vengeful ire,
Or do him mightier service as his thralls
By right of war, whate'er his business be,	150
Here in the heart of Hell to work in fire,
Or do his errands in the gloomy deep;
What can it then avail, though yet we feel
Strength undiminish'd, or eternal being,	155
To undergo eternal punishment? Whereto with speedy words the Archfiend replie.
Fallen cherub! to be weak is miserable,	u.
Doing or suffering: but of this be sure,
To do aught good never will be our task,
But ever to do ill our sole delight,	160
As being the contrary to his high will
Whom we resist. If then his providence
Out of our evil seek to bring forth good,
Our labour must be to pervert that end,
And out of good still to find means of evil;	165
Which ofttimes may succeed so as perhaps

8 PARADISE LOST. Shall grieve him, if I fail not, and disturb His inmost counsels from their destined aim. But see! the angry victor hath recall'd His ministers of vengeance and pursuit 170 Back to the gates of Heaven: the sulphurous hail, Shot after us in storm, o'erblown, hath laid The fiery surge, that from the precipice Of Heaven received us falling; and the thunder, Wing'd with red lightning and impetuous rage, 175 Perhaps hath spent his shafts, and ceases now To bellow through the vast and boundless deep Let us not slip the occasion, whether scorn, Or satiate fury, yield it from our Foe. Seest thou you dreary plain, forlorn and wild, 180 The seat of desolation, void of light, Save what the glimmering of these livid flames Casts pale and dreadful? Thither let us tend From off the tossing of these fiery waves; There rest, if any rest can harbour there; 185 And, reassembling our afflicted Powers, Consult how we may henceforth most offend Our Enemy; our own loss how repair How overcome this dire calamity; What reinforcement we may gain from hope; 190 If not, what resolution from despair. Thus Satan talking to his nearest mate With head uplift above the wave, and eyes That sparkling blazed; his other parts besides

Prone on the flood, extended long and large, Lay floating many a rood; in bulk as huge As whom the fables name of monstrous size, Titanian, or Earth-born, that war'd on Jove Briarcos or Typhon, whom the den By ancient Tarsus held; or that seabeast Leviathan, which God of all his works Created hugest that swim the ocean stream: Him, haply, slumbering on the Norway foam The pilot of some small night-founder'd skiff

And leave a singed bottom all involved With stench and smoke: such resting found the sole Of unbless'd feet. Him follow'd his next mate: Both glorying to have scaped the Stygian flood As Gods, and by their own recover'd strength, 240

Not by the sufferance of supernal Power.

Is this the region, this the soil, the clime,

Said then the lost Archangel, this the seat That we must change for Heaven; this mournful gloom For that celestial light? Be it so! since he, 245 Who now is Sov'reign, can dispose and bid What shall be right: furthest from him is best, Whom reason hath equal'd, force hath made supreme Above his equals. Farewell, happy fields, Where joy for ever dwells! Hail horrors! hail, Infernal world! And thou, profoundest Hell, Receive thy new possessor! one who brings A mind not to be changed by place or time: The mind is its own place, and in itself Can make a Heaven of Hell, a Hell of Heaven. What matter where, if I be still the same, And what I should be; all but less than he Whom thunder hath made greater? Here at least We shall be free; the Almighty hath not built Here for his envy; will not drive us hence: 260 Here we may reign secure, and, in my choice, To reign is worth ambition, though in Hell: Better to reign in Hell than serve in Heaven! But wherefore let we then our faithful friends, The associates and copartners of our loss 265 Lie thus astonished on the oblivious pool, And call them not to share with us their part In this unhappy mansion; or once more With rallied arms to try what may be yet Regain'd in Heaven, or what more lost in Hell? 270 So Satan spake; and him Beelzebub Thus answer'd. Leader of those armies bright, Which but the Omnipotent none could have foil'd! If once they hear that voice, their liveliest pledge. Of hope in fears and dangers, heard so oft In worst extremes, and on the perilous edge Of battle when it raged, in all assaults Their surest signal, they will soon resume New courage and revive; though now they lie

Groveling and prostrate on von lake of fire.

As we erewhile, astounded and amazed : No wonder, fallen such a pernicious height. He scarce had ceased, when the superior Fiend Was moving toward the shore: his ponderous shield, Ethereal temper, massy, large, and round, 285 Behind him cast: the broad circumference Hung on his shoulders like the moon, whose orb Through optic glass the Tuscan artist views At Evening from the top of Fesolé, Or in Valdarno, to descry new lands, 290 Rivers, or mountains, in her spotty globe. His spear, to equal which the tallest pine Hewn on Norwegian hills, to be the mast Of some great ammiral, were but a wand, He walk'd with, to support uneasy steps 295 Over the burning marle, not like those steps On Heaven's azure; and the torrid clime Smote on him sore besides, vaulted with fire: Nathless he so endured, till on the beach Of that inflamed sea he stood, and call'd 300 His legions, Angel forms, who lay entranced Thick as autumnal leaves that strow the brooks, In Vallambrosa, where the Etrurian shades, High overarch'd, imbower; or scatter'd sedge Affoat, when with fierce winds Orion arm'd 305 Hath vex'd the Red Seacoast, whose waves o'erthrew Busiris and his Memphian chivalry, While with perfidious hatred they pursued The sojourners of Goshen, who beheld From the safe shore their floating carcasses 310 And broken chariot wheels: so thick bestrown. Abject and lost lay these, covering the flood, Under amazement of their hideons change. He call'd so loud, that all the hollow deep Of Hell resounded! Princes, Potentates,

315 Warriors, the flower of Heaven! once yours, now lost, If such astonishment as this can seize Eternal Spirits; or have ye chosen this place

Pour'd never from her frozen loins, to pass Rhene or the Danaw, when her barbarous sons Came like a deluge on the South, and spread Beneath Gibraltar to the Libyan sands.

Forthwith from every squadron, and each band,

The heads and leaders thither haste where stood Their great Commander; Godlike shapes, and forms Excelling human; princely Dignities; And Powers that erst in Heaven sat on thrones; Though of their names in heavenly records now Be no memorial; blotted out and rased By their rebellion from the bock of life. Nor had they yet among the sons of Eve 364 Got them new names; till, wandering o'er the earth, Through God's high sufferance for the trial of man, By falsities and lies the greatest part Of mankind they corrupted to forsake God their creator, and the invisible Glory of him that made them to transform 370 Oft to the image of a brute, adorn'd With gay religions full of pomp and gold, And Devils to adore for Deities: Then were they known to men by various names And various idols through the Heathen world. Say, Muse, their names then known; who first, who last, Roused from the slumber, on that fiery couch, At their great Emperor's call, as next in worth Came singly where he stood on the bare strand. While the promiscuous crowd stood vet aloof. 380 The chief were those, who from the pit of Hell Roaming to seek their prey on earth, durst fix Their seats long after next the seat of God, Their altars by his altar; Gods adored Among the nations round: and durst abide 385 Jehovah thundering out of Sion, throned Between the cherubim; yea, often placed Within his sanctuary itself their shrines, Abominations: and with cursed things His holy rites and solemn feasts profaned, 390 And with their darkness durst affront his light. First, Moloch, horrid king, besmear'd with blood Of human sacrifice, and parents' tears;

Though, for the noise of drums and timbrels loud.

Their children's cries unheard, that pass'd though	fire,
To his grim idol. Him the Ammonite	396
Worship'd in Rabba and her watery plain,
In Argob and in Basan, to the stream
Of utmost Arnon; Nor content with such
Audacious neighbourhood, the wisest heart	400
Of Solomon he led by fraud to build
His temple right against the temple of God
On that opprobrious hill: and made his grove
The pleasant valley of Hinnom, Tophet thence
And black Gehenna call'd, the type of Hell.	405
Next, Chemos, the obscene dread of Moab's sons,
From Aroer to Nebo, and the wild
Of southmost Abarim; in Hesebon
And Horonaim, Seon's realm, beyond
The flowery dale of Sibma clad with vines;	410
And Elealé to the Asphaltic pool.
Peor his other name, when he enticed
Israel in Sittim, on their march from Nile,
To do him wanton rites, which cost them woe.
Yet thence his lustful orgies he enlarged	415
Even to that hill of scandal, by the grove
Of Moloch homicide; lust hard by hate;
Till good Josiah drove them thence to Hell.
With these came they, who, from the bordering fl	ood
Of old Euphrates to the brook that parts	420
Egypt from Syrian ground, had general names
Of Baälim and Ashtaroth; those male,
These feminine; For Spirits, when they please,
Can either sex assume, or both; so soft
And uncompounded is their essence pure,	425
Not tied or manacled with joint or limb,
Nor founded on the brittle strength of bones,
Like cumbrous flesh; but, in what shape they cho	ose,
Dilated or condensed, bright or obscure,
Can execute their aery purposes,	430
And works of love or ennity fulfil.
For those the race of Israel oft forsook

Their Living Strength, and unfrequented left
His righteous altar, bowing lowly down
To bestial Gods; for which their heads as low	435
Bow'd down in battle, sunk before the spear
Of despicable foes. With these in troop
Came Astoreth, whom the Phænicians call'd
Astarté, queen of Heaven, with crescent horns
To whose bright image nightly by the moon	440
Sidonian virgins paid their vows and songs;
In Sion also not unsung, where stood
Her temple on the offensive mountain, built
By that uxorious king, whose heart, though large	,
Beguiled by fair idolatresses, fell	445
To idols foul. Thammuz came next behind,
Whose annual wound in Lebanon allured
The Syrian damsels to lament his fate
In amorous ditties all a summer's day;
While smooth Adonis from his native rock	450
Ran purple to the sea, supposed with blood
Of Thammuz yearly wounded: the love tale
Infected Sion's daughters with like heat;
Whose wanton passions in the sacred porch
Ezekiel saw, when, by the vision led,	455
His eye survey'd the dark idolatries
Of alienated Judah. Next came one
Who mourn'd in earnest, when the captive ark
Maim'd his brute image, head and hands lopp'd of	Œ
In his own temple, on the grunsel edge,	460
Where he fell flat, and shamed his worshippers:
Dagon his name, sea monster, upward man
And downward fish: yet had his temple high
Rear'd in Azotus, dreaded through the coast
Of Palestine, in Gath and Ascalon,	465
And Accaron and Gaza's frontier bounds.
Him follow'd Rimmon, whose delightful seat
Was fair Damascus, on the fertile banks
Of Abbana and Pharphar, lucid streams.
He also against the house of God was bold.	470

A leper once he lost, and gain'd a king; Ahaz, his sottish conqueror, whom he drew God's altar to disparage, and displace, For one of Syrian mode, whereon to burn His odious offerings, and adore the Gods 475 Whom he had vanquish'd. After these appear'd A crew, who, under names of old renown. Osiris, Isis, Orus, and their train, With monstrous shapes and sorceries abused Fanatic Egypt, and her priests to seek Their wandering Gods disguised in brutish forms Rather than human. Nor did Israel scape The infection, when their berrow'd gold composed The calf in Oreb; and the rebel king Doubled that sin in Bethel and in Dan. 485 Likening his Maker to the grazed ox; Jehovah, who in one night, when he pass'd From Egypt marching, equal'd with one stroke Both her first-born and all her bleating Gods. Belial came last, than whom a Spirit more lewd 490 Fell not from Heaven, or more gross to love Vice for itself: to him no temple stood Or altar smoked: yet who more oft than he In temples and at altars, when the priest Turns atheist, as did Eli's sons, who fill'd 495 With lust and violence the house of God? In courts and palaces he also reigns, And in luxurious cities, where the noise Of riot ascends above their loftiest towers, And injury and outrage: And when night 500 Darkens the streets, then wander forth the sons Of Belial, flown with insolence and wine. Witness the streets of Sodom, and that night In Gibeah, when the hospitable door Exposed a matron, to avoid worse rape. 505 These were the prime in order, and in might; The rest were long to tell, though far renown'd, The Ionian Gods, of Javan's issue; held

Gods, yet confess'd later than Heaven and Earth,
Their boasted parents: Titan, Heaven's first-born,510
With his enormous brood, and birthright seized
By younger Saturn; he from mightier Jove,
His own and Rhea's son, like measure found;
So Jove usurping reign'd these first in Crete
And Ida known, thence on the snowy top
Of cold Olympus ruled the middle air,
Their highest Heaven; or on the Delphian cliff,
Or in Dodona, and through all the bounds
Of Doric land; or who with Saturn old
Fled over Adria to the Hesperian fields,
And o'er the Celtic roam'd the utmost isles.

All these and more came flocking; but with looks Downcast and damp; yet such wherein appear'd Obscure some glimpse of joy, to have found their Chief Not in despair, to have found themselves not lost 525 In loss itself: which on his countenance cast Like doubtful hue: but he, his wonted pride Soon recollecting, with high words, that bore Semblance of worth, not substance, gently raised Their fainting courage, and dispell'd their fears. Then straight commands, that at the warlike sound Of trumpets loud and clarions be uprear'd His mighty standard: that proud honour claim'd Azazel as his right, a Cherub tall; Who forthwith from the glittering staff unfurl'd The imperial ensign; which, full high advanced, Shone like a meteor streaming to the wind, · With gems and golden lustre rich emblazed, Seraphic arms and trophies; all the while Sonorous metal blowing martial sounds: 540 At which the universal host up sent A shout, that tore Hell's concave, and beyond Frighted the reign of Chaos and old Night. All in a moment through the gloom were seen Ten thousand banners rise into the air 545 With orient colours waving · with them rose

Their number last he sums. And now his heart Distends with pride, and hardening in his strength Glories: for never, since created man, Met such imbodied force, as named with these Could merit more than that small infantry 575 Warr'd on by cranes; though all the giant broad Of Phlegra with the heroic race were join'd That fought at Thebes and Ilium, on each side

580

In fable or romance of Uther's son Begirt with British and Armoric knights; And all who since, baptized or infidel, Jousted in Aspramont, or Montalban, Damasco, or Marocco, or Trebisond,

Mix'd with auxiliar Gods; and what resounds

PARADISE LOST.	19
Or whom Biserta sent from Afric shore,	585
When Charlemain with all his peerage fell
By Fontarabbia. Thus far these beyond
Compare of mortal prowess, yet observed
Their dread Commander; he, above the rest
In shape and gesture proudly eminent,	590
Stood like a tower: his form had yet not lost
All her original brightness; nor appear'd
Less than Archangel ruin'd, and the excess
Of glory obscured: as when the sun, new risen
Looks through the horizontal misty air	595
Shorn of his beams; or from behind the moon,
In dim eclipse, disastrous twilight sheds
On half the nations, and with fear of change
Perplexes monarchs. Darken'd so, yet shone
Above them all the Archangel: but his face	600
Deep scars of thunder had intrench'd; and care
Sat on his faded cheek, but under brows
Of dauntless courage, and considerate pride
Waiting revenge: cruel his eye, but cast
Signs of remorse and passion, to behold	605
The fellows of his crime, the followers rather (Far other once beheld in bliss), condemn'd
For ever now to have their lot in pain;
Millions of Spirits for his fault amerced
Of Heaven, and from eternal splendours flung	610
For his revolt; yet faithful how they stood,
Their glory wither'd: as when Heaven's fire
Hath scathed the forest oaks, or mountain pine;
With singed top their stately growth, though bare	,
Stands on the blasted heath. He now prepared	615
To speak; whereat their doubled ranks they bend
From wing to wing, and half enclose him round
With all his peers: Attention held them mute.
Thrice he essay'd, and thrice, in spite of scorn,
Tears, such as Angels weep, burst forth: at last	620
Words, interwove with sighs, found out their way
O Myriads of immortal Spirits! O Powers

Matchless, but with the Almighty! and that strife Was not inglorious, though the event was dire, As this place testifies, and this dire change 625 Hateful to utter: but what power of mind, Foreseeing or presaging, from the depth Of knowledge past or present, could have fear'd, How such united force of Gods, how such As stood like these, could ever know repulse? 630 For who can yet believe, though after loss, 'That all these puissant legions, whose exile Hath emptied Heaven, shall fail to reascend Self-raised, and repossess their native seat? For me, be witness all the host of Heaven, 635 If counsels different, or dangers shunn'd By me have lost our hopes. But he, who reigns Monarch in Heaven, till then as one secure Sat on his throne, upheld by old repute, Censent or custom; and his regal state 640 Put forth at full, but still his strength conceal'd, Which tempted our attempt, and wrought our fall. Henceforth his might we know, and know our own; So as not either to provoke, or dread New war, provoked: our better part remains 645 To work in close design, by fraud or guile, What force effected not: that he no less At length from us may find, who overcomes By force, hath overcome but half his foe. Space may produce new worlds; whereof so rife 650 There went a fame in Heaven that he ere long Intended to create, and therein plant A generation, whom his choice regard Should favour equal to the sons of Heaven Thither, if but to pry, shall be perhaps 655 Our first eruption; thither or elsewhere: For this infernal pit shall never hold Celestia. Spirits in bondage, nor the abyss Long under darkness cover. But these thoughts Full counsel must mature . Peace is despair'd: 660

695

For who can think submission? War then, War Open or understood must be resolved.

There stood a hill not far, whose grisly top

He spake: and, to confirm his words, out flew
Millions of flaming swords, drawn from the thighs
Of mighty Cherubim; the sudden blaze
665
Far round illumined hell: Highly they raged
Against the Highest, and fierce with grasped arms
Clash'd on their sounding shields the din of war,
Hurling defiance toward the vault of heaven.

Belch'd fire and rolling smoke; the rest entire Shone with a glossy scurf; undoubted sign That in his womb was hid metallic ore, The work of sulphur. Thither, wing'd with speed, A numerous brigade hasten'd: as when bands 675 Of pioneers, with spade and pickaxe arm'd, Forerun the royal camp, to trench a field, Or cast a rampart. Mammon led them on, Mammon, the least erected Spirit that fell [thoughts From Heaven; for e'en in Heaven his looks and Were always downward bent, admiring more The riches of Heaven's pavement, trodden gold, Than ought divine or holy else enjoy'd In vision beatific: by him first Men also, and by his suggestion taught, 685 Ransack'd the centre, and with impious hands Rifled the bowels of their mother Earth For treasures, better hid. Soon had his crew Open'd into the hill a spacious wound, And digg'd out ribs of gold. Let none admire 690 That riches grow in Hell; that soil may best Deserve the precious bane. And here let those,

Who boast in mortal things, and wondering tell Of Babel, and the works of Memphian kings, Learn how their greatest monuments of fame, And strength, and art, are easily outdone By Spirits reprobate, and in an hour,

What in an age they with incessant toil

And hands innumerable scarce perform. Nigh on the plain, in many cells prepared, 700 That underneath had veins of liquid fire Sluiced from the lake, a second multitude With wondrous art founded the massy ore, Severing each kind, and scumm'd the bullion dross. A third as soon had form'd within the ground 705 A various mould, and from the boiling cells By strange conveyance fill'd each hollow nook; As in an organ, from one blast of wind, To many a row of pipes the soundboard breathes. Anon, out of the earth, a fabric huge 710 Rose like an exhalation, with the sound Of dulcet symphonies and voices sweet, Built like a temple, where pilasters round Were set, and Doric pillars overlaid With golden architrave; nor did there want 715 Cornice or frieze, with bossy sculptures graven: The roof was fretted gold. Not Babylon, Nor great Alcairo, such magnificence Equal'd in all their glories, to enshrine Belus or Scrapis, their Gods; or seat 720 Their kings, when Egypt with Assyria strove In wealth and luxury. The ascending pile Stood fix'd her stately height; and straight the doors, Opening their brazen folds, discover, wide Within, her ample spaces, o'er the smooth 725 And level pavement: from the arched roof Pendant by subtle magic, many a row Of starry lamps and blazen cressets, fed With Naphtha and Asphaltus, yielded light As from a sky. The hasty multitude 730 Admiring enter'd; and the work some praise, And some the architect: his hand was known In Heaven by many a tower'd structure high, Where sceptred Angels held their residence, And sat as princes: whom the supreme King 735 Exalted to such power, and gave to rule,

Each in his hierarchy, the orders bright. Nor was his name unheard, or unadored, In ancient Greece; and in Ausonian land Men call'd him Mulciber; and how he fell 740 From Heaven they fabled, thrown by angry Jove Sheer o'er the crystal battlements: from morn To noon he fell, from noon to dewy eve, A summer's day; and with the setting sun Dropp'd from the zenith like a falling star, 745 On Lemnos the Ægean isle: thus they relate, Erring; for he with his rebellious rout Fell long before; nor aught avail'd him now To have built in Heaven high towers; nor did he scape By all his engines, but was headlong sent 750 With his industrious crew to build in Hell. Meanwhile the winged heralds, by command Of sov'reign power, with awful ceremony And trumpet's sound, throughout the host proclaim A solemn council, forthwith to be held 755 At Pandemonium; the high capital Of Satan and his peers: their summons call'd From every band and squared regiment By place or choice the worthiest; they anon, With hundreds and with thousands, trooping came, Attended: all access was throng'd; the gates 761 And porches wide, but chief the spacious hall (Though like a cover'd field, where champions bold Wont ride in arm'd and at the Soldan's chair Defied the best of Panim chivalry 765 To mortal combat, or career with lance,) Thick swarm'd both on the ground and in the air Brush'd with the hiss of rustling wings. As bees In spring time, when the sun with Taurus rides. Pour forth their populous youth about the hive In clusters; they among fresh dews and flowers Fly to and fro, or on the smoothed plank.

The suburb of their strawbuilt citadel, New rubb'd with balm, expatiate and confer

Their state affairs. So thick the aery crowd 775 Swarm'd and were straiten'd; till, the signal given Behold a wonder! They but now who seem'd In bigness to surpass Earth's giant sons, Now less than smallest dwarfs, in narrow room Throng numberless, like that Pygmean race Beyond the Indian mount: or fairy elves, Whose midnight revels, by a forest side Or fountain, some belated peasant sees Or dreams he sees, while overhead the moon Sits arbitress, and nearer to the earth Wheels her pale course; they, on their mirth and dance Intent, with jocund music charm his ear; At once with joy and fear his heart rebounds. Thus incorporeal Spirits to smallest forms Reduced their shapes immense, and were at large, 790 Though without number still, amidst the hall Of that infernal court. But far within, And in their own dimensions, like themselves, The great Seraphic Lords and Cherubim In close recess and secret conclave sat ; A thousand Demi-gods on golden seats. Frequent and full. After short silence then,

And summons read, the great consult began

PARADISE LOST.

BOOK II.

Phe consultation begun, Satan debates whether another battle be to be hazarded for the recovery of Heaven; Some advise it, others dissuade: A third proposal is preferred, mentioned before by Satan, to search the truth of that prophecy or tradition in Heaven concerning another world, and another kind of creature equal or not much inferior to themselves, about this time to be created: Their doubt, who shall be sent on this difficult search; Satan their chief undertakes alone the voyage, is honoured and applauded. The council thus ended, the rest betake them several ways, and to several employments, as their inclinations lead them, to entertain the time till Satan return. He passes on his journey to Hell gates; finds them shut, and who sat there to guard them: by whom at length they are opened, and discover to him the great gulf between Hell and Heaven; with what difficulty he passes through, directed by Chaos, the Power of that place, to the sight of this new world which he sought.

High on a throne of royal state, which far

Outshone the wealth of Ormus and of Ind, Or where the gorgeous East with richest hand Showers on her kings barbaric pearl and gold, Satan exalted sat, by merit raised To that bad eminence: and, from despair Thus high uplifted beyond hope, aspires Beyond thus high: insatiate to pursue Vain war with Heaven; and, by success, untaught, His proud imaginations thus display'd. 10 Powers and Dominions, Deities of Heaven! For since no deep within her gulf can hold Immortal vigour, though oppress'd and fallen, I give not Heaven for lost. From this descent Celestial virtues rising will appear 15 More glorious and more dread than from no fall, And trust themselves to fear no second fate. Me though just right and the fix'd laws of Heaven Did first create your Leader; next, free choice, With what besides, in counsel or in fight, 26 Hath been achieved of merit: vet this loss.

Thus far at least recover'd, hath much more Establish'd in a safe unenvied throne, Yielded with full consent. The happier state In heaven, which follows dignity, might draw Envy from each inferior; but who here Will envy whom the highest place exposes Foremost to stand against the Thunderer's aim, Your bulwark, and condemns to greatest share Of endless pain? Where there is then no good 30 For which to strive, no strife can grow up there From faction; for none sure will claim in Hell Precedence; none, whose portion is so small Of present pain, that with ambitious mind Will covet more. With this advantage then 35 To union, and firm faith, and firm accord, More than can be in Heaven, we now return To claim our just inheritance of old. Surer to prosper than prosperity Could have assured us; and, by what best way, 40 Whether of open war, or covert guile, We now debate: Who can advise may speak.

He ceased: and next to him Moloch, sceptred king, Stood up, the strongest and the fiercest Spirit That fought in Heaven, now fiercer by despair:
His trust was with the Eternal to be deem'd Equal in strength; and rather than be less Cared not to be at all; with that care lost Went all his fear: of God, or Hell, or worse, He reck'd not; and these words thereafter spake.

My sentence is for open war: Of wiles,
More unexpert, I boast not: them let those
Contrive who need, or when they need; not now,
For, while they sit contriving, shall the rest,
Millions that stand in arms, and longing wait
The signal to ascend, sit lingering here
Heaven's fugitives, and for their dwelling place
Accept this dark opprobrious den of shame,
The prison of his tyranny who reigns

PARADISE LOST.	27
By our delay? No! let us rather choose	60
Arm'd with Hell flames and fury, all at once,
O'er Heaven's high towers to force resistless way,
Turning our tortures into horrid arms
Against the Torturer; when to meet the noise
Of his Almighty engine he shall hear	65
Infernal thunder; and, for lightning, see
Black fire and horror shot with equal rage
Among his Angels; and his throne itself
Mix'd with Tartarean sulphur and strange fire,
His own invented torments. But perhaps	70
The way seems difficult and steep to scale
With upright wing against a higher foe.
Let such bethink them, if the sleepy drench
Of that forgetful lake benumb not still,
That in our proper motion we ascend	75
Up to our native seat: Descent and fall
To us is adverse. Who but felt of late,
When the fierce Foe hung on our broken rear
Insulting, and pursued us through the deep,
With what compulsion and laborious flight	80
We sunk thus low? The ascent is easy then;	9
The event is fear'd; should we again provoke
Our stronger, some worse way his wrath may find
To our destruction; if there be in Hell
Fear to be worse destroy'd: What can be worse	85
That to dwell here, driven out from bliss, condemn	'd
In this abhorred deep to utter woe;
Where pain of unextinguishable fire
Must exercise us without hope of end,
The vassals of his anger, when the scourge	90
Inexorably, and the torturing hour
Calls us to penance! More destroy'd than thus,
We should be quite abolish'd, and expire.
What fear we then? what doubt we to incense
His utmost ire? which, to the height enraged,	95
Will either quite consume us, and reduce
To nothing this essential; happier far

Than miserable to have eternal being
Or if our substance be indeed divine,
And cannot cease to be, we are at worst
On this side nothing; and by proof we feel
Our power sufficient to disturb his heaven,
And with perpetual inroads to alarm,
Though inaccessible, his fatal throne
Which, if not victory, is yet revenge.
He ended frowning, and his look denounced
Desperate revenge, and battle dangerous
To less than Gods. On the other side uprose
Belial, in act more graceful and humane:

Belial, in act more graceful and humane:
A fairer person lost not Heaven; he seem'd
For dignity composed, and high exploit:
But all was false and hollow; though his tongue
Dropp'd manna, and could make the worse appear
The better reason, to perplex and dash
Maturest counsels: for his thoughts were low
To vice industrious, but to nobler deeds
Fimorous and slothful: yet he pleased the ear,
And with persuasive accent thus began.
I should be much for open war, O Peers,
As not behind in hate; if what was urged
Main reason to persuade immediate wer.

As not behind in hate; if what was urged Main reason to persuade immediate war Did not dissuade me most, and seem to cast Ominous conjecture on the whole success; When he, who most excels in fact of arms, In what he counsels, and in what excels, Mistrustful, grounds his courage on despair Axd utter dissolution, as the scope

Of all his aim, after some dire revenge.

First, what revenge? The towers of Heaven are fill'd
With armed watch, that render all access

Impregnable: oft on the bordering deep Encamp their legions; or, with obscure wing Scout far and wide into the realm of night, Scorning surprise. Or could we break our way By force, and at our heels all Hell should rise

PARADISE LOST.

With blackest insurrection, to confound Heaven's purest light; yet our great Enemy, All incorruptible, would on his throne Sit unpolluted; and the ethereal mould, Incapable of stain, would soon expel 140 Her mischief, and purge off the baser fire, Victorious. Thus repulsed, our final hope Is flat despair: We must exasperate The Almighty Victor to spend all his rage, And that must end us; that must be our cure, 145 To be no more. Sad cure! for who would lose, Though full of pain, this intellectual being, Those thoughts that wander through eternity To perish rather, swallow'd up and lost In the wide womb of uncreated night, 15C Devoid of sense and motion? And who knows, Let this be good, whether our angry Foe Can give it, or will ever? how he can, Is doubtful; that he never will, is sure. Will he, so wise, let loose at once his ire, 155 Belike through impotence, or unaware, To give his enemies their wish, and end Them in his anger, whom his anger saves To punish endless? Wherefore cease we then? Say they who counsel war; we are decreed, 160 Reserved, and destined to eternal woe; Whatever doing, what can we suffer more, What can we suffer worse? Is this then worst, Thus sitting, thus consulting, thus in arms? What! when we fled amain, pursued, and struck 165 With Heaven's afflicting thunder, and besought The deep to shelter us? This Hell then seem'd A refuge from those wounds; or when we lay Chain'd on the burning lake? That sure was worse. What if the breath, that kindled those grim fires, 170 Awaked, should blow them into sevenfold rage, And plunge us in the flames? or, from above, Should intermitted vengeance arm again

30

That so ordains: This was at first resolved. If we were wise, against so great a Foe Contending, and so doubtful what might fall. I laugh, when those who at the spear are bold And venturous, if that fail them, shrink and fear 205 What yet they know must follow, to endure Exile, or ignominy, or bonds, or pain,

The sentence of their Conqueror: This is now Our doom; which if we can sustain and bear, Our Supreme Foe in time may much remit

His anger; and perhaps, thus far removed

Not mind us not offending, satisfied
With what is punish'd; whence these raging fires	,
Will slacken, if his breath stir not their flames.
Our purer essence then will overcome	215
Their noxious vapour; or, inured, not feel;
Or changed at length, and to the place conform'd
In temper and in nature, will receive
Familiar the fierce heat, and void of pain;
This horror will grow mild, this darkness light;	220
Besides what hope the never ending flight
Of future days may bring, what chance, what cha	nge
Worth waiting; since our present lot appears
For happy though but ill, for ill not worst,
If we procure not to ourselves more woe.	225
Thus Belial, with words clothed in reason's gar!	b,
Counsel'd ignoble ease, and peaceful sloth,
Not peace: And after him thus Mammon spake
Either to disenthrone the King of Heaven
We war, if war be best, or to regain	230
Our own right lost: Him to unthrone we then
May hope, when everlasting Fate shall yield
To fickle Chance, and Chaos judge the strife:
The former, vain to hope, argues as vain
The latter: For what place can be for us	235
Within Heaven's bound, unless Heaven's Lord supr	eme
We overpower? Suppose he should relent,
And publish grace to all, on promise made
Of new subjection; with what eyes could we
Stand in his presence humble, and receive	240
Strict laws imposed, to celebrate his throne
With warbled hymns and to his Godhead sing
Forced Hallelujahs: while he lordly sits
Our envied Sov'reign, and his altar breather
Ambrosial odours and ambrosial flowers,	245
Our servile offerings? This must be our task in Heaven, this our delight; how wearisome
Eternity so spent, in worship paid
To whom we hate! Let us not then presume

By force impossible, by leave obtain'd 250 Unacceptable, though in Heaven, our state Or splendid vassalage; but rather seek Our own good from ourselves, and from our own Live to ourselves, though in this vast recess, Free, and to none accountable, preferring 255 Haig liberty before the easy yoke Of servile pomp. Our greatness will appear Then most conspicuous, when great things of small, Useful of hurtful, prosperous of adverse. We can create; and in what place soe'er 260 Thrive under evil, and work ease out of pain, Through labour and endurance. This deep world Of darkness do we dread? How oft amidst Thick clouds and dark doth Heaven's all-ruling Sire Choose to reside, his glory unobscured, 265 And with the majesty of darkness round Covers his throne; from whence deep thunders roar Mustering their rage, and Heaven resembles Hell? As he our darkness, cannot we his light Imitate when we please? This desert soil 270 Wants not her hidden lustre, gems and gold; Nor want we skill or art, from whence to raise Magnificence; and what can Heaven show more? Our torments also may in length of time Become our elements; these piercing fires 275 As soft as now severe, our temper changed Into their temper; which must needs remove The sensible of pain. All things invite To peaceful counsels, and the settled state Of order, how in safety best we may Compose our present evils, with regard Of what we are, and where; dismissing quite All thoughts of war: Ye have what I advise. He scarce had finish'd, when such murmur fill'd The assembly as when hollow rocks retain The sound of blustering winds, which all night long

Had roused the sea, now with hoarse cadence lull

Seafaring men o'erwatch'd, whose bark by chance	,
Or pinnace, anchors in a craggy bay
After the tempest: Such applause was heard	290
As Maminon ended, and his sentence pleased,
Advising peace: for such another field
They dreaded worse than Hell: so much the fear
Of thunder and the sword of Michael
Wrought still within them; and no less desire	295
To found this nether empire, which might rise
By policy, and long process of time,
In emulation opposite to Heaven.
Which when Beëlzebub perceived, than whom
Satan except none higher sat, with grave	300
Aspéct he rose, and in his rising seem'd
A pillar of state; deep on his front engraven
Deliberation sat, and public care;
And princely counsel in his face yet shone,
Majestic though in ruin: sage he stood	305
With Atlantean shoulders fit to bare
The weight of mightiest monarchies; his look
Drew audience and attention still as night
Or summer's noontide air, while thus he spake.
Thrones and Imperial Powers, Offspring of Hea	ven,
Ethereal Virtues! or these titles now	311
Must we renounce, and, changing style, be call'd
Princes of Hell! for so the popular vote
Inclines, here to continue, and build up here
A growing empire; doubtless! while we dream,	315
And know not that the King of Heaven hath door	n'd
This place our dungeon; not our safe retreat
Beyond his potent arm, to live exempt
From Heaven's high jurisdiction, in new league
Banded against his throne, but to remain	320
In strictest bondage, though thus far removed
Under the inevitable curb, reserved
His captive multitude: For he, be sure
In height or depth, still first and last will reign
Sole king, and of his kingdom lose no part	325

By our revolt; but over Hell extend His empire, and with iron sceptre rule Us here, as with his golden those in Heaven. What sit we then projecting peace and war? War hath determined us, and foil'd with loss 330 Irreparable; terms of peace yet none Vouchsafed or sought; for what peace will be given To us enslaved, but custody severe, And stripes, and arbitrary punishment Inflicted? and what peace can we return, 335 But to our power hostility and hate, Untamed reluctance, and revenge though slow Yet ever plotting how the conqueror least May reap his conquest, and may least rejoice In doing what we most in suffering feel? 340 Nor will occasion want, nor shall we need With dangerous expedition to invade Heaven, whose high walls fear no assault nor siege, Or ambush from the deep. What if we find Some easier enterprise? There is a place 345 (If ancient and prophetic fame in Heaven Err not,) another world, the happy seat Of some new race call'd Man, about this time To be created like to us, though less In power and excellence, but favour'd more 350 Of Him who rules above; so was his will Pronounced among the Gods, and by an oath, That shook Heaven's whole circumference, confirm'd. Thither let us bend all our thoughts, to learn What creatures there inhabit, of what mould, 355 Or substance, how endued, and what their power, And where their weakness, how attempted best, By force or subtlety. Though Heaven be shut. And Heaven's high Arbitrator sit secure In his own strength, this place may lie exposed, 360 The utmost border of his kingdom, left To their defence who hold it: Here perhaps Some advantageous act may be achieved

PARADISE LOST.	35
By sudden onset; either with Hell fire	50
To waste his whole creation, or possess	365
All as our own, and drive, as we were driven,	000
The puny habitants; or, if not drive,
Seduce them to our party, that their God
May prove their foe, and with repenting hand
Abolish his own works. This would surpass	370
Common revenge, and interrupt his joy
In our confusion, and our joy upraise
In his disturbance; when his darling sons,
Hurl'd headlong to partake with us, shall curse
Their frail original, and faded bliss,	375
Faded so soon. Advise, if this be worth
Attempting, or to sit in darkness here
Hatching vain empires. Thus Beëlzebub
Pleaded his devilish counsel, first devised
By Satan, and in part proposed: For whence,	380
But from the author of all ill, could spring
So deep a malice, to confound the race
Of mankind in one root, and Earth with Hell
To mingle and involve, done all to spite
The great Creator? But their spite still serves	385
His glory to augment. The bold design
Pleased highly those infernal States, and joy
Sparkled in all their eyes; with full assent
They vote: whereat his speech he thus renews.
Well have ye judged, well ended long debate,	390
Synod of Gods! and, like to what ye are,
Great things resolved, which, from the lowest dee	p,
Will once more lift us up, in spite of fate,
	ırms
Of those bright confines, whence, with neighbou
And opportune excursion, we may chance	396
Reenter Heaven; or else in some mild zone
Dwell, not unvisited of Heaven's fair light,
Secure; and at the brightening orient beam
Purge off this gloom: the soft delicious air,	400
To heal the scar of these corrosive fires,

435

Shall breathe her balm. But first whom shall we send In search of this new world? whom shall we find Sufficient? who shall tempt with wandering feet The dark unbottom'd infinite abyss, 405 And through the palpable obscure find out His uncouth way, or spread his aery flight Upborne with indefatigable wings Over the vast abrupt, ere he arrive The happy isle? What strength, what art can then Suffice, or what evasion bear him safe 411 Through the strict senteries and stations thick Of Angels watching round? Here he had need All circumspection; and we now no less Choice in our suffrage; for on whom we send, 415 The weight of all, and our last hope, relies. This said he sat; and expectation held

This said he sat; and expectation held
His look suspense, awaiting who appear'd
To second, or oppose, or undertake
The perilous attempt: but all sat mute,
Pondering the danger with deep thought; and each
In other's countenance read his own dismay,
Astonish'd: None among the choice and prime
Of those heaven-warring champions could be found
So hardy as to proffer or accept,
Alone, the dreadful voyage; till at last
Satan, whom now transcendent glory raised
Above his fellows, with monarchal pride,
Conscious of highest worth, unmoved thus spake.

O Progeny of Heaven, empyreal Thrones! With reason hath deep silence and demur Seized us, though undismay'd: Long is the ways And hard, that out of Hell leads up to light; Our prison strong; this huge convex of fire, Outrageous to devour, immures us round Ninefold; and gates of burning adamant, Barr'd over us, prohibit all egress.

These pass'd, if any pass, the void profound Of unessential Night receives him next

PARADISE LOST.	37
Wide gaping, and with utter loss of being	440
Threatens him, plunged in that abortive gulf.
If thence ne scape into whatever world,
Or unknown region, what remains him less
Than unknown dangers and as hard escape?
But I should ill become this throne, O Peers,	445
And this imperial sov'reignty, adorn'd
With splendour, arm'd with power, if aught prop	osed
And judged of public moment, in the shape
Of difficulty or danger could deter
Me from attempting. Wherefore do I assume	450
These royalties, and not refuse to reign,
Refusing to accept as great a share
Of hazard as of honour, due alike
To him who reigns, and so much to him due
Of hazard more, as he above the rest	455
High honour'd sits? Go, therefore, mighty Pov	vers,
Terror of Heaven, though fallen! intend at hom	е,
While here shall be our home, what best may ea	se
The present misery, and render Hell
More tolerable; if there be cure or charm	460
To respite, or deceive, or slack the pain
Of this ill mansion: intermit no watch
Against a wakeful Foe, while I abroad
Through all the coasts of dark destruction seek
Deliverance for us all: This enterprise	465
None shall partake with me. Thus saying rose
The Monarch, and prevented all reply;
Prudent, lest, from his resolution raised,
Others among the chief might offer now
(Certain to be refused) what erst they fear'd;	470
And, so refused, might in opinion stand
His rivals; winning cheap the high repute
Which he through hazard huge must earn. Bu	t they

Dreaded not more the adventure than his voice

Of thunder heard remote. Towards him they bend

Forbidding; and at once with him they rose: Their rising all at once was as the sound

With awful reverence prone; and as a God Extol him equal to the Highest in Heaven: Nor fail'd they to express how much they praised 480 That for the general safety he despised His own: For neither do the Spirits damn'd Lose all their virtue; lest bad men should beast Their specious deeds on earth, which glory excites Or close ambition, varnish'd o'er with zeal. 485 Thus they their doubtful consultations dark Ended, rejoicing in their matchless Chief: As when from mountain tops the dusky clouds Ascending, while the north wind sleeps, o'erspread Heaven's cheerful face, the lowering element 490 Scowls o'er the darken'd landscape snow or shower; If chance the radiant sun with farewell sweet Extend his evening beam, the fields revive, The birds their notes renew, and bleating herds Attest their joy, that hill and valley ring. 495 O shame to men! Devil with Devil damn'd Firm concord holds: men only disagree Of creatures rational, though under hope Of heavenly grace: and, God proclaiming peace, Yet live in hatred, enmity, and strife 500 Among themselves, and levy cruel wars, Wasting the earth, each other to destroy: As if (which might induce us to-accord) Man had not hellish foes enow besides, That, day and night, for his destruction wait. 505 The Stygian council thus dissolved; and forth

In order came the grand infernal Peers: Midst came their mighty Paramount, and seem'd Alone the Antagonist of Heaven, nor less Than Hell's dread Emperor, with pomp supreme 510 And Godlike imitated state: him round A globe of fiery Seraphim enclosed

With bright emblazonry and horrent arms. Then of their session ended they bid cry With trumpets' regal sound the great result:

Toward the four winds four speedy Cherubim Put to their mouths the sounding alchemy, By herald's voice explain'd; the hollow abyss Heard far and wide, and all the host of Hell With deafening shout return'd them loud acclaim. 520 Thence more at ease their minds, and somewhat raised By false presumptuous hope, the ranged Powers Disband; and, wandering, each his several way Pursues, as inclination or sad choice Leads him perplex'd, where he may likeliest find 525 Truce to his restless thoughts, and entertain The irksome hours till his great Chief return. Part on the plain, or in the air sublime, Upon the wing, or in swift race contend, As at the Olympian games or Pythian fields; 530 Part curb their fiery steeds, or shun the goal With rapid wheels, or fronted brigades form. As when, to warn proud cities, war appears Waged in the troubled sky, and armies rush To battle in the clouds, before each van 535 Prick forth the aery knights, and couch their spears Till thickest legions close; with feats of arms From either end of Heaven the welkin burns. Others, with vast Typhæan rage more fell, Rend up both rocks and hills, and ride the air 540 In whirlwind; Hell scarce holds the wild uproar. As when Alcides, from Œchalia crown'd With conquest, felt the envenom'd robe, and tore Through pain up by the roots Thessalian pines; And Lichas from the top of Œta threw 545 Into the Euboic sea. Others more mild, Retreated in a silent valley, sing With notes angelical to many a harp Their own heroic deeds and hapless fall By doom of battle; and complain that fate 550 Free virtue should enthral to force or chance. Their song was partial; but the harmony (What could it less when spirits immortal sing?)

Suspended Hell, and took with ravishment The thronging audience. In discourse more sweet (For eloquence the soul, song charms the sense,) 556 Others apart sat on a hill retired, In thoughts more elevate, and reason'd high Of providence, foreknowledge, will, and fate; Fix'd fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute; 560 And found no end, in wandering mazes lost. Of good and evil much they argued then. Of happiness and final misery, Passion and apathy, and glory and shame; 565 Vain wisdom all, and false philosophy! Yet, with a pleasing sorcery, could charm Pain for a while or anguish, and exite Fallacious hopé, or arm the obdured breast With stubborn patience, as with triple steel. Another part, in squadrons and gross bands, On hold adventure to discover wide That dismal world, if any clime perhaps Might yield them easier habitation, bend Four ways their flying march, along the banks Of four infernal rivers that disgorge 575 Into the burning lake their baleful streams; Abhorred Styx, the flood of deadly hate; Sad Acheron, of sorrow, black and deep; Cocytus, named of lamentation loud Heard on the rueful stream; fierce Phlegethon, 580 Whose waves of torrent fire inflame with rage. Far off from these, a slow and silent stream. Lethe, the river of oblivion, rolls Her watery labyrinth, whereof who drinks Forthwith his former state and being forgets, 585 Forgets both joy and grief, pleasure and pain. Beyond this flood a frozen continent Lies dark and wild, beat with perpetual storms Of whirlwind and dire hail, which on firm land Thaws not, but gathers heap, and ruin seems 590 Of ancient pile; or else deep snow and ice,

A gulf profound, as that Serbonian bog Betwixt Damiata and mount Casius old, Where armies whole have sunk: The parching air Burns frore, and cold performs the effect of fire. 595 Thither by harpy-footed furies haled, At certain revolutions, all the damn'd Are brought; and feel by turns the bitter change Of fierce extremes, extremes by change more fierce, From beds of raging fire, to starve in ice 600 Their soft ethereal warmth, and there to pine Immovable, infix'd, and frozen round, Periods of time, thence hurried back to fire. They ferry over this Lethean sound Both to and fro, their sorrow to augment, 605 And wish and struggle, as they pass, to reach The tempting stream, with one small drop to lose In sweet forgetfulness all pain and woe, All in one moment, and so near the brink; But fate withstands, and to oppose the attempt 610 Medusa with Gorgonian terror guards The ford, and of itself the water flies All taste of living wight, as once it fled The lip of Tantalus. Thus roving on In confused march forlorn, the adventurous bands, 615 With shuddering horror pale, and eyes aghast, View'd first their lamentable lot, and found No rest: through many a dark and dreary vale They pass'd, and many a region dolorous, O'er many a frozen, many a fiery Alp, 620 Rocks, caves, lakes, fens, bogs, dens, and shades of death, A universe of death: which God by curse Created evil, for evil only good; Where all life dies, death lives, and nature breeds. Perverse, all monstrous, all prodigious things, 625 Abominable, inutterable, and worse Than fables yet have feign'd, or fear conceived, Gorgons, and Hydras, and Chimeras dire.

Satan, with thoughts inflamed of highest design. Puts on swift wings, and towards the gates of Hell Explores his solitary flight: sometimes He scours the right hand coast, sometimes the left: Now shaves with level wing the deep, then soars Up to the fiery concave towering high. 635 As when far off at sea a fleet descried Hangs on the clouds, by equinoctial winds Close sailing from Bengala, or the isles Of Ternate and Tidore, whence merchants bring Their spicy drugs; they, on the trading flood, 640 Through the wide Ethiopian to the Cape, Ply stemming nightly toward the pole: so seem'd Far off the flying Fiend. At last appear Hell bounds, high reaching to the horrid roof. And thrice threefold the gates; three folds were brass, Three iron, three of adamantine rock 646 Impenetrable, impaled with circling fire, Yet unconsumed. Before the gates there sat, On either side a formidable shape: The one seem'd woman to the waist, and fair ; 650 But ended foul in many a scaly fold Voluminous and vast; a serpent arm'd With mortal sting: About her middle round A cry of Hellhounds never ceasing bark'd With wide Cerberian mouths full loud, and rung 655 A hideous peal; yet, when they list, would creep, If aught disturb'd their noise, into her womb, And kennel there; yet there still bark'd and howl'd. Within, unseen. Far less abhorr'd than these Vex'd Scylla, bathing in the sea that parts 660 Calabria from the hoarse Trinacrian shore; Nor uglier follow the night hag, when, call'd In secret, riding through the air she comes, Lured with the smell of infant blood, to dance With Lapland witches, while the labouring moon 665 Eclipses at their charms. The other shape, If shape it might be call'd that shape had none

Distinguishable in member, joint, or limb;
Or substance might be call'd that shadow seem'd,
For each seem'd either; black it stood as Night,
Fierce as ten Furies, terrible as Hell,
And shook a dreadful dart; what seem'd his head
The likeness of a kingly crown had on.
Satan was now at hand, and from his seat
The monster moving onward came as fast
With horrid strides; Hell trembled as he strode.
With horrid strides; Hell trembled as he strode.
The undaunted Fiend what this might be admired;
Admired, not fear'd; God and his Son except,
Created thing nought valued he, nor shunn'd;
And with disdainful look thus first began:

Whence and what art thou, execrable shape!
That darest, though grim and terrible, advance
Thy miscreated front athwart my way.
To yonder gates? through them I mean to pass,
That be assured, without leave ask'd of thee:
Retire or taste thy folly; and learn by proof,

Hell-born! not to contend with Spirits of heaven.

To whom the Goblin full of wrath replied:
Art thou that Traitor-Angel, art thou He
Who first broke peace in Heaven, and faith, till then

Unbroken; and in proud rebellious arms

Orew after him the third part of Heaven's sons

Conjured against the Highest; for which both thou

And they, outcast from God, are here condemn'd

To waste eternal days in woe and pain?

Ostation of Heaven,

Hell-doom'd! and breathest defiance here and scorn,

Where I reign king; and, to enrage thee more,

Thy king and lord? Back to thy punishment.

Thy king and lord? Back to thy punishment,
False fugitive! and to thy speed add wings;
Lest with a whip of scorpions I pursue
Thy lingering; or with one stroke of this dart

Strange horror seize thee, and pangs unfelt before.

So spake the grisly Terror, and in shape,

So speaking and so threatening, grew tenfold 705

More dreadful and deform. On the other side, Incensed with indignation, Satan stood Unterrified; and like a comet burn'd, That fires the length of Ophiuchus huge In the arctic sky, and from his horrid hair 710 Shakes pestilence and war. Each at the head Level'd his deadly aim; their fatal hands No second stroke intend; and such a frown Each cast at th' other, as when two black clouds, With Heaven's artillery fraught, come rattling on 715 Over the Caspian; then stand front to front, Hovering a space, till winds the signal blow To join their dark encounter in mid air : So frown'd the mighty combatants that Hell Grew darker at their frown: so match'd they stood; For never but once more was either like 721 To meet so great a foe: And now great deeds Had been achieved, whereof all Hell had rung, Had not the snaky Sorceress that sat Fast by Hell-gate, and kept the fatal key, 725 Risen, and with hideous outcry rush'd between.

O Father! what intends thy hand, she cried, Against thy only Son? What fury, O Son! Possesses thee to bend that mortal dart Against thy father's head? and know'st for whom, For him who sits above, and laughs the while 731 At thee ordain'd his drudge; to execute Whate'er his wrath, which he calls justice, bids? His wrath, which one day will destroy ye both!

She spake, and at her words the hellish Pest 735

Forbore ; then these to her Satan return'd :

So strange thy outcry, and thy words so strange Thou interposest, that my sudden hand, Prevented, spares to tell thee yet by deeds What it intends; till first I know of thee 740 What thing thou art, thus double-form'd; and why. In this infernal vale first met, thou call'st Mc Father, and that phantasm call'st my Son :

I know thee not, nor ever saw till now
Sight more detestable than him and thee.	745
To whom thus the Portress of Hell-gate replied
Hast thou forgot me then, and do I seem
Now in thine eye so foul? once deem'd so fair
In Heaven, when at the assembly, and in sight
Of all the Seraphim with thee combined	750
In bold conspiracy against Heaven's King,
All on a sudden miserable pain
Surprised thee, dim thine eyes, and dizzy swam
In darkness, while thy head flames thick and fast
Threw forth; till, on the left side opening wide,	755
Likest to thee in shape and countenance bright
Then shining heavenly fair, a goddess arm'd,
Out of thy head I sprang; Amazement seized
All the host of Heaven; back they recoil'd afraid
At first, and call'd me Sin, and for a sign	760
Portentous held me; but, familiar grown,
I pleased, and with attractive graces won
The most averse, thee chiefly, who full oft
Thyself in me thy perfect image viewing
Becamest enamour'd; and such joy thou took'st	765
With me in secret that my womb conceived
A growing burden. Meanwhile war arose,
And fields were fought in Heaven; Wherein rema	in'd
(For what could else?) to our Almighty Foe
Clear victory; to our part loss and rout,	770
Through all the empyrean; down they fell
Driven headlong from the pitch of Heaven, down
Into this deep; and in the general fall
I also; at which time, this powerful key
Into my hand was given, with charge to keep	775
These gates for ever shut, which none can pass
Without my opening. Pensive here I sat
Alone; but long I sat not, till my womb
Pregnant by thee, and now excessive grown,
Prodigious motion felt, and rueful throcs.	780
At last this odious offspring whom thou seest.

Thine own begotten, breaking violent way Tore through my entrails, that, with fear and pain Distorted, all my nether shape thus grew Transform'd: But he my inbred enemy 785 Forth issued, brandishing his fatal dart Made to destroy! I fled, and cried out Death! Hell trembled at the hideous name, and sigh'd From all her caves, and back resounded Death! I fled; but he pursued (though more, it seems, 790 Inflamed with lust than rage,) and, swifter far, Me overtook, his mother, all dismay'd; And, in embraces forcible and foul Ingendering with me, of that rape begot These yelling monsters that with ceaseless cry 795 Surround me, as thou saw'st: hourly conceived And hourly born, with sorrow infinite To me; for, when they list, into the womb That bred them they return, and howl and gnaw My bowels, their repast; then bursting forth 800 Afresh with conscious terrors vex me round, That rest or intermission none I find. Before mine eyes in opposition sits Grim Death, my son and foe; who sets them on, And me his parent would full soon devour 805 For want of other prey, but that he knows His end with mine involved; and knows that I Should prove a bitter morsel, and his bane, Whenever that shall be; so Fate pronounced. But thou, O Father! I forewarn thee, shun 810 His deadly arrow; neither vainly hope To be invulnerable in those bright arms, Though temper'd heavenly; for that mortal dint. Save he who reigns above, none can resist. She finish'd; and the subtle Fiend his lore 815

She finish'd; and the subtle Fiend his lore
Soon learn'd, now milder, and thus answer'd smooth
Dear Daughter! since thou claim'st me for thy sire
And my fair son here show'st me, (the dear pledge
Of dalliance had with thee in Heaven, and joys

Then sweet, now sad to mention, through dire change Befallen us, unforeseen, unthought of) know, I come no enemy, but to set free From out this dark and dismal house of pain Both him and thee, and all the heavenly host Of Spirits, that, in our just pretences arm'd, 825 Fell with us from on high: From them I go This uncouth errand sole; and one for all Myself expose, with lonely steps to tread The unfounded deep, and through the void immense To search with wandering quest a place foretold Should be, and, by concurring signs, ere now Created vast and round, a place of bliss In the purlieus of Heaven, and therein placed A race of upstart creatures, to supply Perhaps our vacant room; though more removed, 835 Lest Heaven, surcharged with potent multitude, Might hap to move new broils. Be this or aught Than this more secret now design'd, I haste To know; and, this once known, shall soon return, And bring ye to the place where Thou and Death 840 Shall dwell at ease, and up and down unseen Wing silently the buxom air, embalm'd With odours; there ye shall be fed and fill'd Immeasurably, all things shall be your prey. He ceased, for both seem'd highly pleased; and Death Grinn'd horrible a ghastly smile, to hear 846 His famine should be fill'd; and bless'd his maw Destined to that good hour: No less rejoiced His mother bad, and thus bespeke her sire: The key of this infernal pit by due, 850 And by command of Heaven's all-powerful King, I keep; by him forbidden to unlock These adamantine gates; against all force

I keep; by him forbidden to unlock
These adamantine gates; against all force
Death ready stands to interpose his dart,
Fearless to be o'ermatch'd by living might
But what owe I to his commands above
Who hates me, and hath hither thrust me down

Eternal anarchy, amidst the noise
Of endless wars, and by confusion stand.
For hot, cold, moist, and dry, four champions fierce,
Strive here for mastery, and to battle bring
Their embryon atoms; they around the flag 900	Ľ

And by decision more embroils the fray,
By which he reigns: Next him, high arbiter,
Chance governs all. Into this wild abyss, 910	ļ:
The womb of Nature and perhaps her grave,
Of neither sea, nor shore, nor air, nor fire,
But all these in their pregnant causes mix'd
Confusedly, and which thus must ever fight,

His dark materials to create more worlds;
Into this wild abyss the wary Fiend
Stood on the brink of Hell, and look'd awhile,
Pondering his voyage; for no narrow frith
He had to cross. Nor was his ear less peal'd 920	¥

And Tumult and Confusion all embroil'd. And Discord with a thousand various mouths.

To whom Satan turning boldly, thus: Ye Powers And Spirits of this nethermost abyss, Chaos and ancient Night! I come no spy, 970

965

With purpose to explore or to distarb

The secrets of your realm: but, by constraint Wandering this darksome desert, as my way Lies through your spacious empire up to light, Alone, and without guide, half lost, I seek 975 What readiest path leads where your gloomy bounds Confine with Heaven; or if some other place, From your dominion won, the ethereal King Possesses lately, thither to arrive I travel this profound; direct my course; 980 Directed, no mean recompense it brings To your behoof: if I that region lost, All usurpation thence expell'd, reduce To her original darkness, and your sway (Which is my present journey,) and once more 985 Erect the standard there of ancient Night; Yours be the advantage all, mine the revenge! Thus Satan; and him thus the Anarch old, With faltering speech and visage incomposed, Answer'd: I know thee, stranger, who thou art, 990 That mighty leading Angel, who of late Made head against Heaven's King, though overthrown I saw and heard; for such a numerous host Fled not in silence through the frighted deep, With ruin upon ruin, rout on rout, 995 Confusion worse confounded; and Heaven gates Pour'd out by millions her victorious bands Pursuing. I upon my frontiers here Keep residence; if all I can will serve That little which is left so to defend, 1000 Encroach'd on still through your intestine broils Weakening the sceptre of old Night: first Hell, Your dungeon, stretching far and wide beneath; Now lately Heaven, and Earth, another world, Hung o'er my realm, link'd in a golden chain To that side Heaven from whence your legions fell If that way be your walk, you have not far; So much the nearer danger; go, and speed! Havoc, and spoil, and ruin are my gain.

He ceased; and Satan staid not to reply; 1010 But, glad that now his sea should find a shore, With fresh alacrity, and force renew'd, Springs upward, like a pyramid of fire, Into the wide expanse; and, through the shock Of fighting elements, on all sides round 1015 Environ'd, wins his way; harder beset And more endanger'd than when Argo pass'd Through Bosporus, betwixt the justling rocks: Or when Ulysses on the larboard shunn'd Charybdis, and by the other whirlpool steer'd. 1020 So he with difficulty and labour hard Moved on: with difficulty and labour he: But, he once pass'd, soon after, when man fell, Strange alteration! Sin and Death amain Following his track, such was the will of Heaven, Paved after him a broad and beaten way 1026 Over the dark abyss, whose boiling gulf Tamely endured a bridge of wondrous length, From Hell continued, reaching the utmost orb Of this frail world; by which the Spirits perverse With easy intercourse pass to and fro 1031 To tempt or punish mortals, except whom God and good Angels guard by special grace. But now at last the sacred influence Of light appears, and from the walls of Heaven 1035 Shoots far into the bosom of dim night A glimmering dawn; Here Nature first begins Her furthest verge, and Chaos to retire As from her outmost works a broken foe With tumult less, and with less hostile din; 1040 That Satan with less toil, and now with ease, Wafts on the calmer wave by dubious light; And, like a weather-beaten vessel, holds Gladly the port, though shrouds and tackle torn; Or in the emptier waste, resembling air, 1045 Weighs his spread wings, at leisure to behold Far off the empyrcal Heaven, extended wide

BOOK III.

End, sitting on his throne, sees Satan flying towards this world, then newly created; shows him to the Son, who sat at his right hand; foretels the success of Satan in perverting mankind; clears his own justice and wisdom from all imputation, having creat-ed Man free, and able enough to have withstood his tempter; yet declares his purpose of grace towards him, in regard he fell not of his own malice, as did Satan, but by him seduced. Son of God renders praises to his Father for the manifestation of his gracious purpose towards Man: But God again declares, that grace cannot be extended towards Man without the satisfaction of divine justice: Man hath offended the majesty of God by aspiring to Godhead, and, therefore, with all his progeny, devoted to death, must die, unless some one can be found sufficient to answer for his offence, and undergo his punishment. The Son of God freely offers himself a ransom for Man: The Father accepts him, ordains his incarnation, pronounces his exaltation above all names in Heaven and Earth; commands all the Angels to adore him: They obey, and hymning to their harps in full thoir, celebrate the Father and the Son. Meanwhile Satan alights upon the bare convex of this world's outermost orb; where wandering he first finds a place, since called the Limbo of Vanity: What persons and things fly up thither: Thence comes to the gate of Heaven, described ascending by stairs, and the waters above the firmament that flow about it: His passage thence to the orb of the sun; he finds there Uriel, the regent of that orb, but first changes himself into the shape of a meaner Angel; and, pretending a zealous desire to behold the new creation, and Man whom God had placed here, inquires of him the place of his habitation, and is directed: Alights first on mount Niphates.

Hall, holy Light, offspring of Heaven first-born, Or of the Eternal coeternal beam,
May I express thee unblamed? since God is light,
And never but in unapproached light
Dwelt from eternity; dwelt then in thee,
Bright effluence of bright essence increate!
Or hear'st thou rather, pure ethereal stream,
Whose fountain who shall tell? Before the sun,
Before the Heavens thou wert, and at the voice
Of God, as with a mantle, didst invest
The rising world of waters dark and deep
Won from the void and formless infinite.

Thee I revisit now with bolder wing,
Escaped the Stygian pool, though long detain'd
In that obscure sojourn, while in my flight	15
Through utter and through middle darkness borne,	,
With other notes than to the Orphéan lyre,
I sung of Chaos and eternal Night;
Taught by the heavenly Muse to venture down
The dark descent, and up to reascend,	20
Though hard and rare: thee I revisit safe,
And feel thy sov'reign vital lamp; but thou
Revisit'st not these eyes, that roll in vain
To find thy piercing ray, and find no dawn;
So thick a drop serene hath quench'd their orbs,	25
Or dim suffusion veil'd. Yet not the more
Cease I to wander where the Muses haunt
Clear spring, or shady grove, or sunny hill,
Smit with the love of sacred song; but chief
Thee, Sion, and the flowery brooks beneath,	30
That wash'd thy hallow'd feet, and warbling flow,
Nightly I visit: nor sometimes forget
Those other two equal'd with me in fate,
So were I equal'd with them in renown!
Blind Thamyris, and blind Mæonides;	35
And Tiresias, and Phineus, prophets old:
Then feed on thoughts, that voluntary move
Harmonious numbers; as the wakeful bird
Sings darkling, and in shadiest covert hid
Tunes her nocturnal note. Thus with the year	40
Seasons return: but not to me returns
Day, or the sweet approach of even or morn,
Or sight of vernal bloom, or summer's rose,
Or flocks, or herds, or human face divine;
But cloud instead, and everduring dark	45
Surrounds me, from the cheerful ways of men
Cut off, and for the book of knowledge fair
Presented with a universal blank
Of natures works, to me expunged and rased,
And wisdom at one entrance quite shut out.	50

So much the rather thou, celestial Light,
Shine inward, and the mind through all her powers
Irradiate; there plant eyes, all mist from thence Purge and disperse, that I may see and tell
Of things invisible to mortal sight.

Now had the Almighty Father from above. From the pure empyrean where he sits High throned above all height, bent down his eve His own works and their works at once to view: About him all the Sanctities of Heaven 60 Stood thick as stars, and from his sight received Beatitude past utterance: on his right The radiant image of his glory sat, His only Son; on earth he first beheld Our two first parents, yet the only two Of mankind in the happy gorden placed, Reaping immortal fruits of joy and love, Uninterrupted joy, unrival'd love, In blissful solitude; he then survey'd Hell and the gulf between, and Satan there 70 Coasting the wall of Heaven on this side Night In the dun air sublime, and ready now To stoop with wearied wings and willing feet. On the bare outside of this world, that seem'd Firm land imbosom'd, without firmament, 75 Uncertain which, in ocean or in air. Him God beholding from his prospect high, Wherein past, present, future he beholds, Thus to his only Son foreseeing spake:

Only begotten Son, seest thou what rage
Transports our Adversary? whom no bounds
Prescribed, no bars of Hell, nor all the chains
Heap'd on him there, nor yet the main abyss,
Wide interrupt, can hold; so bent he seems
On desperate revenge, that shall redound
Upon his own rebellious head. And now,
Through all restraint broke loose, he wings his way
Not far off Heaven, in the precincts of light;

PARADISE LOST.	57
Directly towards the new created world,
And man there placed, with purpose to essay	90
If him by force he can destroy, or, worse,
By some false guile pervert; and shall pervert;
For man will hearken to his glossing lies,
And easily transgress the sole command,
Sole pledge of his obedience: So will fall	95
He and his faithless progeny: Whose fault?
Whose but his own? Ingrate, he had of me
All he could have; I made him just and right,
Sufficient to have stood, though free to fall.
Such I created all the ethereal Powers	100
And Spirits, both them who stood, and them who f	ail'd;
Freely they stood who stood, and fell who fell.
Not free, what proof could they have given since	re
Of true allegiance, constant faith, or love,
Where only what they needs must do appear'd,	105
Not what they would? what praise could they rec	eive
What pleasure I from such obedience paid,	•
When will and reason (reason also is choice)
Useless and vain, of freedom both despoil'd,
Made passive both, had served necessity,	110
Not me? They therefore, as to right belong'd,	0
So were created, nor can justly accuse
Their Maker, or their making, or their fate,
As if predestination overruled
Their will disposed by absolute decree	115
Or high foreknowledge; they themselves decreed	3
Their own revolt, not I; if I foreknew,
Foreknowledge had no influence on their fault,
Which had no less proved certain unforeknown.
So without least impulse or shadow of fate,	120
O 141

So without least impulse or shadow of fate,
Or aught by me immutably foreseen,
They trespass, authors to themselves in all
Both what they judge and what they choose; for so
I form'd them free; and free they must remain,
Till they enthral themselves; I else must change 125
Their nature, and revoke the high decree

Unchangeable, eternal, which ordain'd Their freedom; they themselves ordain'd their fall. The first sort by their own suggestion fell, Self-tempted, self-depraved: Man falls, deceived 130 By the other first: Man therefore shall find grace, The other none: In mercy and justice both, Through Heaven and Earth, so shall my glory excel; But mercy, first and last, shall brightest shine.

Thus while God spake, ambrosial fragrance fill'd 135 All Heaven, and in the blessed Spirits elect Sense of new joy ineffable diffused. Beyond compare the Son of God was seen Most glorious; in him all his father shone Substantially express'd; and in his face 140 Divine compassion visibly appear'd, Love without end, and without measure grace;

Which, uttering, thus he to his Father spake: O Father, gracious was that word which closed 144 Thy sov'reign sentence, that man should find grace; For which both Heaven and Earth shall high extol Thy praises, with the innumerable sound Of hynms and sacred songs, wherewith thy throne Encompass'd shall resound thee ever bless'd. For should Man finally be lost? should Man, Thy creature late so loved, thy youngest son, Fall circumvented thus by fraud, though join'd With his own folly? That be from thee far, That far be from thee, Father, who art judge Of all things made, and judgest only right. Or shall the Adversary thus obtain His end, and frustrate thine? shall he fulfil His malice, and thy goodness bring to nought; Or proud return, though to his heavier doom, Yet with revenge accomplish'd, and to Hell Draw after him the whole race of mankind, By him corrupted? or wilt thou thyself Abolish thy creation, and unmake For him, what for thy glory thou hast made

So should thy goodness and thy greatness both	165
Be question'd and blasphemed without defence.
To whom the great Creator thus replied:
O Son, in whom my soul hath chief delight,
Son of my bosom, Scn who art alone
My word, my wisdom, and effectual might,	170
All hast thou spoken as my thoughts are, all
As my eternal purpose hath decreed;
Man shall not quite be lost, but saved who will;
Yet not of will in him, but grace in me
Freely vouchsafed; once more I will renew	175
His lapsed powers, though forfeit, and enthrall'd
By sin to foul exorbitant desires;
Upheld by me, yet once more he shall stand
On even ground against his mortal foe;
By me upheld, that he may know how frail	180
His fallen condition is, and to me owe
All his deliverance, and to none but me.
Some I have chosen of peculiar grace,
Elect above the rest; so is my will:
The rest shall hear me call, and oft be warn'd	185
Their sinful state, and to appease betimes
The incensed Deity, while offer'd grace	6
Invites; for I will clear their senses dark,
What may suffice, and soften stony hearts	***
To pray, repent, and bring obedience due.	190
To prayer, repentance, and obedience due,
Though but endeavour'd with sincere intent,
Mine ear shall not be slow, mine eye not shut.
And I will place within them as a guide,	100
My umpire Conscience; whom if they will hear,	195
Light after light, well used, they shall attain,
And to the end, persisting safe arrive.
This my long sufferance, and my day of grace,
They who neglect and scorn shall never taste; But hard be harden'd, blind be blinded more,	200
That they may stumble on, and deeper fall;	200
And none but such from mercy I exclude.
and none but such from mercy I exclude.

But yet all is not done; Man disobeying,
Disloyal, breaks his fealty, and sins
Against the high supremacy of Heaven,	205
Affecting Godhead; and, so losing all,
To expiate his treason hath nought left,
But to destruction sacred and devote,
He with his whole posterity must die;
	210
Some other able, and as willing, pay
The rigid satisfaction, death for death.
Say, heavenly Powers, where shall we find such lo	ve?
Which of ye will be mortal, to redeem
Man's mortal crime, and just the unjust to save?	215
Dwells in all Heaven charity so dear?
He ask'd, but all the heavenly choir stood mute,
And silence was in Heaven: On Man's behalf
Patron or intercessor none appear'd,
The state of the s	220
The deadly forfeiture and ransom set.
And now without redemption all mankind
Must have been lost, adjudged to Death and Hell
By doom severe, had not the Son of God,
	225
His dearest mediation thus renew'd:
Father, thy word is pass'd, Man shall find grace
And shall grace not find means, that finds her way,	,
The speediest of thy winged messengers,
	230
Comes unprevented, unimplored, unsought?
Happy for Man, so coming: he her aid
Can never seek, once dead in sins, and lost;
Atonement for himself, or offering meet,
independent and and and in the state of the	235
Behold me then: me for him, life for life
I offer; on me let thine anger fall;
Account me Man. I for his sake will leave

Thy bosom, and this glory next to thee Freely put off, and for him lastly die

Well pleased; on me let Death wreak all his rage;
Under his gloomy power I shall not long
Lie vanquish'd; thou hast given me to possess
Life in myself for ever; by thee I live,
Though now to Death I yield, and am his due 245
All that of me can die; yet, that debt paid,
Thou wilt not leave me in the loathsome grave
His prey, nor suffer my unspotted soul
For ever with corruption there to dwell;
But I shall rise victorious, and subdue 250
My vanquisher, spoil'd of his vaunted spoil;
Death his death's wound then shall receive, and stoop
Inglorious, of his mortal sting disarm'd.
I through the ample air in triumph high
Shall lead Hell captive, maugre Hell, and show 255
The Powers of darkness bound. Thou, at the sight
Pleased, out of Heaven shalt look down and smile;
While, by thee raised, I ruin all my foes,
Death last, and with his carcass glut the grave:
Then, with the multitude of my redeem'd, 260
Shall enter Heaven, long absent, and return,
Father, to see thy face, wherein no cloud
Of anger shall remain, but peace assured
And reconcilement; wrath shall be no more
Thenceforth, but in thy presence joy entire. 265
His words here ended, but his meek aspect
Silent yet spake, and breathed immortal love
To mortal men, above which only shone
Filial obedience: As a sacrifice
Glad to be offer'd, he attends the will 270
Of his great Father. Admiration seized
All Heaven, what this might mean, and whither tend,

Wondering; but soon the Almighty thus replied:
O thou in Heaven and Earth the only peace
Found out for mankind under wrath! O thou
My sole complacence! well thou know'st how dear
To me are all my works, nor Man the least,
Though last created; that for him I spare

Thee from my bosom and right hand, to save, By loosing thee a while, the whole race lost. 280 Thou, therefore, whom thou only canst redeem, Their nature also to thy nature join; And be thyself Man among men on earth, Made flesh, when time shall be, of virgin seed, By wondrous birth: Be thou in Adam's room The head of all mankind, though Adam's son As in him perish all men, so in thee, As from a second root, shall be restored As many as are restored, without thee none. His crime makes guilty all his sons; thy merit, Imputed, shall absolve them who renounce Their own both righteous and unrighteous deeds, And live in thee transplanted, and from thee Receive new life. So Man, as is most just, Shall satisfy for Man, be judged and die, 995And dying rise, and rising with him raise His brethren, ransom'd with his own dear life. So heavenly love shall outdo hellish hate, Giving to death, and dying to redeem; So dearly to redeem what hellish hate So easily destroy'd, and still destroys In those who, when they may, accept not grace. Nor shalt thou, by descending to assume Man's nature, lessen or degrade thine own. Because thou hast, though throned in highest bliss 305 Equal to God, and equally enjoying Godlike fruition, quitted all, to save A world from utter loss, and hast been found By merit more than birthright Son of God, Found worthiest to be so by being good, 310 Far more than great or high; because in thee Love hath abounded more than glory abounds; Therefore thy humiliation shall exalt With thee thy manhood also to this throne: Here shalt thou sit incarnate, here shalt reign 315 Both God and Man, Son both of God and Man,

Anointed universal king; all power
I give thee; reign for ever, and assume
Thy merits; under thee, as head supreme,
Thrones, Princedoms, Powers, Dominions I reduce	:
All knees to thee shall bow, of them that bide	321
In Heaven, or Earth, or under Earth in Hell
When thou, attended gloriously from Heaven,
Shalt in the sky appear, and from thee send
The summoning Archangels to proclaim	325
Thy dread tribunal; forthwith from all winds,
The living, and forthwith the cited dead
Of all past ages, to the general doom
Shall hasten; such a peal shall rouse their sleep.
Then, all thy saints assembled, thou shalt judge	330
Bad Men and Angels; they, arraign'd, shall sink
Beneath thy sentence; Hell, her numbers full,
Thenceforth shall be for ever shut. Meanwhile
The world shall burn, and from her ashes spring
New Heaven and Earth, wherein the just shall dwe	ell,
And, after all their tribulations long,	336
See golden days fruitful of golden deeds,
With joy and love triumphing, and fair truth.
Then thou thy regal sceptre shalt lay by,
For regal sceptre then no more shall need,	340
God shall be all in all. But, all ye Gods,
Adore him, who to compass all this dies;
Adore the Son, and honour him as me.
No sooner had the Almighty ceased, but all
The multitude of Angels, with a shout	345
Loud as from numbers without number, sweet
As from bless'd voices, uttering joy, Heaven rung
With jubilee, and loud Hosannas fill'd
The eternal regions: Lowly reverent
Towards either throne they bow, and to the ground	1
With solemn adoration down they cast	351
Their crowns inwove with amarant and gold;
Immortal amarant, a flower which once
In Paradise, fast by the tree of life,

Began to bloom; but soon for man's offence 355 To Heaven removed, where first it grew, there grows; And flowers aloft shading the fount of life, And where the river of bliss through midst of Heaven Rolls o'er Elysian flowers her amber stream ; With these that never fade the Spirits elect 360 Bind their resplendent locks inwreathed with beams; Now in loose garlands thick thrown off, the bright Pavement, that like a sea of jasper shone, Impurpled with celestial roses smiled. Then, crown'd again, their golden harps they took, 365 Harps ever tuned, that glittering by their side Like quivers hung, and with preamble sweet Of charming sympliony they introduce Their sacred song, and waken raptures high; No voice exempt, no voice but well could join 370 Melodious part, such concord is in Heaven. Thee, Father, first they sung Omnipotent, Immutable, Immortal, Infinite, Eternal King; the Author of all being, Fountain of light, thyself invisible 375 Amidst the glorious brightness where thou sit'st Throned inaccessible, but when thou shad'st The full blaze of thy beams, and, through a cloud Drawn round about thee like a radiant shrine, Dark with excessive bright thy skirts appear; 380 Yet dazzle Heaven, that brightest Seraphim Approach not, but with both wings veil their eyes. Thee next they sang of all creation first, Begotten Son, Divine Similitude, In whose conspicuous countenance, without cloud 383 Made visible, the Almighty Father shines, Whom else no creature can behold; on thee Impress'd the effulgence of his glory abides, Transfused on thee his ample Spirit rests. He Heaven of Heavens and all the Powers therein By thee created; and by thee threw down :391 The aspiring Dominations . Thou that day

Thy Father's dreadful thunder didst not spare, Nor stop thy flaming chariot wheels, that shook Heaven's everlasting frame, while o'er the necks 395 Thou drovest of warring Angels disarray'd. Back from pursuit thy Powers with loud acclaim Thee only extoll'd, Son of thy Father's might, To execute fierce vengeance on his foes, Not so on Man: Him through their malice fallen, 400 Father of mercy and grace, thou didst not doom So strictly, but much more to pity incline . No sooner did thy dear and only Son Perceive thee purposed not to doom frail Man So strictly, but much more to pity inclined, 405 He to appease thy wrath, and end the strife Of mercy and justice in thy face discern'd, Regardless of the bliss wherein he sat Second to thee, offer'd himself to die For Man's offence. O unexampled love, 410 Love no where to be found less than Divine! Hail, Son of God, Saviour of Men! Thy name Shall be the copious matter of my song Henceforth, and never shall my heart thy praise Forget, nor from thy Father's praise disjoin. 415 Thus they in Heaven, above the starry sphere, Their happy hours in joy and hymning spent. Meanwhile upon the firm opacous globe Or this round world, whose first convex divides The luminous inferior orbs, enclosed 420 From Chaos and the inroad of Darkness old, Satan alighted walks: a globe far off It seem'd, now seems a boundless continent Dark, waste, and wild, under the frown of Night

Starless exposed, and ever threatening storms

Though distant far, some small reflection gains

Of Chaos blustering round, inclement sky;

425 Save on that side which from the wall of Heaven,

As when a vulture on Imaus bred, Whose snowy ridge the roving Tartar bounds, Dislodging from a region scarce of prey To gorge the flesh of lambs or yearling kids, On hills where flocks are fed, flies toward the springs Of Ganges or Hydaspes, Indian streams; 436 But in his way lights on the barren plains Of Sericana, where Chineses drive With sails and wind their cany waggons light . So, on this windy sea of land, the Fiend 440 Walk'd up and down alone, bent on his prey; Alone, for other creature in this place, Living or lifeless, to be found was none; None yet, but store hereafter from the earth Up hither like aerial vapours flew 445 Of all things transitory and vain, when sin With vanity had fill'd the works of men: Both all things vain, and all who on vain things Built their fond hopes of glory or lasting fame, Or happiness in this or the other life; 450 All who have their reward on earth, the fruits Of painful superstition and blind zeal, Nought seeking but the praise of men, here find Fit retribution, empty as their deeds; All the unaccomplish'd works of Nature's hand, Abortive, monstrous, or unkindly mix'd, Dissolved on earth, fleet hither, and in vain, Till final dissolution, wander here: Not in the neighbouring moon as some have dream'd Those argent fields more likely habitants, 460 Translated Saints, or middle Spirits hold Betwixt the angelical and human kind. Hither of ill join'd sons and daughters born First from the ancient world those giants came With many a vain exploit, though then renown'd: 465 The builders next of Babel on the plain Of Sennaar, and still with vain design, New Babels, had they wherewithal, would build

PARADISE LOST.	67
Others came single; he who, to be deem'd
A God, leap'd fondly into Ætna flames,	470
Empedocles; and he who, to enjoy
Plato's Elysium, leap'd into the sea,
Cleombrotus; and many more too long,
Embryos, and idiots, eremites, and friars
White, black, and gray, with all their trumpery	475
Here pilgrims roam, that stray'd so far to seek
In Golgotha him dead who lives in Heaven;
And they who, to be sure of Paradise,
Dying, put on the weeds of Dominic,
Or in Franciscan think to pass disguised;	480
They pass the planets seven, and pass the fix'd,
And that crystalline sphere whose balance weighs
The trepidation talk'd, and that first moved;
And now Saint Peter at Heaven's wicket seems
To wait them with his keys, and now at foot	485
Of Heaven's ascent they lift their feet, when lo
A violent cross-wind from either coast
Blows them transverse, ten thousand leagues awr	у
Into the devious air: Then might ye see
Cowls, hoods, and habits, with their wearers, toss'	d
And flutter'd into rags; then reliques, beads,	491
Indulgences, dispenses, pardons, bulls,
The sport of winds: All these, up-whirl'd aloft,
Fly o'er the backside of the world far off
Into a Limbo large and broad, since call'd	495
The Paradise of Fools, to few unknown
Long after, now unpeopled and untrod.
All this dark globe the Fiend found as he pass'd,
And long he wander'd, till at last a gleam
Of dawning light turn'd thitherward in haste	500
His travel'd steps: far distant he descries
Ascending by degrees magnificent
Up to the wall of Heaven a structure high;

At top whereof, but far more rich, appear'd The work as of a kingly palace-gate,

With frontispiece of diamond and gold

Embellish'd; thick with sparkling orient gems The portal shone, inimitable on earth By medel, or by shading pencil drawn. The stairs were such as whereon Jacob saw Angels ascending and descending, bands Of guardians bright, when he from Esau fied To Padan-Aram, in the field of Luz Dreaming by night under the open sky, And waking cried, This is the gate of Heaven. Each stair mysteriously was meant, nor stood There always, but drawn up to Heaven sometimes Viewless; and underneath a bright sea flow'd Of jasper, or of liquid pearl, whereon Who after came from earth, sailing arrived 520 Wafted by Angels, or flew o'er the lake Wrapp'd in a chariot drawn by fiery steeds. The stairs were then let down, whether to dare The Fiend by easy ascent, or aggravate His sad exclusion from the doors of bliss: 525 Direct against which open'd from beneath, Just o'er the blissful seat of Paradise. A passage down to the Earth, a passage wide, Wider by far than that of aftertimes Over mount Sion, and, though that were large, 530 Over the Promised Land to God so dear; By which to visit oft those happy tribes, On high behests his Angels to and fro Pass'd frequent, and his eve with choice regard From Paneas, the fount of Jordan's flood, 535 To Beersaba where the Holy Land Borders on Egypt and the Arabian shore: So wide the opening seem'd, where bounds were set To darkness, such as bound the ocean wave Satan from hence, now on the lower stair, 540 That scaled by steps of gold to Heaven-gate, Looks down with wonder at the sudden view Of all this world at once. As when a scout, Through dark and desert ways with peril gone

All night, at last by break of cheerful dawn Obtains the brow of some high-climbing hill, Which to his eye discovers unaware The goodly prospect of some foreign land First seen, or some renown'd metropolis	546
With glistering spires and pinnacles adorn'd, Which now the rising sun gilds with his beams Such wonder seized, though after Heaven seen, The Spirit malign, but much more envy seized, At sight of all this world beheld so fair. Round he surveys (and well might, where he stoo	550 at
So high above the circling canopy Of night's extended shade,) from eastern point Of Libra to the fleecy star that bears Andromeda far off Atlantic seas	550
Beyond the horizon; then from pole to pole He views in breadth, and without longer pause Down right into the world's first region throws His flight precipitant, and winds with ease Through the pure marble air his oblique way	560
Amongst innumerable stars, that shone Stars distant, but nigh hand seem'd other worlds; Or other worlds they seem'd, or happy isles, Like those Hesperian gardens famed of old, Fortunate fields, and groves, and flowery vales,	565
Thrice happy isles; but who dwelt happy there He staid not to inquire: Above them all The golden sun, in splendour likest Heaven, Allured his eye; thither his course he bends Through the calm firmament (but up or down,	570
By centre, or eccentric, hard to tell, Or longitude,) where the great luminary Aloof the vulgar constellations thick,	575

That from his lordly eye keep distance due,
Dispenses light from far; they, as they move
Their starry dance in numbers that compute
Days, months, and years, towards his all cheering lamp
Furn swift their various motions, or are turn'd

By his magnetic beam, that gently warms The universe, and to each inward part With gentle penetration, though unseen, 585 Shoots invisible virtue even to the deep; So wondrously was set his station bright. Their lands the Fiend, a spot like which perhaps Astronomer in the sun's lucent orb Through his glazed optic tube yet never saw. 590 The place he found beyond expression bright, Compared with aught on earth, metal or stone; Not all parts like, but all alike inform'd With radient light, as glowing iron with fire; If metal, part seem'd gold, part silver clear; 595 If stone, carbuncle most or crysolite, Ruby or topaz, to the twelve that shone In Aaron's breastplate, and a stone besides Imagined rather oft, than elsewhere seen, That stone, or like to that which here below 600 Philosophers in vain so long have sought, In vain, though by their powerful art they bind Volatile Hermes, and call up unbound In various shapes old Proteus from the sea, Drain'd through a limbeck to his native form. 605 What wonder then if fields and regions here Breathe forth elixir pure, and rivers run Portable gold, when with one virtuous touch The archchemic sun, so far from us remote, Produces, with terrestrial humour mix'd. 610 Here in the dark so many precious things Of colour glorious and effect so rare? Here matter new to gaze the Devil met Undazzled; far and wide his eye commands, For sight no obstacle found here, nor shade, 615 But all sunshine, as when his beams at noon Culminate from the equator, as they now Shot upward still direct, whence no way round Shadow from body opaque can fall; and the air, No where so clear, sharpen'd his visual ray 620

10 11 11 1 1 C 1 1 1
To objects distant far, whereby he soon
Saw within ken a glorious Angel stand,
The same whom John saw also in the sun:
His back was turn'd, but not his brightness hid;	205
Of beaming sunny rays a golden tiar	625
Circled his head, nor less his locks behind
Illustrious on his shoulders fledge with wings
Lay waving round; on some great charge employ
He seem'd, or fix'd in cogitation deep.	200
Glad was the Spirit impure, as now in hope	630
To find who might direct his wandering flight
To Paradise, the happy seat of Man,
His journey's end and our beginning woe.
But first he casts to change his proper shape,
Which else might work him danger or delay:	635
And now a stripling Cherub he appears,
Not of the prime, yet such as in his face
Youth smiled celestial, and to every limb
Suitable grace diffused, so well he feign'd:
Under a coronet his flowing hair	640
In curls on either cheek play'd; wings he wore
Of many a colour'd plume, sprinkled with gold;
His habit fit for speed succinct, and held
Before his decent steps a silver wand.
He drew not nigh unheard; the Angel bright,	645
Ere he drew nigh, his radiant visage turn'd,
Admonish'd by his ear, and straight was known
The Archangel Uriel, one of the seven
Who in God's presence, nearest to his throne,
Stand ready at command, and are his eyes	650
That run through all the Heavens, or down to the E	arth
Bear his swift errands over moist and dry,	`
O'er sea and land: him Satan thus accosts:
Uriel, for thou of those seven Spirits that stand
In sight of God's high throne, gloriously bright,	655
The first art wont his great authentic will,
Interpreter through highest Heaven to bring.
Where all his sons thy embassy attend;

And here art likeliest by supreme decree Like honour to obtain, and as his eve 660 To visit oft this new creation round: Unspeakable desire to see and know All these his wondrous works, but chiefly Man, His chief delight and favour, him for whom All these his works so wondrous he ordain'd, 665 Hath brought me from the choirs of Cherubim Alone thus wandering. Brightest Seraph, tell In which of all these shining orbs hath Man His fixed seat, or fixed seat hath none, But all these shining orbs his choice to dwell; 670 That I may find him, and with secret gaze Or open admiration him behold, On whom the great Creator hath bestowed Worlds, and on whom hath all these graces pour'd; That both in him and all things, as is meet, 675 The universal Maker we may praise; Who justly hath driven out his rebel foes To deepest Hell, and, to repair that loss, Created this new happy race of Men To serve him better: Wise are all his ways. 680 So spake the false dissembler unperceived: For neither Man nor Angels can discern Hypocrisy, the only evil that walks Invisible, except to God alone, By his permissive will, through Heaven and Earth And oft, though Wisdom wake, Suspicion sleeps 686 At Wisdom's gate, and to Simplicity Resigns her charge, while Goodness thinks no ill Where no ill seems; which now for once beguiled Uriel, though regent of the sun, and held 690 The sharpest sighted Spirit of all in Heaven; Who to the fraudulent impostor foul, In his uprightness, answer thus return'd: Fair Angel, thy desire, which tends to know

Fair Angel, thy desire, which tends to know
The works of God, thereby to glorify

The great Workmaster, leads to no excess

That reaches blame, but rather merits praise
The more it seems excess, that led thee hither
From thy empyreal mansion thus alone,
To witness with thine eyes what some perhaps,	700
Contented with report, hear only in Heaven:
For wonderful indeed are all his works,
Pleasant to know, and worthiest to be all
Had in remembrance always with delight;
But what creative mind can comprehend	705
Their number, or the wisdom infinite
That brought them forth, but hid their causes deep	,
I saw when at his word the formless mass,
This world's material mould, came to a heap:
Confusion heard his voice, and wild uproar	710
Stood ruled, stood vast infinitude confined;
Till at his second bidding darkness fled,
Light shone, and order from disorder sprung:
Swift to their several quarters hasted then
The cumbrous elements, earth, flood, air, fire;	715
And this etherial quintessence of Heaven
Flew upward, spirited with various forms,
That roll'd orbicular, and turn'd to stars
Numberless, as thou seest, and how they move.
Each had his place appointed, each his course;	720
The rest in circuit walls this universe.
Look downward on that globe, whose hither side
With light from hence, though but reflected, shine	s;
That place is Earth, the seat of Man; that light
His day, which else, as the other hemisphere,	725
Night would invade; but there the neighbouring me	oon
(So call that opposite fair star) her aid
Timely interposes, and her monthly round
Still ending, still renewing, through mid Heaven,
With borrow'd light her countenance triform	730
Hence fills and empties to enlighten the Earth,
And in her pale dominion checks the night.
That spot, to which I point, is Paradise,

Adam's abode; those lofty shades, his bower.

Thy way thou canst not miss, me mine requires. 735

Thus said, he turn'd; and Satan, bowing low,
As to Superior Spirits is wont in Heaven,
Where honour due and reverence none neglects,
Took leave, and toward the coast of earth beneath,
Down from the ecliptic, sped with hoped success, 740
Throws his steep flight in many an aery wheel;
Nor staid, till on Niphates' top he lights.

PARADISE LOST.

BOOK IV.

Satan, now in prospect of Eden, and nigh the place where he must now attempt the bold enterprise which he undertook alono against God and Man, falls into many doubts with hinself, and many passions, fear, envy, and despair; but at length confirms himself in evil; journeys on to Paradise, whose outward prospect and situation are described; overleaps the bounds; sits in the shape of a cormorant on the tree of life, as highest in the garden, to look about him. The garden described; Satan's first sight of Adam and Eve; his wonder at their excellent form and happy state, but with resolution to work their fall; overhears their discourse: thence gathers that the tree of knowledge was forbidden them to eat of, under penalty of death; and thereon intends to found his temptation by seducing them to transgress; Then leaves them awhile to know further of their state by some other means. Meanwhile Uriel descending an a sunbeam warms Gabriel, who had in charge the gate of Paradise, that some evil Spirit had escaped the deep, and passed at nocen by his sphere in the shape of a good Angel down to Paradise, discovered after by his furious gestures on the mount. Gabriel promises to find him ere morning. Night coming on, Adam and Eve discourse of going to their rest: Their bower described; their evening worship. Gabriel, drawing forth his bands of night-watch to walk the round of Paradise, appoints two strong Angels to Adam's bower, lest the evil Spirit should be there doing some harm to Adam or Eve sleeping: there they find him at the ear of Eve, tempting her in a dream, and bring him, though unwilling, to Gabriel; by whom questioned, he scornfully answers; prepares readise.

O ron that warning voice, which he who saw The Apocalypse, heard cry in Heaven aloud, Then when the Dragon, put to second rout, Came furious down to be revenged on men, Woe to the inhabitants on earth! that now, While time was, our first parents had been warn'd The coming of their secret foe, and scaped—Haply so scaped his mortal snare: For now Satan, now first inflamed with rage, came down, the tempter ere the accuser of mankind, To wreak on innocent frail Man his loss of that first battle, and his flight to Hell

Yet, not rejoicing in his speed, though bold Far off and fearless, nor with cause to boast, Begins his dire attempt; which nigh the birth 15 Now rolling boils in his tumultuous breast, And like a devilish engine back recoils Upon himself; horror and doubt distract His troubled thoughts, and from the bottom stir The Hell within him; for within him Hell 20 He brings, and round about him, nor from Hell One step, no more than from himself, can fly By change of place. Now conscience wakes despair That slumber'd; wakes the bitter memory Of what he was, what is, and what must be Worse; of worse deeds worse sufferings must ensue. Sometimes towards Eden, which now in his view Lay pleasant, his grieved look he fixed sad; Sometimes towards Heaven, and the full-blazing sun, Which now sat high in his meridian tower: 30Then, much revolving, thus in sighs began: O thou, that, with surpassing glory crown'd, Look'st from thy sole dominion like the God Of this new world; at whose sight all the stars 35

Hide their diminish'd heads : to thee I call. But with no friendly voice, and add thy name, O Sun! to tell thee how I hate thy beams, That bring to my remembrance from what state I fell, how glorious once above thy sphere; Till pride and worse ambition threw me down Warring in Heaven against Heaven's matchless King: Ah, wherefore! he deserved no such return From me, whom he created what I was In that bright eminence, and with his good Upbraided none; nor was his service hard. What could be less than to afford him praise, The easiest recompense, and pay him thanks, How due! yet all his good proved ill in me, And wrought but malice; lifted up so high I 'sdain'd subjection, and thought one step higher

Would set me highest, and in a moment quit
The debt immense of endless gratitude,
So burdensome still paying, still to owe:
Forgetful what from him I still received,
And understood not that a grateful mind	55
By owing owes not, but still pays, at once
Indebted and discharged; what burden then?
O, had his powerful destiny ordain'd
Me some inferior Angel, I had stood
Then happy; no unbounded hope had raised	6 0
Ambition! Yet why not? some other Power
As great might have aspired, and me, though mea	n,
Drawn to his part; but other Powers as great
Fell not, but stand unshaken, from within
Or from without, to all temptations arm'd.	65
Hadst thou the same free will and power to stand	?
Thou hadst: whom hast thou then or what to acc	use,
But Heaven's free love dealt equally to all?
Be then his love accursed, since love or hate,
To me alike, it deals eternal woe.	70
Nay, cursed be thou; since against his thy will
Chose freely what it now so justly rues.
Me miserable! which way shall I fly
Infinite wrath and infinite despair?
Which way I fly is Hell; myself am Hell;	75
And, in the lowest deep, a lower deep
Still threatning to devour me opens wide,
To which the Hell I suffer scems a Heaven.
O, then, at last relent: Is there no place
Left for repentance, none for pardon left?	80
None left but by submission; and that word
Disdain forbids me, and my dread of shame
Among the Spirits beneath, whom I seduced
With other premises and other vaunts
Than to submit, boasting I could subdue	85
The Omnipotent. Ah me! they little know
How dearly I abide that boast so vain,
Under what torments inwardly I groan,

While they adore me on the throne of Hell. With diadem and sceptre high advanced, 90 The lower still I fall, only supreme In misery: Such joy ambition finds. But say I could repent, and could obtain, By act of grace, my former state; how soon Would height recal high thoughts, how soon unsay 95 What feign'd submission swore? Ease would recapt Vows made in pain, as violent and void. For never can true reconcilement grow, Where wounds of deadly hate have pierced so deep: Which would but lead me to a worse relapse 100 And heavier fall; so should I purchase dear Short intermission bought with double smart. This knows my Punisher; therefore as far From granting he, as I from begging, peace; All hope excluded thus, behold, in stead 105 Of us outcast, exiled, his new delight, Mankind created, and for him this world. So farewell, hope; and with hope farewell, fear; Farewell, remorse! all good to me is lost; Evil, be thou my good; by thee at least 110 Divided empire with Heaven's King I hold, By thee, and more than half perhaps will reign; As Man, ere long, and this new world shall know.

Thus while he spake, each passion dimm'd his face
Thrice changed with pale, ire, envy, and despair; 115
Which marr'd his borrow'd visage, and betray'd
Him counterfeit, if any eye beheld.
For heavenly minds from such distempers foul
Are ever clear. Whereof he soon aware,
Each perturbation smooth'd with outward calm,
Artificer of fraud; and was the first
That practised falsehood under saintly show,
Deep malice to conceal, couch'd with revenge:
Yet not enough had practised to deceive
Uriel once warn'd; whose eye pursued him down 125
The way he went, and on the Assyrian mount

Saw him disfigured, more than could befal Spirit of happy sort : His gestures fierce He mark'd and mad demeanour, then alone, As he supposed, all unobserved, unseen. 130 So on he fares, and to the border comes Of Eden, where delicious Paradise, Now nearer, crowns with her enclosure green, As with a rural mound, the champaign head Of a steep wilderness, whose hairy sides 135 With thicket overgrown, grotesque and wild, Access denied; and overhead up grew Insuperable height of loftiest shade, Cedar, and pine, and fir, and branching palm, A silvan scene; and, as the ranks ascend 140 Shade above shade, a woody theatre Of stateliest view. Yet higher than their tops The verduous wall of Paradise up sprung: Which to our general sire gave prospect large Into his nether empire neighbouring round. 145 And higher than that wall a circling row Of goodliest trees, loaden with fairest fruit, Blossoms and fruits at once of golden hue Appear'd, with gay enamel'd colours mix'd; On which the sun more glad impress'd his beams 150 Than on fair evening cloud or humid bow, When God hath shower'd the earth; so lovely seem'd That landscape: and of pure now purer air Meets his approach, and to the heart inspires Vernal delight and joy, able to drive 155 All sadness but despair : Now gentle gales, Fanning their odoriferous wings, dispense Native perfumes, and whisper whence they stole Those balmy spoils. As when to them who sail Beyond the Cape of Hope, and now are pass'd 160 Mozambic, off at sea north-east winds blow Sabean odours from the spicy shore Of Araby the bless'd; with such delay Well pleased they slack their course, and many a league Cheer'd with the greatful smell old Ocean smiles: 165
So entertain'd those odorous sweets the Fiend,
Who came their bane; though with thembotterpleased
Than Asmodëus with the fishy fume
That drove him, though enamour'd, from the spouse
Of Tobit's son, and with a vengeance sent
From Media post to Egypt, there fast bound.

Now to the ascent of that steep savage hill Satan had journey'd on, pensive and slow; But further way found none, so thick entwined, As one continued brake, the undergrowth 175 Of shrubs and tangling bushes had perplex'd All path of man or beast that pass'd that way. One gate there only was, and that look'd east On the other side: which when the archfelon saw, Due entrance he disdain'd : and, in contempt, 180 At one slight bound high overleap'd all bound Of hill or highest wall, and sheer within Lights on his feet. As when a prowling wolf, Whom hunger drives to seek new haunt for prey, Watching where shepherds pen their flocks at eve 185 In hurdled cotes amid the field secure. Leaps o'er the fence with ease into the fold: Or as a thief, bent to unhoard the cash Of some rich burgher, whose substantial doors, Cross-barr'd and bolted fast, fear no assault, 190 In at the window climbs, or o'er the tiles: So clomb this first grand thief into God's fold; So since into his church lewd hirelings climb. Thence up he flew, and on the tree of life, The middle tree and highest there that grew, 195 Sat like a cormorant; yet not true life Thereby regain'd, but sat devising death To them who lived; nor on the virtue thought Of that lifegiving plant, but only used For prospect, what well used had been the pledge 200 Of immortality. So little knows Any, but God alone, to value right

The good before him, but perverts best things	-77
To worst abuse or to their meanest use.
Beneath him with new wonder now he views,	205
To all delight of human sense exposed,
In narrow room, Nature's whole wealth, yea more,
A Heaven on Earth: For blissful Paradise
Of God the garden was, by him in the east
Of Eden planted; Eden stretch'd her line	210
From Auran eastward to the royal towers
Of great Seleucia, built by Grecian kings,
Or where the sons of Eden long before
Dwelt in Telassar: In this pleasant soil
His far more pleasant garden God ordain'd;	215
Out of the fertile ground he caused to grow
All trees of noblest kind for sight, smell, taste,
And all amid them stood the tree of life,
High eminent, blooming ambrosial fruit
Of vegetable gold; and next to life,	220
Our death, the tree of knowledge, grew fast by,
Knowledge of good bought dear by knowing ill.
Southward through Eden went a river large,
Nor changed his course, but through the shaggy l	ill
Pass'd underneath ingulf'd; for God had thrown	225
That mountain as his garden mound high raised
Upon the rapid current, which, through veins
Of porous earth with kindly thirst updrawn,
Rose a fresh fountain, and with many a rill
Water'd the garden; thence united fell	230
Down the steep glade, and met the nether flood,
Which from his darksome passage now appears,
And now, divided into four main streams,
Runs diverse, wandering many a famous realm
And country, whereof here needs no account;	235
But rather to tell how, if Art could tell,
How from that sapphire fount the crisped brooks,
Rolling on orient pearl and sands of gold,
With mazy error under pendent shades
Ran nectar, visiting each plant, and fed	240

Flowers worthy of Paradise, which not nice Art In beds and curious knots, but Nature boon Pour'd forth profuse on hill, and dale, and plain, Both where the morning sun first warmly smote The open field, and where the unpierced shade Imbrown'd the noontide bowers: Thus was this place A happy rural seat of various view; Groves whose rich trees wept odorous gums and balm. Others whose fruit, burnish'd with golden rind, Hung amiable, Hesperian fables true, 250 If true, here only, and of delicious taste: Betwixt them lawns, or level downs, and flocks Grazing the tender herb, were interposed, Or palmy hillock; or the flowery lap Of some irriguous valley spread her store, 255 Flowers of all hue, and without thorn the rose: Another side, umbrageous grots and caves Of cool recess, o'er which the mantling vine Lays forth her purple grape, and gently creeps Luxuriant; meanwhile murmuring waters fall 260 Down the slope hills, dispersed, or in a lake, That to the fringed bank with myrtle crown'd Her crystal mirror holds, unite their streams. The birds their choir apply; airs, vernal airs, Breathing the smell of field and grove, attune 265 The trembling leaves, while universal Pan, Knit with the Graces and the Hours in dance, Led on the eternal Spring. Not that fair field Of Enna, where Proserpine gathering flowers, Herself a fairy flower, by gloomy Dis 270 Was gather'd, which cost Ceres all that pain To seek her through the world; nor that sweet grove Of Daphne by Orontes, and the inspired Castalian spring might with this Paradise Of Eden strive; nor that Nyseian isle Girt with the river Triton, where old Cham, Whom Gentiles Ammon call and Libyan Jove, Hid Amalthea, and her florid son

Toung Dacenus, from his stepuame kneas eye;
Nor where Abassin kings their issue guard,	280
Mount Amara, though this by some supposed
True Paradise under the Ethiop line
By Nilus' head, enclosed with shining rock,
A whole day's journey high, but wide remote
From this Assyrian garden; where the Fiend	285
Saw, undelighted, all delight, all kind
Of living creatures, new to sight, and strange.
Two of far nobler shape, erect and tall,
Godlike erect, with native honour clad
In naked majesty, seem'd lords of all:	290
And worthy seem'd; for in their looks divine
The image of their glorious Maker shone,
Truth, wisdom, sanctitude severe and pure
(Severe, but in true filial freedom placed,)
Whence true authority in men; though both	295
Not equal, as their sex not equal seem'd;
For contemplation he and valour form'd;
For softness she and sweet attractive grace;
He for God only, she for God in him:
His fair large front and eye sublime declared	300
Absolute rule; and hyacinthine locks
Round from his parted forelock manly hung
Clustering, but not beneath his shoulders broad:
She, as a veil, down to the slender waist
Her unadorned golden tresses wore	305
Dishevel'd, but in wanton ringlets waved
As the vine curls her tendrils, which implied
Subjection, but required with gentle sway,
And by her yielded, by him best received;
Yielded with coy submission, modest pride,	310
And sweet, reluctant, amorous delay.
Nor those mysterious parts were then conceal'd;
Then was not guilty shame, dishonest shame
Of nature's works, honour dishonourable,
Sin-bred: how have ye troubled all mankind	315
With shows instead, mere shows of seeming pure,

And banish'd from man's life his happiest life. Simplicity and spotless innocence! So pass'd they naked on, nor shunn'd the sight Of God or Angel; for they thought no ill: So hand in hand they pass'd, the lovliest pair, That ever since in love's embraces met: Adam the goodliest man of men since born His sons, the fairest of her daughters Eve. Under a tuft of shade that on a green 325 Stood whispering soft, by a fresh fountain side They sat them down; and, after no more toil Of their sweet gardening labour than sufficed To recommend cool Zephyr, and made ease More easy, wholesome thirst and appetite 330 More grateful, to their supper fruits they fell; Nectarine fruits which the compliant boughs Yielded them, sidelong as they sat recline On the soft downy bank damask'd with flowers: The sayoury pulp they chew, and in the rind, 335 Still as they thirsted, scoop the brimming stream; Nor gentle purpose, nor endearing smiles Wanted, nor youthful dalliance, as beseems Fair couple, link'd in happy nuptial league, Alone as they. About them frisking play'd 340 All beasts of the earth, since wild, and of all chase In wood or wilderness, forest or den: Sporting the lion ramp'd, and in his paw, Dandled the kid; bears, tigers, ounces, pards, Gambol'd before them; the unwieldy elephant. 345 To make them mirth, used all his might, and wreath'd His lithe proboscis; close the serpent sly, Insinuating, wove with Gordian twine His braided train, and of his fatal guile Gave proof unheeded; others on the grass 350 Couch'd, and now fill'd with pasture gazing sat, Or bedward ruminating; for the sun, Declined, was hasting now with prone career To the ocean isles, and in the ascending scale

PARADISE LOST.	85
Of Heaven the stars that usher evening rose: When Satan still in gaze, as first he stood,	355
Scarce thus at length fail'd speech recover'd sad:
O Hell! what do mine eyes with grief behold!
Into our room of bliss thus high advanced
Creatures of other mould, earth-born perhaps,	360
Not Spirits, yet to heavenly Spirits bright
Little inferior: whom my thoughts pursue
With wonder, and could love, so lively shines
In them divine resemblance, and such grace
The hand that form'd them on their shape hath po-	ur'd.
Ah! gentle pair, ye little think how nigh	366
Your change approaches, when all these delights
Will vanish, and deliver ye to woe;
More woe, the more you taste is now of joy;
Happy, but for so happy ill secured	370
Long to continue, and this high seat your Heaver	1
Ill fenced for Heaven to keep out such a foe
As now is enter'd; yet no purposed foe
To you, whom I could pity thus forlorn,
Though I unpitied: League with you I seek,	375
And mutual amity, so straight, so close,
That I with you must dwell, or you with me
Henceforth: my dwelling haply may not please,
Like this fair Paradise, your sense; yet such
Accept your Maker's work; he gave it me,	380
Which I as freely give: Hell shall unfold,
To entertain you two, her widest gates,
And send forth all her kings; there will be room,
Not like these narrow limits, to conceive	005
Your numerous offspring; if no better place,	385

Thank him who puts me loath to this revenge
On you who wrong me not for him who wrong'd.
And should I at your harmless innocence
Melt, as I do, yet public reason just,.
Honour and empire with revenge enlarged,
By conquering this new world, compel me now
To do what else, though damn'd, I should abhor

So spake the Fiend, and with necessity. The tyrant's plea, excused his devilish deeds. Then from his lofty stand on that high tree 395 Down he alights among the sportful herd Of those four-footed kinds, himself now one, Now other, as their shape served best his end Nearer to view his prey, and, unespied, To mark what of their state he more might learn, 400 By word or action mark'd: About them round A lien now he stalks with fiery glare; Then as a tiger, who by chance hath spied In some purlieu two gentle fawns at play, Straight couches close, then, rising, changes oft His couchant watch, as one chose his ground, Whence rushing, he might surest seize them both, Griped in each paw: when Adam, first of men, To first of women, Eve, thus moving speech, Turn'd him, all ear to hear new utterance flow: 410 Sole partner and sole part of all these joys,

Dearer thyself than all; needs must the Power That made us, and for us this ample world, Be infinitely good, and of his good As liberal and free as infinite; 415 That raised us from the dust, and placed us here In all this happiness, who at his hand Have nothing mcrited, nor can perform Aught whereof he hath need; he who requires From us no other service than to keep 420 This one, this easy charge, of all the trees In Paradise that bear delicious fruit So various, not to taste that only tree Of knowledge, planted by the tree of life . So near grows death to life, whate'er death is, Some dreadful thing no doubt; for well thou know'st God hath pronounced it death to taste that tree, The only sign of our obedience left, Among so many signs of power and rule Conferr'd upon us, and dominion given 430

Over all other creatures that possess
Earth, air, and sea. Then let us not think hard
One easy prohibition, who enjoy
Free leave so large to all things else, and choice
Unlimited of manifold delights:	435
But let us ever praise him, and extol
His bounty, following our delightful task,
To prune these growing plants and tend these flow	ers,
Which were it toilsome, yet with thee were sweet
To whom thus Eve replied: O thou for whom	440
And from whom I was form'd, flesh of thy flesh,
And without whom am to no end, my guide
And head! what thou hast said is just and right
For we to him indeed all praises owe
And daily thanks; I chiefly, who enjoy	445
So for the happier lot, enjoying thee
Pre-eminent by so much odds, while thou
Like consort to thyself canst no where find.
That day I oft remember, when from sleep
I first awaked, and found myself reposed	450
Under a shade on flowers, much wondering where
And what I was, whence thither brought and how
Not distant far from thence a murmuring sound
Of waters issued from a cave, and spread
Into a liquid plain, then stood unmoved	455
Pure as the expanse of Heaven; I thither went
With unexperienced thought, and laid me down
On the green bank, to look into the clear
Smooth lake, that to me seem'd another sky.
As I bent down to look, just opposite	460
A shape within the watery gleam appear'd,
Bending to look on me. I started back;
It started back: but pleased I soon return'd;
Pleased it return'd as soon with answering looks
Of sympathy and love: There I had fix'd	465
Mine eyes till now, and pined with vain desire,
Had not a voice thus warn'd me; "What thou se	est,
What there they send fair Creature is threalf.

With thee it came and goes: but follow me, And I will bring thee where no shadow stays 470 Thy coming, and thy soft embraces, he Whose image thou art; him thou shalt enjoy Inseparably thine, to him shalt bear Multitudes like thyself, and thence be call'd Mother of human race." What could I do, But follow straight, invisibly thus led? Till I espied thee, fair indeed and tall, Under a platane; yet methought less fair Less winning soft, less amiably mild, Than that smooth watery image: back I turn'd; 480 Thou following criedst aloud, "Return, fair Eve; Whom fliest thou? whom thou fliest, of him thou art, His flesh, his bone; to give thee being I lent Out of my side to thee, nearest my heart, Substantial life, to have thee by my side 485 Henceforth an individual solace dear; Part of my soul I seek thee, and thee claim My other half:" With that thy gentle hand Seized mine: I yielded; and from that time see How beauty is excell'd by manly grace, 490 And wisdom, which alone is truly fair.

So spake our general mother, and with eyes
Of conjugal attraction unreproved,
And meek surrender, half embracing lean'd
On our first father; half her swelling breast
Naked met his, under the flowing gold
Of her loose tresses hid: he in delight,
Both of her beauty and submissive charms,
Smiled with superior love, as Jupiter
On Juno smiles, when he impregns the clouds
That shed May flowers; and press'd her matron lip
With kisses pure: Aside the Devil turn'd
For envy; yet with jealous leer malign
Eyed them askance, and to himself thus plain'd:

Sight hateful, sight tormenting! thus these two, Imparadised in one another's arms, 506 The happier Eden, shall enjoy their fill Of bliss on bliss: while I to Hell am thrust, Where neither joy nor love, but fierce desirc, Among our other torments not the least, 510 Still unfulfill'd with pain of longing pines. Yet let me not forget what I have gain'd From their own mouths: All is not theirs, it seems; One fatal tree there stands, of knowledge call'd, Forbidden them to taste: Knowledge forbidden! Suspicious, reasonless. Why should their Lord Envy them that? Can it be sin to know? Can it be death? And do they only stand By ignorance? Is that their happy state, The proof of their obedience and their faith ! 520 O fair foundation laid whereon to build Their ruin! hence I will excite their minds With more desire to know, and to reject Envious commands, invented with design To keep them low, whom knowledge might exalt 525 Equal with Gods: aspiring to be such, They taste and die: What likelier can ensue? But first with narrow search I must walk round This garden, and no corner leave unspied; A chance but chance may lead where I may meet 530 Some wandering Spirit of Heaven by fountain side, Or in thick shade retired, from him to draw What further would be learn'd. Live while ye may, Yet happy pair; enjoy, till I return, Short pleasures, for long woes are to succeed! 535 So saying, his proud step he scornful turn'd, But with sly circumspection, and began roam. Through wood, through waste, o'er hill, o'er dale, his Meanwhile in utmost longitude, where Heaven With earth and ocean meets, the setting sun 540 Slowly descended, and with right aspect Against the eastern gate of Paradise

Levelled his evening rays: It was a rock

No creature thence: If Spirit of other sort,

THE DIED LOCAL	-
So minded, have o'erleap'd these earthly bounds
On purpose, hard thou know'st it to exclude
Spiritual substance with corporeal bar.	585
But if within the circuit of these walks,
In whatsoever shape he lurk, of whom
Thou tell'st, by morrow dawning I shall know.
So promised he : and Uriel to his charge
Return'd on that bright beam, whose point now ra	ised
Bore him slope downward to the sun now fallen	591
Beneath the Azores; whether the prime orb,
Incredible how swift, had thither roll'd
Diurnal; or this less voluble earth,
By shorter flight to the east, had left him there,	595
Arraying with reflected purple and gold
The clouds that on his western throne attend.
Now came still Evening on, and Twilight gray
Had in her sober livery all things clad;
Silence accompanied; for beast and bird,	600
They to their grassy couch, these to their nests,
Were slunk, all but the wakeful nightingale;
She all night long her amorous descant sung;
Silence was pleased: Now glow'd the firmament
With living sapphires: Hesperus, that led	605
The starry host, rode brightest, till the moon,
Rising in clouded majesty, at length
Apparent queen unveil'd her peerless light,
And o'er the dark her silver mantle threw,
When Adam thus to Eve: Fair Consort, the ho	ur
Of night, and all things now retired to rest,	611
Mind us of like repose; since God hath set
Labour and rest, as day and night to men
Successive; and the timely dew of sleep,
Now falling with soft slumbrous weight, inclines	615
Our eyelids: Other creatures all day long
Rove idle, unemployed, and less need rest;
Man hath his daily work of body or mind
Appointed, which declares his dignity,
And the regard of Heaven on all his ways	620

While other animals inactive range, And of their doings God takes no account. To-morrow, ere fresh morning streak the east With first approach of light, we must be risen, And at our pleasant labour, to reform Yon flowery arbours, yonder alleys green, Our walk at noon with branches overgrown, That mock our scant manuring, and require More hands than ours to lop their wanton growth Those blossoms also, and those dropping gums, 630 That lie bestrown, unsightly and unsmooth, Ask riddance, if we mean to tread with ease; Meanwhile, as Nature wills, night bids us rest. To whom thus Eve, with perfect beauty adorn'd My Author and Disposer what thou bidd'st Unargued I obey: so God ordains: God is thy law, thou mine: To know no more Is woman's happiest knowledge, and her praise. With thee conversing, I forget all time; All seasons, and their change, all please alike. 640 Sweet is the breath of Morn, her rising sweet, With charm of earliest birds: pleasant the sun, When first on this delightful land he spreads His orient beams, on herb, tree, fruit, and flower, Glistering with dew; fragrant the fertile earth 645 After soft showers; and sweet the coming on Of grateful Evening mild; then silent Night, With this her solemn bird, and this fair moon, And these the gems of Heaven, her starry train: But neither breath of Morn, when she ascends 650 With charm of earliest birds: nor rising sun On this delightful land; nor herb, fruit, flower, Glistering with dew; nor fragrance after showers: Nor grateful evening mild; nor silent Night, With this her solemn bird, nor walk by moon, 655 Or glittering starlight, without thee, is sweet. But wherefore all night long shine these? for whom This glorious sight when sleep hath shut all eyes?

To whom our general ancestor replied: Daughter of God and Man, accomplish'd Eve. 660 These have their course to finish round the earth, By morrow evening, and from land to land In order, though to nations yet unborn, Ministering light prepared, they set and rise, Lest total Darkness should by night regain 665 Her old possession, and extinguish life In Nature and all things; which these soft fires Not only enlighten, but with kindly heat Of various influence foment and warm, Temper or nourish, or in part shed down 670 Their stellar virtue on all kinds that grow On earth, made hereby apter to receive Perfection from the sun's more potent ray. These then, though unbeheld in deep of night, 674 Shine not in vain; nor think, though men were none, That Heaven would want spectators, God want praise Millions of spiritual creatures walk the earth Unseen, both when we wake and when we sleep; All these with ceaseless praise his works behold Both day and night: How often from steep 680 Of echoing hill or thicket have we heard Celestial voices to the midnight air. Sole, or responsive each to other's note. Singing their great Creator? oft in bands While they keep watch, or nightly rounding walk, 685 With heavenly touch of instrumental sounds in full harmonic number join'd, their songs Divide the night, and lift our thoughts to Heaven. Thus talking, hand in hand alone they pass'd On to their blissful bower: it was a place 690 Chosen by the sov'reign Planter, when he framed All things to Man's delightful use: the roof Of thickest covert was inwoven shade

Laurel and myrtle, and what higher grew Of firm and fragrant leaf; on either side Acanthus, and each odorous bushy shrub, Fenced up the verdant wall; each beauteous flower, Iris all hues, roses, and jessamine, Rear'd high their flourish'd heads between, and wrought Mosaic; underfoot the violet, Crocus, and hyacinth, with rich inlay Broider'd the ground, more colour'd than with stone Of costliest emblem: Other creature here. Bird, beast, insect, or worm, durst enter none, Such was their awe of Man. In shadier bower 705 More sacred and sequester'd, though but feign'a, Pan or Sylvanus never slept, nor Nymph Nor Faunus haunted. Here, in close recess, With flowers, garlands, and sweet-smelling herbs, Espoused Eve deck'd first her nuptial bed: 710 And heavenly choirs the hymenæan sung. What day the genial Angel to our sire Brought her in naked beauty more adorn'd, More lovely, than Pandora, whom the Gods Endow'd with all their gifts, and O! too like In sad event, when to the unwiser son Of Japhet brought by Hermes, she ensnared Mankind with her fair looks, to be avenged On him who had stolen Jove's authentic fire. Thus, at their shady lodge arrived, both stood,

Thus, at their shady lodge arrived, both stood, 720
Both turn'd, and under open sky adored
The God that made both sky, air, earth, and heaven,
Which they beheld, the moon's resplendent globe,
And starry pole: Thou also madest the night,
Maker Omnipotent, and thou the day
Which we, in our appointed work employ'd,
Have finish'd, happy in our mutual help
And mutual love, the crown of all our bliss
Ordain'd by thee; and this delicious place
For us too large, where thy abundance wants
Partakers, and uncropp'd falls to the ground.
But thou hast promised from us two a race

I AILADIGE LOSI.	30
To fill the earth, who shall with us extol
Thy goodness infinite, both when we wake
And when we seek, as now, thy gift of sleep.	735
This said unanimous, and other rites
Observing none, but adoration pure
Which God likes best, into their inmost bower
Handed they went; and, eased the putting off
These troublesome disguises which we wear,	740
Straight side by side were laid, nor turn'd, I wee	n,
Adam from his fair spouse, nor Eve the rites	57
Mysterious of connubial love refused:
Whatever hypocrites austerely talk
Of purity, and place, and innocence,	745
Defaming as impure what God declares
Pure, and commands to some, leaves free to all.
Our Maker bids increase; who bids abstain
But our Destroyer, foe to God and Man?
Hail, wedded Love! mysterious law, true source	750
Of human offspring, sole propriety
In Paradise of all things common else.
By thee adulterous Lust was driven from men
Among the bestial herds to range; by thee,
Founded in reason, loyal, just, and pure,	755
Relations dear, and all the charities
Ot father, son, and brother, first were known.
Far be it, that I should write thee sin or blame,
Or think thee unbefitting holiest place,
Perpetual fountain of domestic sweets,	760
Whose bed is undefiled and chaste pronounced,
Present or past, as saints and patriarchs used.
Here Love his golden shafts employs, here lights
His constant lamp, and waves his purple wings,
Reigns here and revels; not in the bought smile	765
Of harlots, loveless, joyless, unendear'd,
Casual fruition; nor in court amours,
Mix'd dance, or wanton mask, or midnight ball,
Or serenate, which the starved lever sings
To his proud fair, best quitted with discain.	770

These, lull'd by nightingales, embracing slept.
And on their naked limbs the flowery roof
Shower'd roses, which the morn repair'd. Sleep on,
Bless'd pair! and O' yet happiest, if ye seek
No happier state, and know to know no more.

Now had night measured with her shadowy core
Half way up hill this vast sublunar vault,
And from their ivory port the Cherubim,
Forth issuing at the accustom'd hour, stood arm'd
To their night watches in warlike parade;
When Gabriel to his next in power thus spake:

Uzziel, half these draw off, and coast the south With strictest watch; these other wheel the north; Our circuit meets full west. As flame they part, Half wheeling to the shield, half to the spear. 785 From these two strong and subtle Spirits he call'd That near him stood, and gave them thus in charge.

Ithuriel and Zephon, with wing'd speed
Search through this garden, leave unsearch'd no nook;
But chiefly where those two fair creatures lodge, 790
Now laid perhaps asleep, secure of harm.
This evening from the sun's decline arrived,
Who tells of some infernal Spirit seen
Hitherward bent (who could have thought?) escaped
The bars of Hell, on errand bad no doubt; 795
Such, where ye find, seize fast, and hither bring.

So saying, on he led his radiant files,
Dazzling the moon; these to the bower direct
In search of whom they sought: Him there they found
Squat like a toad, close at the ear of Eve,
Assaying by his devilish art to reach
The organs of her fancy, and with them forge
Illusions, as he list, phantasms and dreams;
Or if, inspiring venom, he might taint
The animal spirits that from pure blood arise
Like gentle breaths, from rivers pure, thence raise
At least distemper'd, discontented thoughts,
Vain hopes, vain aims, inordinate desires,

PARADISE LOST.	97
Blown up with high conceits ingendering pride.
Him thus intent Ithuriel with his spear	810
Touch'd lightly; for no falsehood can endure	010
Touch of celestial temper, but returns
Of force to its own likeness: Up he starts
Discover'd and surprised. As when a spark
Lights on a heap of nitrous powder, laid	815
Fit for the tun some magazine to store	CIO
Against a rumour'd war, the smutty grain,
With sudden blaze diffused, inflames the air;
So started up in his own shape the Fiend.
Back stepp'd those two fair Angels, half amazed	820
So sudden to behold the grisly king;	0.20
Yet thus, unmoved with fear, accost him soon:
Which of those rebel Spirits adjudged to Hell
Comest thou, escaped thy prison? and, transform	4
Why sat'st thou like an enemy in wait,	825
Here watching at the head of these that sleep?	0.20
Know ye not then, said Satan, fill'd with scorn,
Know ye not then, said Satan, and with scorn, Know ye not me? ye knew me once no mate
For you, there sitting where ye durst not soar:
Not to know me argues yourselves unknown,	830
The lowest of your throng; or, if ye know,	000
Why ask ye, and superfluous begin
Your message, like to end as much in vain?
To whom thus Zephon, answering scorn with sc	orn ·
Think not, revolted Spirit, thy shape the same,	835
Or undiminish'd brightness to be known,	000
As when thou stood'st in Heaven upright and pur	e:
That glory then, when thou no more wast good,	ν,
Departed from thee: and they recomblest now

Thy sin and place of doom, obscure and foul. 840 But come; for thou, be sure, shalt give account To him who sent us, whose charge is to keep This place inviolable, and these from harm.

So spake the Cherub: and his grave rebuke, Severe in youthful beauty, added grace Invincible: Abash'd the Devil stood,

And felt how awful goodness is, and saw
Virtue in her shape how lovely; saw, and pined
His loss; but chiefly to find here observed
His lustre visibly impair'd; yet seem'd
Undaunted. If I must contend, said he,
Best with the best, the sender, not the sent,
Or all at once; more glory will be won,
Or less be lost. Thy fear, said Zephon bold,
Will save us trial what the least can do
Single against thee wicked, and thence weak.

The Fiend replied not, overcome with rage;
But, like a proud steed rein'd, went haughty on,
Champing his iron curb: To strive or fly
He held it vain; awe from above had quell'd
His heart, not else dismay'd. Now drew they nigh
The western point, where those half-rounding guards
Just met, and closing stood in squadron join'd,
Avaiting next command. To whom their Chief,
Gabriel, from the front thus call'd aloud:

O friends! I hear the tread of nimble feet
Hasting this way, and now by glimpse discern
Ithuriel and Zephon through the shade;
And with them comes a third of regal port,
But faded splendour wan; who by his gait
And fierce demeanour seems the Prince of Hell,
Not likely to part hence without contest;
Stand firm, for in his look defiance lours.

He scarce had ended, when those two approach'd, And brief related whom they brought, where found, 875 How busied, in what form and posture couch'd.

To whom with stern regard thus Gabriel spake Why hast thou, Satan, broke the bounds prescribe To thy transgressions, and disturb'd the charge Of others, who approve not to transgress By thy example, but have power and right To question thy bold entrance on this place, Employ'd, it seems, to violate sleep, and those Whose dwelling God hath planted here in bliss?

To whom thus Satan with contemptuous brow: 885 Gabriel! thou hadst in Heaven the esteem of wise, And such I held thee; but this question ask'd Puts me in doubt. Lives there who loves his pain? Who would not, finding way, break loose from Hell, Though thither doom'd? Thou wouldst thyself, no doubt, And boldly venture to what ever place Furthest from pain, where thou mightst hope to change Torment with ease, and soonest recompense Dole with delight, which in this place I sought; To thee no reason, who know'st only good, 895 But evil hast n at tried: and wilt object His will who bounds us? Let him surer bar His iron gates, if he intends our stay In that dark durance: thus much what was ask'd. The rest is true, they found me where they say; 900 But that implies not violence or harm. Thus he in scorn. The warlike Angel moved, Disdainfully half smiling, thus replied: O loss of one in Heaven to judge of wise Since Satan fell, whom folly overthrew, 905 And now returns him from his prison scaped, Gravely in doubt whether to hold them wise Or not, who ask what boldness brought him hither Unlicensed from his bounds in Hell prescribed; So wise he judges it to fly from pain 910 However, and to scape his punishment! So judge thou still presumptuous! till the wrath, Which thou incurr'st by flying, meet thy flight Sevenfold, and scourge that wisdom back to Hell, Which taught thee yet no better, that no pain 915 Can equal anger infinite provoked. But wherefore thou alone? wherefore with thee Came not all hell broke loose? is pain to them

But wherefore thou alone? wherefore with thee Came not all hell broke loose? is pain to them Less pain, less to be fled; or thou than they Less hardy to endure? Courageous Chief!

The first in flight from pain! hadst thou alleged

To thy deserted host this cause of flight, Thou surely hadst not come sole fugitive.

To which the Fiend thus answer'd, frowning stern: Not that I less endure, or shrink from pain. 925 Insulting Angel! well thou know'st I stood Thy fiercest, when in battle to thy aid The blasting vollied thunder made all speed, And seconded thy else not dreaded spear. But still thy words at random, as before, 930 Argue thy inexperience what behoves From hard assays and ill successes pass'd A faithful leader, not to hazard all Through ways of danger by himself untried: I, therefore, I alone first undertook 935 To wing the desolate abyss, and spy This new created world, whereof in Hell Fame is not silent, here in hope to find Better abode, and my afflicted Powers To settle here on earth, or in mid air; 940 Though for possession put to try once more What thou and thy gay legions dare against; Whose easier business were to serve their Lord High up in Heaven, with songs to hymn his throne, And practised distances to cringe, not fight. 645 To whom the warrior Angel soon replied: To say and straight unsay, pretending first Wise to fly pain, professing next the spy,

Wise to fly pain, professing next the spy,
Argues no leader but a liar traced,
Satan, and couldst thou 'faithful' add? O name, 950
O sacred name of faithfulness profaned!
Faithful to whom? to thy rebellious crew?
Army of Fiends, fit body to fit head.
Was this your discipline and faith engaged,
Your military obedience, to dissolve
Allegiance to the acknowledged Power supreme?
And thou, sly hypocrite, who now wouldst seem
Patron of liberty, who more than thou

Once fawn'd, and cringed, and servilely adored Heaven's awful Monarch? wherefore, but in hope 960 To dispossess him, and thyself to reign? But mark what I aread thee now, Avaunt! Fly thither whence thou fledst! If from this hour Within these hallow'd limits thou appear, Back to the' infernal pit I drag thee chain'd, 965 And seal thee so as henceforth not to scorn The facile gates of Hell too slightly barr'd. So threatened he; but Satan to no threats Gave heed, but waxing more in rage replied Then when I am thy captive talk of chains, 970 Proud limitary Cherub! but ere then Far heavier load thyself expect to feel From my prevailing arm, though Heaven's King Ride on thy wings, and thou with thy compeers, Used to the yoke, draw'st his triumphant wheels 975 In progress through the road of Heaven star-paved. While thus he spake, the angelic squadron bright Turn'd fiery red, sharpening in mooned horns Their phalanx, and began to hem him round With ported spears, as thick as when a field 980 Of Ceres ripe for harvest waving bends Her bearded grove of ears, which way the wind Sways them; the careful ploughman doubting stands, Lest on the threshing-floor his hopeless sheaves Prove chaff. On the other side, Satan, alarm'd. Collecting all his might, dilated stood, Like Teneriff or Atlas, unremoved: His stature reach'd the sky, and on his crest Sat Horror plumed; nor wanted in his grasp What seem'd both spear and shield: now dreadful deeds Might have ensued, nor only Paradise 991 In this commotion, but the starry cope Of Heaven perhaps, or all the elements At least had gone to wreck, disturb'd and torn With violence in this conflict, had not soon

Hung forth in Heaven his golden scales, yet seen Betwixt Astrea and the Scorpion sign, Wherein all things created first he weigh'd, The pendulous round earth with balanced air 1000 In counterpoise, now ponders all events,

Battles and realms: in these he put two weights. The sequel each of parting and of fight: The latter quick up flew and kick'd the beam; Which Gabriel spying, thus bespake the Fiend: 1005

Satan, I know thy strength, and thou know'st mine; Neither our own, but given: what folly then To boast what arms can do? since thine no more Than Heaven permits, nor mine, though doubled now To trample thee as mire: for proof look up, And read thy lot in yon celestial sign; Tweak. Where thou art weigh'd, and shown how light, how If thou resist. The Fiend look'd up, and knew His mounted scale aloft: no more; but fled Murmuring, and with him fled the shades of night, 1015

PARADISE LOST.

BOOK V.

Morning approached, Eve relates to Adam her troublesome dream he likes it not, yet comforts her: They come forth to their day labours; Their morning hymn at the door of their bower. God, to render man inexcusable, sends Raphael to admonish him of his obedience, of his free estate, of his enemy near at hand, who he is, and why his enemy, and whatever else may avail Adam to know. Raphael comes down to Paradise; his appearance described; his coming discerned by Adam afar off sitting at the door of his bower; he goes out to meet him, brings him to his lodge, entertains him with the choicest fruits of Paradise got together by Eve; their discourse at table: Raphael performs his message, minds Adam of his state and of his enemy; relates, at Adam's request, who that enemy is, and how he came to be so, beginning from his first revol: in Heaven, and the occasion thereof; how he drew his legions after him to the parts of the north, and there incited them to rebel with him, persuading all but only Abdiel, a Seraph, who in argument dissuades and opposes him, then forsakes him.

Now Morn, her rosy steps in the' eastern clime Advancing, sow'd the earth with orient pearl, When Adam waked, so custom'd; for his sleep Was aery light, from pure digestion bred, And temperate vapours bland, which the' only sound 5 Of leaves and fuming rills, Aurora's fan, Lightly dispersed, and the shrill matin song Of birds on every bough; so much the more His wonder was to find unwaken'd Eve With tresses discomposed, and glowing cheek, 10 As through unquiet rest: he, on his side Leaning half raised, with looks of cordial love Hung over her enamour'd, and beheld Beauty, which, whether waking or asleep, Shot forth peculiar graces; then with voice 15 Mild as when Zephyrus on Flora breathes, Her hand soft touching, whisper'd thus: Awake, My fairest, my espoused, my latest found,

Heaven's last best gift, my ever new delight!

Awake: the morning shines, and the fresh field
Calls us; we lose the prime, to mark how sping
Our tender plants, how blows the citron grove,
What drops the myrrh, and what the balmy reed,
How nature paints her colours, how the bee
Sits on the bloom extracting liquid sweet.

Such whispering waked her, but with startled eye On Adam, whom embracing, thus she spake:

O sole in whom my thoughts find all repose. My glory, my perfection ' glad I see Thy face, and morn return'd; for I this night 30 (Such night till this I never pass'd) have dream'd, If dream'd, not, as I oft am wont, of thee, Works of day past, or morrow's next design, But of offence and trouble, which my mind Knew never till this irksome night: methought, 35 Close at mine ear one call'd me forth to walk With gentle voice; I thought it thine: it said, "Why sleep'st thou, Eve? now is the pleasant time, The cool, the silent, save where silence yields To the night-warbling bird, that now awake 40 Tunes sweetest his love-labour'd song, now reigns Full orb'd the moon, and with more pleasing light Shadowy sets off the face of things; in vain, If none regard; Heaven wakes with all his eyes, Whom to behold but thee, Nature's desire? 45 In whose sight all things joy, with ravishment Attracted by thy beauty still to gaze." I rose as at thy call, but found thee not; To find thee I directed then my walk, And on, methought, alone I pass'd through ways 50 That brought me on a sudden to the tree Of interdicted knowledge: fair it seem'd, Much fairer to my fancy than by day: And, as I wondering look'd, beside it stood One shaped and wing'd like one of those from Heaven By us oft seen; his dewy locks distill'd 56 Ambrosia; on that tree he also gazed;

And, "O fair plant," said he, "with fruit surcharge	ed,
Deigns none to ease thy load, and taste thy sweet,
Nor God, nor Man? Is knowledge so despised?	60
Or envy, or what reserve forbids to taste?
Forbid who will, none shall from me withhold
Longer thy offer'd good; why else set here?"
This said, he paused not, but with venturous arm
He pluck'd, he tasted; me damp horror chill'd	65
At such bold words vouch'd with a deed so bold:
But he thus, overjoy'd: "O fruit divine,
Sweet of thyself, but much more sweet thus cropp's	d,
Forbidden here, it seems, as only fit
For Gods, yet able to make Gods of men	70
And why not Gods of Men; since good, the more
Communicated, more abundant grows,
The author not impair'd, but honour'd more?
Here, happy creature, fair angelic Eve!
Partake thou also: happy though thou art,	75
Happier thou mayst be, worthier canst not be:
Taste this, and be henceforth among the Gods
Thyself a Goddess, not to earth confined,
But sometimes in the air, as we, sometimes
Ascend to Heaven, by merit thine, and see	80
What life the Gods live there, and such live thou!'	,
So saying, he drew nigh, and to me held,
Even to my mouth of that same fruit held part
Which he had pluck'd; the pleasant savoury smell
So quicken'd appetite, that I, methought,	85
Could not but taste. Forthwith up to the clouds
With him I flew, and underneath beheld
The earth outstretch'd immense, a prospect wide
And various: wondering at my flight and change
To this high exaltation; suddenly	90
My guide was gone, and I, methought sunk down
And fell asleep; but O, how glad I waked
To find this but a dream! Thus Eve her night
Related, and thus Adam answer'd sad:
Best image of myself, and dearer half,	95

The trouble of thy thoughts this night in sleep Affects me equally; nor can I like This uncouth dream, of evil sprung, I fear; Yet evil whence? in thee can harbour none, Created pure. But know that in the soul 100 Are many lesser faculties, that serve Reason as chief; among these Fancy next Her office holds; of all external things, Which the five watchful senses represent, She forms imaginations, aery shapes, 105 Which Reason, joining or disjoining, frames All what we affirm or what deny, and call Our knowledge or opinion; then retires Into her private cell, when nature rests. Oft in her absence mimic Fancy wakes 110 To imitate her; but, misjoining shapes, Wild work produces oft, and most in dreams; Ill matching words and deeds long past or late. Some such resemblances, methinks, I find Of our last evening's talk, in this thy dream, 115 But with addition strange; yet be not sad. Evil into the mind of God or Man May come and go, so unapproved, and leave No spot or blame behind: which gives me hope That what in sleep thou didst abhor to dream 120 Waking thou never wilt consent to do. Be not dishearten'd then, nor cloud those looks, That wont to be more cheerful and serene Than when fair morning first smiles on the world; And let us to our fresh employments rise 125 Among the groves, the fountains, and the flowers That open now their choicest bosom'd smells, Reserved from night, and kept for thee in store. So cheer'd he his fair spouse, and she was cheer'd;

So cheer'd he his fair spouse, and she was cheer'd;
But silently a gentle tear let fall

From either eye, and wiped them with her hair;
Two other precious drops that ready stood,
Each in their crystal sluice, he ere they fell

PARADISE LOST.	107.
Kiss'a, as the gracious signs of sweet remorse
	135
But first, from under shady arborous roof
Soon as they forth were come to open sight
Of dayspring, and the sun, who, scarce uprisen,
With wheels yet hovering o'er the ocean-brim,	140
Shot parallel to the earth his dewy ray,
Discovering in wide landscape all the east
Of Paradise and Eden's happy plains;
Lowly they bow'd adoring, and began
Their orisons, each morning duly paid	145
In various style; for neither various style
Nor holy rapture wanted they to praise
Their Maker, in fit strains pronounced, or sung
Unmeditated: such prompt eloquence
Flow'd from their lips, in prose or numerous verse,	150
More tunable than needed lute or harp,
To add more sweetness; and they thus began:
These are thy glorious works, Parent of good,
Almighty! Thine this universal frame,
Thus wondrous fair; thyself how wondrous then!	155
Unspeakable, who sitt'st above these heavens
To us invisible, or dimly seen
In these thy lowest works; yet these declare
Thy goodness beyond thought, and power divine

In these thy lowest works; yet these declare
Thy goodness beyond thought, and power divine
Speak, ye who best can tell, ye sons of light,
Angels; for ye behold him, and with songs
And choral symphonies, day without night,
Circle his throne rejoicing; ye in Heaven.
On Earth join, all ye creatures, to extol
Him first, him last, him midst, and without end.
Fairest of stars, last in the train of night,
If better thou belong not to the dawn,
Sure pledge of day, that crown'st the smiling morn
With thy bright circlet, praise him in thy sphere,
While day arises, that sweet hour of prime.

Thou Sun of this great world both eye and sou!,

Acknowledge him thy greater; sound his praise In thy eternal course, both when thou climb'st. And when high noon has gain'd, and when thou fall'st. Moon, that now meet'st the orient sun, now fliest, 175 With the fix'd Stars, fix'd in their orb that flies: And, we five other wandering Fires, that move In mystic dance not without song, resound His praise, who out of darkness call'd up light. Air, and, ye Elements, the eldest birth 180 Of Nature's womb, that in quaternion run Perpetual circle, multiform; and mix And nourish all things; let your ceaseless change Vary to our great Maker still new praise. Ye Mists and Exhalations, that now rise 185 From hill or steaming lake, dusky or gray, Till the sun paint your fleecy skirts with gold, In honour to the world's great Author rise; Whether to deck with clouds the uncolour'd sky, Or whet the thirsty earth with falling showers, 190 Rising or falling still advance his praise. His praise, ye Winds, that from four quarters blow. Breathe soft or loud; and, wave your tops, ye Pines, With every plant, in sign of worship wave. Fountains, and ye that warble, as ye flow, 195 Melodious murmurs, warbling tune his praise. Join voices, all ye living Souls: Ye Birds, That singing up to Heaven-gate ascend, Bear on your wings and in your notes his praise. Ye that in waters glide, and ye that walk 200 The earth, and stately tread or lowly creep: Witness if I be silent, morn or even, 'l'o hill, or valley, fountain, or fresh shade, Male vocal by my song, and taught his praise. Hail, universal Lord! be bounteous still 205 To give us only good; and if the night Have gather'd aught of evil, or conceal'd, Disperse it, as now light dispels the dark! So pray'd they innocent, and to their thoughts

Firm peace recover'd soon, and wonted calm. On to their morning's rural work they haste,	210
Among sweet dews and flowers; where any row Of fruit trees over-woody reach'd too far
Their pamper'd boughs, and needed hands to chec	.Y-
Fruitless embraces: or they led the vine	215
To wed her elm; she, spoused, about him twines
Her marriageable arms, and with her brings
Her dower, the adopted chasters, to adorn
His barren leaves. Them thus employ'd beheld
With pity Heaven's high King, and to him call'd	226
Raphael, the sociable Spirit, that deign'd
To travel with Tobias, and secured
His marriage with the seven-times wedded maid.
Raphael, said he, thou licar'st what stir on Eart	lı
Satan, from Hell scaped through the darksome gu
Hath raised in Paradise; and how disturb'd	226
This night the human pair; how he designs
In them at once to ruin all mankind.
Go, therefore, half this day as friend with friend
Converse with Adam, in what bower or shade	230
Thou find'st him from the heat of noon retired,
To respite his day-labour with repast,
Or with repose; and such discourse bring on,
As may advise him of his happy state,
Happiness in his power left free to will,	235
Left to his own free will, his will though free,
Yet mutable; whence warn him to beware
He swerve not, too secure: Tell him withal
His danger, and from whom; what enemy,
Late fallen himself from Heaven, is plotting now	240
The fall of others from like state of bliss;
By violence? no, for that shall be withstood;
But by deceit and lies: This let him know,
Lest, wilfully transgressing, he pretend
Surprisal, unadmonish'd, unforewarn'd,	245

Surprisal, unadmonish'd, unforowarn'd. So spake the Eternal Father, and fulfill'd All justice: Nor dolay'd the winged Saint After his charge received; but from among Thousand celestial Ardours, where he stood Veil'd with his gorgeous wings, upspringing light, 250 Flew through the midst of Heaven, the angelic choirs, On each hand parting, to his speed gave way Through all the empyreal road; till, at the gate Of Heaven arrived, the gate self-open'd wide On golden hinges turning, as by work 255 Divine the sov'reign Architect had framed. From hence no cloud, or, to obstruct his sight, Star interposed, however small, he sees, Not unconform'd to other shining globes, Earth, and the garden of God, with cedars crown'd Above all hills. As when by night the glass 261 Of Galileo, less assured, observes Imagined lands and regions in the moon · Or pilot, from amidst the Cyclades Delos or Samos first appearing, kens 265 A cloudy spot. Down thither prone in flight He speeds, and through the vast ethereal sky Sails between worlds and worlds, with steady wing Now on the polar winds, then with quick fan Winnows the buxom air; till, within soar 270 Of towering eagles, to all the fowls he seems A phenix, gazed by all as that sole bird, When, to enshrine his reliques in the Sun's Bright temple, to Egyptian Thebes he flies. At once on the eastern cliff of Paradise 275 He lights, and to his proper shape returns, A seraph wing'd: Six wings he wore to shade His lineaments divine; the pair that clad Each shoulder broad, came mantling o'er his breast With regal ornament! the middle pair 283 Girt like a starry zone his waist, and round Skirted his loins and thighs with downy gold And colours dipp'd in Heaven; the third his feet Shadow'd from either heel with feather'd mail, Sky-tinctured grain. Like Maia's son he stood,

And shook his plumes, that heavenly fragrance fill'd The circuit wide. Straight knew him all the bands Of Angels under watch; and to his state And to his message high, in honour rise : For on some message high they guess'd him bound. Their glittering tents he pass'd, and now is come 291 Into the blissful field, through groves of myrrh, And flowering odours, cassia, nard, and balm; A wilderness of sweets: for Nature here Wanton'd as in her prime, and play'd at will 295 Her virgin fancies, pouring forth more sweet, Wild above rule or art, enormous bliss. Him through the spicy forest onward come Adam discern'd, as in the door he sat Of his cool bower, while now the mounted sun 300 Shot down direct his fervid rays to warm Earth's inmost womb, more warmth than Adam needs. And Eve within, due at her hour, prepared For dinner savoury fruits, of taste to please True appetite, and not disrelish thirst Of nectarous draughts between, from milky stream, Berry or grape: To whom thus Adam call'd:

Haste hither, Eve, and worth thy sight behold
Eastward among those trees, what glorious shape
Comes this way moving; seems another morn 310
Risen on midnoon; some great behest from Heaven
To us perhaps he brings, and will vouchsafe
This day to be our guest. But go with speed,
And, what thy stores contain, bring forth, and pour
Abundance, fit to honour and receive 315
Our heavenly stranger: Well may we afford
Our givers their own gifts, and large bestow
From large bestow'd, where nature multiplies
Her fertile growth, and by disburdening grows
More fruitful, which instructs us not to spare. 320
To whom thus Eve: Adam, earth's hallow'd mould,

Of God inspired! small store will serve, where store, All seasons, ripe for use hangs on the stalk; Save what by frugal storing firmness gains
To nourish, and superfluous moist consumes.

But I will haste, and from each bough and brake,
Each plant and junciest gourd, will pluck such choice
To entertain our Angel guest, as he
Beholding shall confess, that here on Earth
God hath dispensed his bounties as in Heaven.

So gaving with despetable looks in bottom

So saying, with despatchful looks in haste She turns, on hospitable thoughts intent; What choice to choose for delicacy best, What order, so contrived as not to mix Tastes not well join'd, inelegant, but bring 335 Taste after taste upheld with kindliest change; Bestirs her then, and from each tender stalk Whatever Earth, all bearing mother, yields In India East or West, or middle shore In Pontus or the Punic coast, or where 340 Alcinous reign'd, fruit of all kinds, in coat Rough, or smooth rind, or bearded husk, or shell, She gathers tribute large, and on the board Heaps with unsparing hand; for drink the grape She crushes, inoffensive must, and meaths 345 From many a berry, and from sweet kernels press'd She tempers dulcet creams; nor these to hold Wants her fit vessels pure; then strows the ground With rose and odcurs from the shrub unfumed.

Meanwhile our primitive great sire, to meet

His Godlike guest, walks forth, without more train

Accompanied than with his own complete

Perfections; in himself was all his state,

More solemn than the tedious pomp that waits

On princes, when their rich retinue long

Of horses led, and grooms besmear'd with gold,

Dazzles the crowd, and sets them all agape.

Nearer his presence Adam, though not awed,

Yet with submiss approach and reverence meek,

As to a superior nature bowing low,

Thus said: Native of Heaven, for other place

None can than Heaven such glorious shape contain
Since, by descending from the thrones above,
Those happy places thou hast deign'd a while
To want, and honour these, vouchsafe with us
Two only, who yet by sov'reign gift possess
This spacious ground, in yonder shady bower
To rest; and what the garden choicest bears
To sit and taste, till this meridian heat
Be over, and the sun more cool decline.

Whom thus the angelic Virtue answer'd mild:

Adam, I therefore came; nor art thou such Created, or such place hast here to dwell, As may not oft invite, though Spirits of Heaven, To visit thee; lead on then where thy bower 375 O'ershades; for these midhours, till evening rise, I have at will. So to the silvan lodge They came, that like Pomona's arbour smiled, With flowerets deck'd, and fragrant smells; but Eve, Undeck'd save with herself, more lovely fair Than Woodnymph, or the fairest Goddess feign'd Of three that in mount Ida naked strove, Stood to entertain her guest from Heaven; no veil She needed, virtue-proof; no thought infirm Alter'd her cheek. On whom the Angel Hail 385 Bestow'd, the holy salutation used

Long after to bless'd Mary, second Eve.

Hail, Mother of Mankind, whose fruitful womb
Shall fill the world more numerous with thy sons
Than with these various fruits the trees of God
Have heap'd this table!—Raised of grassy turf
Their table was, and mossy seats had round,
And on her ample square from side to side
All autumn piled, though spring and autumn here
Danced hand in hand. A while discourse they hold; 395
No fear lest dinner cool; when thus began
Our author: Heavenly stranger, please to taste
These bounties, which our Nourisher, from whom
All perfect good, unmeasured out, descends,

And to their viands fell; nor seemingly The Angel, nor in mist, the common gloss

Of Theologians; but with keen despatch Of real hunger, and concoctive heat 440

To transubstantiate: what redounds transpires
Through Spirits with ease: nor wonder; if by fire	в
Of sooty coal the empiric alchemist	445
Can turn, or holds it possible to turn,
Metals of drossiest ore to perfect gold,
As from the mine. Meanwhile at table Eve
Minister'd naked, and their flowing cups
With pleasant liquors crown'd: O innocence	450
Deserving Paradise! If ever, then,
Then had the sons of God excuse to have been
Enamour'd at that sight; but in those hearts
Love unlibidinous reign'd, nor jealousy
Was understood, the injured lover's hell.	455
Thus when with meats and drinks they had suff	iced,
Not burden'd nature, sudden mind arose
In Adam, not to let the occasion pass
Given him by this great conference to know
Of things above his world, and of their being	460
Who dwell in Heaven, whose excellence he saw
Transcend his own so far; whose radiant forms,
Divine effulgence, whose high power, so far
Exceeded human; and his wary speech
Thus to the empyreal minister he framed:	465
Inhabitant with God, now know I well
Thy favour, in this honour done to Man;
Under whose lowly roof thou hast vouchsafed
To enter, and these earthly fruits to taste,
Food not of Angels, yet accepted so,	470
As that more willingly thou couldst not seem
At Heaven's high feasts to have fed; yet what com	pare?
To whom the winged Hierarch replied:
O Adam, One Almighty is, from whom
All things proceed, and up to him return,	475
If not depraved from good, created all
Such to perfection, one first matter all,
Endued with various forms, various degrees
Of substance, and, in things that live, of life;
But more refined, more spiritous, and pure,	480

As nearer to him placed, or nearer tending Each in their several active spheres assign'd, Till body up to spirit work, in bounds Proportion'd to each kind. So from the root Springs lighter the green stalk, from thence the leaves More acry, last the bright consummate flower 486 Spirit odórous breathes: flowers and their fruit, Man's nourishment, by gradual scale sublimed, To vital spirits aspire, to animal, To intellectual; give both life and sense, 490 Fancy and understanding; whence the soul Reason receives, and reason is her being, Discursive, or intuitive; discourse Is oftest yours, the latter most is ours, Differing but in degree, of kind the same. 495 Wonder not then, what God for you saw good If I refuse not, but convert, as you, To proper substance. Time may come, when Men With Angels may participate, and find No inconvenient diet, nor too light fare : 500 And from these corporal nutriments perhaps Your bodies may at last turn all to spirit, Improved by tract of time, and, wing'd, ascend Ethereal, as we; or may, at choice, Here or in heavenly Paradises dwell; 505 If ye be found obedient, and retain Unalterably firm his love entire, Whose progeny you are. Meanwhile enjoy Your fill what happiness this happy state Can comprehend, incapable of more. 510 To whom the patriarch of mankind replied: O favourable Spirit, propitious guest, Well hast thou taught the way that might direct Our knowledge, and the scale of nature set From centre to circumference; whereon, 515 In contemplation of created things, By steps we may ascend to God. But say,

What meant that caution join'd, If we be found

PARADISE LOST.	117
Obedient? Can we want obedience then
To him, or possibly his love desert,	520
Who form'd us from the dust and placed us here,
Full to the utmost measure of what bliss
Human desires can seek or apprehend?
To whom the Angel: Son of Heaven and Earth,
Attend! That thou art happy, owe to God;	525
That thou continuest such, owe to thyself,
That is, to thy obedience; therein stand.
This was that caution given thee; be advised.
God made thee perfect, not immutable;
And goed he made thee, but to persevere	530
He left it in thy power; ordain'd thy will
By nature free, not overruled by fate
Inextricable, or strict necessity:
Our voluntary service he requires,
Not our necessitated; such with him	535
Finds no acceptance, nor can find; for how
Can hearts, not free, be tried whether they serve
Willing or no, who will but what they must
By destiny, and can no other choose?
Myself, and all the angelic host, that stand	540
In sight of God enthroned, our happy state
Hold, as you yours, while our obedience holds;
On other surety none: freely we serve,
Because we freely love, as in our will
To love or not, in this we stand or fall:	545
And some are fallen, to disobedience fallen,
And so from Heaven to deepest Hell; O fall
From what high state of bliss, into what woe!
To whom our great progenitor: Thy words
Attentive, and with more delighted ear,	550
Divine instructor, I have heard, than when
Cherubic songs by night from neighbouring hills
Aerial music send: nor knew I not
To be both will and deed created free:	~~~
Yet that we never shall forget to love	550
Our Maker, and obey him whose command

Single is yet so just, my constant thoughts Assured me, and still assure: though what thou tell'st Hath pass'd in Heaven some doubt within me move, But more desire to hear, if thou consent, The full relation, which must needs be strange, Worthy of sacred silence to be heard; And we have yet large day, for scarce the sun Hath finish'd half his journey, and scarce begins His other half in the great zone of Heaven. 565

Thus Adam made request: and Raphaël,

After short pause assenting, thus began: High matter thou enjoin'st me, O prime of men Sad task and hard: for how shall I relate To human sense the invisible exploits 570 Of warring Spirits? how, without remorse, The ruin of so many glorious once And perfect while they stood? how last unfold The secrets of another world, perhaps Not lawful to reveal? yet for thy good 575 This is dispensed; and what surmounts the reach Of human sense, I shall delineate so, By likening spiritual to corporeal forms, As may express them best; though what if Earth Be but the shadow of Heaven, and things therein 580 Each to other like, more than on earth is thought?

As yet this world was not, and Chaos wild Reign'd where these Heavens now roll, where Earth Upon her centre poised; when on a day Inow rests (For time, though in eternity, applied 585 To motion, measures all things durable By present, past, and future,) on such day As Heaven's great year brings forth, the empyrial host Of Angels, by imperial summons call'd, Innumerable before the Almighty's throne 590 Forthwith, from all the ends of Heaven, appear'd Under their Hierarchs in orders bright: Ten thousand thousand ensigns high advanced, Standards and gonfalons 'twixt van and rear

Stream in the air, and for distinction serve	595
Of hierarchies, of orders, and degrees;
Or in their glittering tissues bear imblazed
Holy memorials, acts of zeal and love
Recorded eminent. Thus when in orbs
Of circuit inexpressible they stood,	600
Orb within orb, the Father Infinite,
By whom in bliss imbosom'd sat the Son,
Amidst as from a flaming mount, whose top
Brightness had made invisible, thus spake:
Hear, all ye. Angels, progeny of light,	605
Thrones, Dominations, Princedoms, Virtues, Power	ers;
Hear my decree, which unrevoked shall stand.	,
This day I have begot whom I declare
My only Son, and on this holy hill
Him have anointed, whom ye now behold	610
At my right hand; your head I him appoint;
And by myself have sworn, to him shall bow
All knees in Heaven, and shall confess him Lord;
Under his great vicegerent reign abide
United, as one individual soul,	615
For ever happy: him who disobeys,
Me disobeys, breaks union, and that day,
Cast out from God and blessed vision, falls
Into utter darkness, deep ingulf'd, his place
Ordain'd without redemption, without end.	620
So spake the Omnipotent, and with his words
All seem'd well pleased; all seem'd, but were not	all.
That day, as other solemn days, they spent
In song and dance about the sacred hill;
Mystical dance, which yonder starry sphere	625
Of planets, and of fix'd, in all her wheels
Resembles nearest, mazes intricate,
Eccentric, intervolved, yet regular
Then most, when most irregular they seem;
And in their motions harmony divine	630
So smooths her charming tones, that Gods own e	ar
Listens delighted. Evening now approach'd

(For we have also our evening and our morn, We ours for change delectable, not need;) Forthwith from dance to sweet repast they turn 635 Desirous: all in circles as they stood, Tables are set, and on a sudden piled With Angels' food, and rubied nectar flows In pearl, in diamond, and massy gold, Fruit of delicious vines, the growth of Heaven. 640 On flowers reposed, and with fresh flowerets crown'd. They eat, they drink, and in communion sweet Quaff immortality and joy, secure Of surfeit, where full measure only bounds Excess, before the all bounteous King, who shower'd With copious hand, rejoicing in their joy. 646 Now when ambrosial night, with clouds exhaled From that high mount of God whence light and shade Spring both, the face of brightest Heaven had changed To grateful twilight (for night comes not there In darker veil,) and roseate dews disposed All but the unsleeping eyes of God to rest; Wide over all the plain, and wider far Than all this globous earth in plain outspread (Such are the courts of God.) the angelic throng, 655 Dispersed in bands and files, their camp extend By living streams among the trees of life, Pavilions numberless, and sudden rear'd, Celestial tabernacles, where they slept Fann'd with cool winds; save those, who in their course, Melodious hymns about the sov'reign throne 661 Alternate all night long: but not so waked Satan; so call him now, his former name Is heard no more in Heaven; he of the first, If not the first Archangel, great in power, 665 In favour, and preeminence, yet fraught With envy against the Son of God, that day Honour'd by his great Father, and proclaim'd Messiah King anointed, could not bear Through pride that sight, and thought himself impair'd,

With regal sceptre, every soul in Heaven Shall bend the knee, and in that honour due Confess him rightful King? unjust, thou say'st, Flatly unjust, to bind with laws the free, And equal over equals to let reign, 825 One over all with unsucceeded power. Shalt thou give law to God? shalt thou dispute With him the points of liberty, who made Thee what thou art, and form'd the Powers of Heaven Such as he pleased, and circumscribed their being? Yet, by experience taught, we know how good, 831 And of our good and of our dignity How provident he is; how far from thought To make us less, bent rather to exalt Our happy state, under one head more near 835 United. But to grant it thee unjust, That equal over equals monarch reign: Thyself, though great and glorious, dost thou count, Or all angelic nature join'd in one, Equal to him begotten Son? by whom, 840 As by his Word, the Mighty Father made All things, e'en thee; and all the Spirits of Heaven By him created in their bright degrees, Crown'd them with glory, and to their glory named Thrones, Dominations, Princedoms, Virtues, Powers, Essential powers; nor by his reign obscured, But more illustrious made; since he the head One of our number thus reduced becomes; His laws our laws; all honour to him done Returns our own. Cease then this impious rage, 850 And tempt not these; but hasten to appease The incensed Father, and the incensed Son, While pardon may be found in time besought.

So spake the fervent Angel: but his zeal None seconded, as out of season judged, 855 Or singular and rash: Whereat rejoiced The Apostate, and, more haughty, thus replied: That we were form'd then, say'st thou? and the work

This report, These tidings carry to the anointed King; 875 And fly, ere evil intercept thy flight. He said: and, as the sound of waters deep, Hoarse murmur echo'd to his words applause Through the infinite host; nor less for that The flaming Scraph fearless, though alone 880 Encompass'd round with foes, thus answer'd bold: O alienate from God, O Spirit accursed, Forsaken of all good! PARADISE LOST.

BOOK VI

Raphael continues to relate how Michael and Gabriel were sent forth to battle against Satan and his Angels. The first fight described: Satan and his Powers retire under night: He calls a council; invents devilish engines, which, in the second day's fight, put Michael and his Angels to some disorder; but they at length, pulling up mountains, overwhelmed both the force and machines of Satan; Yet, the tumult not so ending, God, on the third day, sends MESSIAH his son, for whom he had reserved the glory of that victory: He, in the power of his Father, coming to the place, and causing all his legions to stand still on either side, with his chariot and thunder driving into the midst of his enemies, pursues them, unable to resist, towards the wall of Heaven: which opening, they leap down with horror and confusion into the place of punishment prepared for them in the deep; MESSIAH returns with triumph to his Father.

ALL night the dreadless Angel, unpursued, Morn. Through Heaven's wide champaign held his way; till Waked by the circling Hours, with rosy hand Unbarr'd the gates of light. There is a cave Within the mount of God, fast by his throne, 5 Where light and darkness in perpetual round Lodge and dislodge by turns, which makes through Grateful vicissitude, like day and night; Heaven Light issues forth, and at the other door Obseguious darkness enters, till her hour 10 To veil the Heaven, though darkness there might well Seem twilight here: And now went forth the Morn Such as in highest Heaven array'd in gold Empyreal; from before her vanish'd Night, Shot through with orient beams; when all the plain 15 Cover'd with thick embattled squadrons bright, Chariots, and flaming arms, and fiery steeds, Reflecting blaze on blaze, first met his view: War he perceived, war in procinct; and found Already known what he for news had thought 20

To have reported: Gladly then he mix'd
Among those friendly Powers, who him received
With joy and acclamations loud, that one,
That of so many myriads fallen, yet one
Return'd not lost. On to the sacred hill	25
They led him high applauded, and present
Before the seat supreme; from whence a voice,
From midst a golden cloud, thus mild was heard:
Servant of God, well done; well hast thou fough	ıt
The better fight, who single hast maintain'd	30
Against revolted multitudes the cause
Of truth, in word mightier than they in arms;
And for the testimony of truth hast borne
Universal reproach, far worse to bear
Than violence; for this was all thy care	35
To stand approved in sight of God, though worlds
Judged thee perverse: The easier conquest now
Remains thee, aided by this host of friends,
Back on thy foes more glorious to return
Than scorn'd thou didst depart; and to subdue	40
By force who reason for their law refuse,
Right reason for their law, and for their King
Messiah, who by right of merit reigns.
Go, Michael, of celestial armies prince,
And thou, in military prowess next,	45
Gabriel, lead forth to battle these my sons
Invincible; lead forth my armed Saints,
By thousands and by millions, ranged for fight,
Equal in number to that Godless crew
Rebellious: Them with fire and hostile arms	50
Fearless assault; and, to the brow of Heaven
Pursuing, drive them out from God and bliss,
Into their place of punishment, the gulf
Of Tartarus, which ready opens wide
His fiery Chaos to receive their fall.	55
So spake the Sov'reign Voice, and clouds began
To darken all the hill, and smoke to roll

In dusky wreaths, reluctant flames, the sign

Of wrath awaked; nor with less dread the loud Ethereal trumpet from on high 'gan blow: 60 At which command the Powers militant, That stood for Heaven, in mighty quadrate join'd Of union irresistible, moved on In silence their bright legions, to the sound Of instrumental harmony, that breathed 65 Heroic ardour to adventurous deeds. Under their Godlike leaders, in the cause Of God and his Messiah. On they move Indissolubly firm; nor obvious hill, Nor straitening vale, nor wood, nor stream divides 70 Their perfect ranks; for high above the ground Their march was, and the passive air upbore Their nimble trend: as when the total kind Of birds, in orderly array on wing, Came summon'd over Eden to receive 75 Their names of thee; so over many a tract Of Heaven they march'd, and many a province wide, Tenfold the length of this terrene At last, Far in the horizon to the north appear'd From skirt to skirt a fiery region, stretch'd 80 In battailous aspéct, and nearer view, Bristled with upright beams innumerable Of rigid spears, and helmets throng'd, and shields Various, with boastful argument portray'd, The banded Powers of Satan hasting on 85 With furious expedition; for they ween'd That selfsame day, by fight or by surprise, To win the mount of God, and on his throne To set the Envier of his state, the proud Aspirer; but their thoughts proved fond and vain In the mid way: Though strange to us it seem'd At first that Angel should with Angel war, And in fierce hosting meet, who wont to meet So oft in festivals of joy and love Unanimous, as sons of one great Sire, 95 Hymning the Eternal Father: but the shout

Of battle now began, and rushing sound Of onset ended soon each milder thought. High in the midst, exalted as a god, The Apostate in his sun-bright chariot sat, 100 Idol of majesty divine, enclosed With flaming Cherubini, and golden shields; Then lighted from his gorgeous throne, for now 'Twixt host and host but narrow space was left, A dreadful interval, and front to front 105 Presented stood in terrible array Of hideous length: Before the cloudy van, On the rough edge of battle ere it join'd, Satan, with vast and haughty strides advanced, Came towering, arm'd in adamant and gold; 110 Abdiel that sight endured not, where he stood Among the mightiest, bent on highest deeds, And thus his own undaunted heart explores:

O Heaven! that such resemblance of the Highest Should yet remain, where faith and realty Remain not: Wherefore should not strength and might There fail where virtue fails, or weakest prove Where boldest, though to sight unconquerable? His puissance, trusting in the Almighty's aid, I mean to try, whose reason I have tried 120 Unsound and false; nor is it aught but just, That he, who in debate of truth hath won, Should win in arms, in both disputes alike Victor; though brutish that contest and foul When reason hath to deal with force, vet so 125 Most reason is that reason overcome.

So pondering, and from his armed peers Forth stepping opposite, half way he met His daring foe, at this prevention more Incensed, and thus securely him defied:

Proud, art thou met? thy hope was to have reach'd The height of thy aspiring unopposed, The throne of God unguarded, and his side Abandon'd, at the terror of thy power

Or potent tongue: Fool! not to think how vain 135 Against the Omnipotent to rise in arms; Who out of smallest things could, without end. Have raised incessant armies to defeat Thy folly; or with solitary hand Reaching beyond all limit, at one blow, 140 Unaided, could have finish'd thee, and whelm'd Thy legions under darkness: but thou seest All are not of thy train: there be, who faith Prefer, and piety to God, though then To thee not visible, when I alone 145 Seem'd in thy world erroneous to dissent From all: My sect thou seest; now learn too late How few sometimes may know, when thousands err. Whom the grand foe, with scornful eye askance, Thus answer'd: Ill for thee, but in wish'd hour 150 Of my revenge, first sought for, thou return'st From flight, seditious Angel! to receive Thy merited reward, the first assay Of this right hand provoked, since first that tongue, Inspired with contradiction, durst oppose 155 A third part of the Gods, in synod met Their deities to assert; who, while they feel Vigour divine within them, can allow Omnipotence to none. But well thou comest Before thy fellows, ambitious to win 160 From me some plume, that thy success may show Destruction to the rest; This pause between (Unanswer'd lest thou boast,) to let thee know At first I thought that Liberty and Heaven To heavenly souls had been all one; but now I see that most through sloth had rather serve. Ministering Spirits, train'd up in feast and song! Such hast thou arm'd, the minstrelsy of Heaven, Servility with freedom to contend, As both their deeds compared this day shall prove. 170

To whom in brief thus Abdiel stern replied: Apostate! still thou err'st, nor end wilt find

The adverse legions, nor less hideous join'd The horrid shock. Now storming fury rose, And clamour such as heard in Heaven till now Was never; arms on armour clashing bray'd

Of brazen chariots raged; dire was the noise Of conflict; overhead the dismal hiss Of fiery darts in flaming volleys flew, And flying vaulted either host with fire. So under fiery cope together rush'd 215 Both battles main, with ruinous assault And inextinguishable rage. All Heaven Resounded; and had Earth been then, all Earth Had to her centre shook. What wonder? when Millions of fierce encountering Angels fought 220 On either side, the least of whom could wield These elements, and arm him with the force Of all their regions: How much more of Power Army against army numberless to raise Dreadful combustion warring, and disturb, 225Though not destroy, their happy native seat; Had not the Eternal King Omnipotent, From his strong hold of Heaven, high overruled And limited their might; though number'd such As each divided legion might have seem'd 230 A numerous host; in strength each armed hand A legion? led in fight, yet leader seem'd Each warrior single as in chief, expert When to advance, or stand, or turn the sway Of battle, open when, and when to close 235 The ridges of grim war: No thought of flight, None of retreat, no unbecoming deed That argued fear; each on himself relied, As only in his arm the moment lay Of victory: Deeds of eternal fame 240 Were done, but infinite; for wide was spread That war, and various; sometimes on firm ground A standing fight, then, soaring on main wing, Tormented all the air : all air seem'd then Conflicting fire. Long time in even scale 945 The battle hung; till Satan, who that day Prodigious power had shown, and met in arms No equal, ranging through the dire attack

Of fighting Seraphim confused, at length Saw where the sword of Michael smote, and fell'd 250 Squadrons at once; with huge two-handed sway Brandish'd aloft, the horrid edge came down Wide wasting; such destruction to withstand He hasted, and opposed the rocky orb Of tenfold adamant, his ample shield, 255 A vast circumference. At his approach The great Archangel from his warlike toil Surceased, and glad as hoping here to end Intestine war in Heaven, the archfoe subdued Or captive dragg'd in chains, with hostile frown 260 And visage all inflamed first thus began : Author of evil unknown till thy revolt Unnamed in Heaven, now plenteous as thou seest These acts of hateful strife, hateful to all, Though heaviest by just measure on thyself, 265 And thy adherents: How hast thou disturb'd Heaven's blessed peace, and into nature brought Misery, uncreated till the crime Of thy rebellion! how hast thou instill'd Thy malice into thousands, once upright 270 And faithful, now proved false! But think not here To trouble holy rest; Heaven casts thee out

Thy malice into thousands, once upright 270
And faithful, now proved false! But think not here
To trouble holy rest; Heaven casts thee out
From all her confines. Heaven, the seat of bliss,
Brooks not the works of violence and war.
Hence then, and evil go with thee along, 275
Thy offspring, to the place of evil, Hell;
Thou and thy wicked crew! there mingle broils,

Ere this avenging sword begin thy doom,
Or some more sudden vengeance, wing'd from God,
Precipitate thee with augmented pain.

So spake the Prince of Angels; to whom thus
The Adversary. Nor think thou with wind
Of acry threats to awe whom yet with deeds
Thou canst not. Hast thou turn'd the least of these
To flight, or if to fall, but that they rise
Unvanpuish'd, easier to transact with me

That thou shouldst hope, imperious, and with threats To chase me hence? err not, that so shall end The strife which thou call'st evil, but we style The strife of glory; which we mean to win, 290 Or turn this Heaven itself into the Hell Thou fablest; here however to dwell free, If not to reign: Meanwhile thy utmost force, And join him named Almighty to thy aid, I fly not, but have sought thee far and nigh. 295 They ended parle, and both address'd for fight Unspeakable; for who, though with the tongue Of Angels, can relate, or to what things Liken on earth conspicuous, that may lift Human imagination to such height 300 Of Godlike power? for likest Gods they seem'd; Stood they or moved, in stature, motion, arms, Fit to decide the empire of great Heaven. Now waved their fiery swords, and in the air Made horrid circles; two broad suns their shields 305 Blazed opposite, while Expectation stood In horror: From each hand with speed retired, Where erst was thickest fight, the angelic throng, And left large field, unsafe within the wind Of such commotion; such as, to set forth 310 Great things by small, if, nature's concord broke, Among the constellations war were sprung, Two planets, rushing from aspect malign Of fiercest opposition, in mid sky Should combat, and their jarring spheres confound. Together both with next to almighty arm 316 Uplifted imminent, one stroke they aim'd That might determine, and not need repeat, As not of power at once; nor odds appear'd In might or swift prevention: But the sword 320 Of Michael from the armory of God. Was given him temper'd so that neither keen

Nor solid might resist that edge: it met
The sword of Satan, with steep force to smite

Descending, and in half cut sheer; nor staid,	325
But with swift wheel reverse, deep entering, shar	ed
All his right side: Then Satan first knew pain,
And writhed him to and fro convolved; so sore
The griding sword with discontinuous wound
Pass'd through him: But the ethereal substance cle	osed,
Not long divisible; and from the gash	331
A stream of nectarous humour issuing flow'd
Sanguine, such as celestial Spirits may bleed,
And all his armour stained, erewhile so bright.
Forthwith on all sides to his aid was run	335
By Angels many and strong, who interposed
Defence, while others bore him on their shields
Back to his chariot, where it stood retired
From off the files of war: There they him laid
Gnashing for anguish and despite and shame,	340
To find himself not matchless, and his pride
Humbled by such rebuke, so far beneath
His confidence to equal God in power.
Yet soon he heal'd; for Spirits that live througho	ut
Vital in every part, not as frail man	345
In entrails, heart or head, liver or reins,
Cannot but by annihilating die;
Nor in their liquid texture mortal wound
Receive, no more than can the fluid air:
All heart they live, all head, all eye, all ear,	350
All intellect, all sense; and, as they please,
They limb themselves, and colour, shape, or size
Assume, as likes them best, condense or rare.
Meanwhile in other parts like deeds deserved
Memorial, where the might of Gabriel fought,	355
And with fierce ensigns pierced the deep array
Of Moloch, furious king; who him defied,
And at his chariot-wheels to drag him bound
Threaten'd, nor from the Holy One of Heaven
Refrain'd his tongue blasphémous; but anon	360
Down cloven to the waist, with shatter'd arms

And uncouth pain fled bellowing. On each wing

Uriel, and Raphaël, his vaunting foe, Though huge, and in a rock of diamond arm'd, Vanquish'd Adramalech, and Asmadai, 365 Two potent Thrones, that to be less than Gods Disdain'd, but meaner thoughts learn'd in their flight, Mangled with ghastly wounds through plate and mail. Nor stood unmindful Abdiel to annov The atheist crew, but with redoubled blow 370 Ariel, and Arioch, and the violence Of Ramiel scorch'd and blasted, overthrew. I might relate of thousands, and their names Eternize here on earth; but those elect Angels, contented with their fame in Heaven, 375 Seek not the praise of men: The other sort, In might though wondrous and in acts of war, Nor of renown less eager, yet by doom Cancel'd from Heaven and sacred memory, Nameless in dark oblivion let them dwell. 380 For strength from truth divided, and from just, Illaudable, nought merits but dispraise And ignominy; yet to glory aspires Vain-glorious, and through infamy seeks fame . Therefore eternal silence be their doom. 385 And now, their mightiest quell'd, the battle swerved, With many an inroad gored; deformed rout Enter'd, and foul disorder; all the ground With shiver'd armour strown, and on a heap Chariot and charioteer lay overturn'd, 390 And fiery-foaming steeds; what stood recoil'd O'er wearied, through the faint Satanic host Defensive scarce, or with pale fear surprised, Then first with fear surprised, and sense of pain, Fled ignominious, to such evil brought 395 By sin of disobedience; till that hour Not liable to fear or flight or pain. Far otherwise the inviolable Saints

In cubit phalanx firm, advanced entire, Invulnerable, impenetrably arm'd;

Such high advantages their innocence Gave them above their foes; not to have sinn'd, Not to have disobey'd; in fight they stood Unwearied, unobnoxious to be pain'd By wound, though from their place by violence moved. Now night her course began, and, over Heaven 406 Inducing darkness, grateful truce imposed, And silence on the odious din of war: Under her cloudy covert both retired, Victor and vanquish'd: On the foughten field 410 Michael and his Angels prevalent Encamping, placed in guard their watches round, Cherubic waving fires: On the other part, Satan with his rebellious disappear'd, Far in the dark dislodged; and, void of rest, 415 His potentates to council call'd by night; And in the midst thus undismay'd began: O now in danger tried, now known in arms Not to be overpower'd, Companions dear, Found worthy not of liberty alone, 420 Too mean pretence! but what we more affect, Honour, dominion, glory, and renown; Who have sustain'd one day in doubtful fight, (And if one day, why not eternal days?) What Heaven's Lord had powerfulest to send 425 Against us from about his throne, and judged Sufficient to subdue us to his will, But proves not so: then fallible, it seems, Of future we may deem him, though till now Omniscient thought. True is, less firmly arm'd, 430 Some disadvantage we endured and pain, Till now not known, but, known, as soon contemn'd; Since now we find this our empyreal form Incapable of mortal injury, Imperishable, and, though pierced with wound. 435

Soon closing, and by native vigour heal'd. Of evil then so small as easy think The remedy; perhaps more valid arms

These things, as not to mind from whence they grow Deep under ground, materials dark and crude, Of spirituous and fiery spume, tili touch'd With Heaven's ray, and temper'd, they shoot forth 480 So beauteous, opening to the ambient light? These in their dark nativity the deep Shall yield us, pregnant with infernal flame; Which, into hollow engines, long and round, Thick ramm'd, at the other bore with touch of fire 485 Dilated and infuriate, shall send forth From far, with thundering noise, among our foes Such implements of mischief as shall dash To pieces, and o'erwhelm whatever stands Adverse, that they shall fear we have disarm'd 490 The Thunderer of his only dreaded boit. Nor long shall be our labour; yet ere dawn, Effect shall end our wish. Meanwhile revive : Abandon fear; to strength and counsel join'd Think nothing hard, much less to be despair'd. 495 He ended, and his words their drooping cheer Enlighten'd, and their languish'd hope revived. The invention all admired, and each, how he To be the inventor miss'd; so easy it seem'd [thought Once found, which yet unfound most would have Impossible: Yet haply of thy race 501 In future days, if malice should abound, Some one intent on mischief, or inspired With devilish machination, might devise Like instrument to plague the sons of men 505 For sin, on war and mutual slaughter bent. Forthwith from council to the work they flew, None arguing stood; innumerable hands Were ready; in a moment up they turn'd Wide the celestial soil, and saw beneath 510 The originals of nature in their crude Conception; sulphurous and nitrous foam They found, they mingled, and, with subtle art,

Concocted and adjusted, they reduced

550

To blackest grain, and into store convey'd:
Part hidden veins digged up (nor hath this earth
Entrails unlike) of mineral and stone,
Whereof to found their engines and their balls
Of missive rum; part incentive reed
Provide, pernicious with one touch to fire,
So all ere dayspring, under conscious night,
Secret they finish'd, and in order set,
With silent circumspection, unespied.

Now when fair morn orient in Heaven appear'd. Up rose the victor-Angels, and to arms 525 The matin trumpet sung: in arms they stood Of golden panoply, refulgent host, Soon banded; others from the dawning hills Look round, and scouts each coast light-armed scour, Each quarter to descry the distant foe, 530 Where lodged, or whither fled, or if for fight, In motion or in halt: Him soon they met Under spread ensigns moving nigh, in slow But firm battalion: back with speediest sail Zophiel, or Cherubim the swiftest wing, 535 Came flying, and in mid air aloud thus cried .

Arm, Warriors, arm for fight; the foe at hand,
Whom fled we thought, will save us long pursuit
This day; fear not his flight; so thick a cloud
He comes, and settled in his face I see
Sad resolution, and secure: Let each
His adamantine coat gird well, and each
Fit woll his helm, gripe fast his orbed shield,
Borne even or high; for this day will pour down,
If I conjecture aught, no drizzling shower,
545

But rattling storms of arrows barb'd with fire.
So warn'd he them, aware themselves, and soon
In order, quit of all impediment;
Instant without disturb they took alarm,
And onward moved embattled: When behold!

Not distant far with heavy pace the foe Approaching gross and huge, in hollow cube

PARADISE LOST.	143
Training his devilish enginery, impaled
On every side with shadowing squadrons deep,
To hide the fraud. At interview both stood	555
Awhile; but suddenly at head appear'd
Satan, and thus was heard commanding loud:
Vanguard, to right and left the front unfold;
That all may see who hate us, how we seek
Peace and composure, and with open breast	560
Stand ready to receive them, if they like
Our overture, and turn not back perverse;
But that I doubt; however witness, Heaven!
Heaven, witness thou anon! while we discharge	,
Freely our part: ye, who appointed stand,	565
Do as you have in charge, and briefly touch
What we propound, and loud that all may hear!
So scoffing in ambiguous words, he scarce
Had ended; when to right and left the front
Divided, and to either flank retired:	570
Which to our eyes discover'd, new and strange,
A triple mounted row of pillars laid
On wheels (for like to pillars most they seem'd,
Or hollow'd bodies made of oak or fir,
With branches lopp'd, in wood or mountain fell'd,)	57 5
Brass, iron, stony mould, had not their mouths
With hideous orifice gaped on us wide,
Portending hollow truce: At each behind
A Seraph stood, and in his hand a reed
Stood waving tipp'd with fire: while we, suspense,	580
Collected stood within our thoughts amused,
Not long: for sudden all at once their reeds
Put forth, and to a narrow vent applied
With nicest touch. Immediate in a flame,	584
But soon obscured with smoke, all Heaven appear
From those deep-throated engines belch'd, whose	roar
Embowel'd with outrageous noise the air,
And all her entrails tore, disgorging foul
Their devilish glut, chain'd thunderbolts and hail
Of iron globes; which, on the victor host	590

Level'd, with such impetuous fury smote, That, whom they hit, none on their feet might stand, Though standing else as rocks, but down they fell By thousands, Angel on Archangel roll'd; The sooner for their arms; unarm'd, they might 595 Have easily, as Spirits, evaded swift By quick contraction or remove; but now Foul dissipation follow'd, and forced rout; Nor served it to relax their serried files. What should they do? if on they rush'd, repulse 600 Repeated, and indecent overthrow Doubled, would render them yet more despised, And to their foes a laughter; for in view Stood rank'd of Seraphim another row, In posture to displode their second tire 605 Of thunder: Back defeated to return They worse abhorr'd. Satan beheld their plight, And to his mates thus in derision call'd:

O Friends! why come not on these victors proud? Ere while they ficree were coming; and when we 610 To entertain them fair with open front And breast, (what could we more?) propounded terms Of composition, straight they changed their minds, Flew off, and into strange vagaries fell, As they would dance; yet for a dance they seem'd 615 Somewhat extravagant and wild; perhaps For joy of offer'd peace: But I suppose If our proposals once again were heard, We should compel them to a quick result.

To whom thus Belial, in like gamesome mood: 620
Leader! the terms we sent were terms of weight,
Of hard contents, and full of force urged home,
Such as we might perceive amused them all,
And stumbled many: Who receives them right
Had need from head to foot well understand;
Not understood, this gift they have besides,
They show us when our foes walk not upright.

So they among themselves in pleasant vein

Stood scoffing, heighten'd in their thoughts beyon	1
All doubt of victory: Eternal Might	630
To match with their inventions they presumed
So easy, and of his thunder made a scorn,
And all his host derided, while they stood
Awhile in trouble: But they stood not long;
Rage prompted them at length, and found them as	ms
Against such hellish mischief fit to oppose.	636
Forthwith (behold the excellence, the power,
Which God hath in his mighty Angels placed!)
Their arms away they threw, and to the hills
	640
Of pleasure situate in hill and dale,)
Light as the lightning glimpse they ran, they flev	v;
From their foundations loosening to and fro,
They pluck'd the seated hills, with all their load,
Rocks, waters, woods, and by the shaggy tops	645
Uplifting bore them in their hands: Amaze,
Be sure, and terror seized the rebel host,
When coming towards them so dread they saw
The bottom of the mountains upward turn'd;
Till on those cursed engines' triple-row	650
They saw them whelm'd, and all their confidence
Under the weight of mountains buried deep;
Themselves invaded next, and on their heads
Main promontories flung, which in the air	654
Came shadowing, and oppress'd whole legions arm	d;
Their armour helped their harm, crush'd in and brui
Into their substance pent, which wrought them pa	in
Implacable, and many a dolorous groan;
Long struggling underneath, ere they could wind
Out of such prison, though Spirits of purest light,	660
Purest at first, now gross by sinning grown.
The rest, in imitation, to like arms
Betook them, and the neighbouring hills uptore:
So hills amid the air encounter'd hills,
Hurl'd to and fro with jaculation dire;	665
That under ground they fought in dismal shade;
13

Infernal noise! war seem'd a civil game
To this uproar; horrid confusion heap'd
Upon confusion rose: and now all Heaven
Had gone to wrack, with ruin overspread;
Had not the Almighty Father, where he sits
Shrined in his sanctuary of Heaven secure,
Consulting on the sum of things, foreseen
This tumult, and permitted all, advised:
That his great purpose he might so fulfil,
To honour his anointed Son avenged
Upon his enemies, and to declare
All power on him transferr'd: whence to his Son,
The Assessor of his throne, he thus began:
Effulgence of my glory, Son beloved,

All power on him transferr'd: whence to his Son, The Assessor of his throne, he thus began: 680 Son, in whose face invisible is beheld Visibly what by Deity I am; And in whose hand what by decree I do, Second Omnipotence! two days are pass'd, Two days, as we compute the days of Heaven, 685 Since Michael and his Powers went forth to tame These disobedient: sore hath been their fight, As likeliest was, when two such foes met arm'd, For to themselves I left them; and thou know'st, Equal in their creation they were form'd, Save what sin hath impair'd; which yet hath wrought Insensibly, for I suspend their doom; Whence in perpetual fight they needs must last Endless, and no solution will be found: War wearied hath perform'd what war can do, 695 And to disorder'd rage let loose the reins, With mountains, as with weapons, arm'd; which makes Wild work in Heaven, and dangerous to the main. Two days are therefore pass'd, the third is thine; For thee I have ordain'd it; and thus far 700 Have suffer'd, that the glory may be thine Of ending this great war, since none but Thou Can end it. Into thee such virtue and grace

Immense I have transfused that all may know

in Heaven and Hell thy power above compare;	705
And, this perverse commotion govern'd thus,
To manifest thee worthiest to be Heir
Of all things; to be Heir, and to be King
By sacred unction, thy deserved right.
Go then, Thou Mightiest, in thy Father's might;	710
Ascend my chariot, guide the rapid wheels
That shake Heaven's basis, bring forth all my wan	.,
My bow and thunder, my almighty arms
Gird on, and sword upon thy puissant thigh;
Pursue these sons of darkness, drive them out	715
From all Heaven's bounds into the utter deep:
There let them learn, as likes them, to despise
God, and Messiah his anointed King.
He said, and on his Son with rays direct
Shone full; he all his Father full express'd	720
Ineffably into his face received;
And thus the Filial Godhead answering spake:
O Father, O Supreme of heavenly Thrones,
First, Highest, Holiest, Best; thou always seek'st
To glorify thy Son, I always thee,	725
As is most just: this I my glory account,
My exaltation, and my whole delight,
That thou, in me well pleased, declarest thy will
Fulfill'd, which to fulfil is all my bliss.
Sceptre and power, thy giving, I assume,	730
And gladlier shall resign, when in the end
Thou shalt be all in all, and I in thee
For ever; and in me all whom thou lovest:
But whom thou hatest I hate, and can put on
Thy terrors, as I put thy mildness on,	735
Image of thee in all things, and shall soon,
Arm'd with thy might, rid Heaven of these rebell'	d,
To their prepared ill mansion driven down,
To chains of darkness, and the undying worm;
That from thy just obedience could revolt,	740
Whom to obey is happiness entire.
Then shall thy Saints unmix'd, and from the impu	re

I'ar separate, circling thy holy mount, Unfeigned Hallelujahs to thee sing, Hymns of high praise, and I among them Chief.

So said, no, o'er his sceptre bowing, rose
From the right hand of Glory where he sat;
And the third sacred morn began to shine, [sound,
Dawning through Heaven. Forth rush'd with whirlwind
The chariot of Paternal Deity. 750

The charict of Paternal Deity, 75
Flashing thick flames, wheel within wheel undrawn,
Itself instinct with Spirit, but convoy'd
By four Cherubic shapes: four faces each

By four Cherubic shapes; four faces each
Had wondrous; as with stars, their bodies all
And wings were set with eyes; with eyes the wheels
Of beryl, and careering fires between;
756

Over their heads a crystal firmament, Whereon a sapphire throne, inlaid with pure

Amber, and colours of the showery arch.
He, in celestial panoply all arm'd

Of radiant Urim, work divinely wrought, Ascended; at his right hand Victory

Sat eagle-winged; beside him hung his bow And quiver with three-bolted thunder stored:

And quiver with three-bolted thunder stored; And from about him fierce effusion roll'd

Of smoke and bickering flame and sparkles dire: Attended with ten thousand Saints,

He onward came; far off his coming shone; And twenty thousand (I their number heard)

Chariots of God, half on each hand, were seen; He on the wings of Cherub rode sublime

On the crystalline sky, in sapphire throned, Illustrious far and wide; but by his own First seen; them unexpected joy surprised,

When the great ensign of Messiah blazed Aloft by Angels borne, his sign in Heaven; Under whose conduct Michael soon reduced

His army, circumfused on either wing, Under their Head embodied all in one.

Before him Power Divine his way prepared;

At his command the uprooted hills retired Each to his place; they heard his voice, and went Obsequious; Heaven his wonted face renew'd, And with fresh flowerets hill and valley smiled. This saw his hapless foes, but stood obdured, 785 And to rebellious fight rallied their Powers, Insensate, hope conceiving from despair. In heavenly Spirits could such perverseness dwell? But to convince the proud what signs avail, Or wonders move the obdurate to relent? 790 They, harden'd more by what might most reclaim. Grieving to see his glory, at the sight Took envy; and, aspiring to his height, Stood reembattled fierce, by force or fraud Weening to prosper, and at length prevail 795 Against God and Messiah, or to fall in universal ruin last; and now To final battle drew, disdaining flight, Or faint retreat; when the great Son of God To all his host on either hand thus spake: 800 Stand still in bright array, ye Saints; here stand. Ye Angels arm'd; this day from battle rest: Faithful hath been your warfare, and of God Accepted, fearless in his righteous cause; And as ye have received, so have ye done, 805 Invincibly: but of this cursed crew The punishment to other hand belongs; Vengeance is his, or whose he sole appoints: Number to this day's work is not ordain'd, Nor multitude; stand only, and behold 810 God's indignation on these godless pour'd By me; not you, but me they have despised, Yet envied; against me is all their rage, Because the Father, to whom in Heaven supreme Kingdom and power and glory appertains, 815 Hath honour'd me, according to his will. Therefore to me their doom he hath assign'd: That they may have their wish, to try with me

In battle which the stronger proves; they all,
Or I alone against them; since by strength
They measure all, of other excellence
Not emulous, nor care who them excels;
Nor other strife with them do I vouchsafe.
So spake the Son, and into terror changed
His countenance too severe to be beheld,
And full of wrath bent on his enemies.

At once the Four spread out their starry wings With dreadful shade contiguous, and the orbs Of his fierce chariot roll'd, as with the sound Of torrent floods, or of a numerous host. He on his impious foes right onward drove, Gloomy as night; under his burning wheels The steadfast empyréan shook throughout, All but the throne itself of God. Full soon Among them he arrived; in his right hand 835 Grasping ten thousand thunders, which he sent Before him, such as in their souls infix'd Plagues: they, astonish'd, all resistance lost, All courage; down their idle weapons dropp'd: O'er shields and helms and helmed heads be rode 840 Of Thrones and mighty Seraphim prostráte, That wish'd the mountains now might be again Thrown on them, as a shelter from his ire Nor less on either side tempestuous fell His arrows, from the fourfold-visaged Four 845 Distinct with eyes, and from the living wheels Distinct alike with multitude of eyes;

Distinct alike with multitude of eyes;
One Spirit in them ruled; and every eye
Glared lightning, and shot forth pernicious fire
Among the accursed, that wither'd all their strength,
And of their wonted vigour left them drain'd,
Exhausted, spiritless, afflicted, fallen.

Yet half his strength he put not forth, but check'd His thunder in mid volley; for he meant Not to destroy, but root them out of Heaven:

The overthrown he raised; and, as a herd

Of goats or timorous flock together throng'd,
Drove them before him thunderstruck, pursued
With terrors, and with furies, to the bounds
And crystal wall of Heaven: which, opening wide, 860
Roll'd inward, and a spacious gap disclosed
Into the wasteful deep: the monstrous sight
Struck them with horror backward, but far worse
Urged them behind headlong themselves they threw
Down from the verge of Heaven; eternal wrath 865
Burn'd after them to the bottomless pit.

Hell heard the unsufferable noise, Hell saw Heaven ruining from Heaven, and would have fled Affrighted; but strict Fate had cast too deep Her dark foundations, and too fast had bound. 870 Nine days they fell: confounded Chaos roar'd, And felt tenfold confusion in their fall Through his wild anarchy, so huge a rout Encumber'd him with ruin : Hell at last Yawning received them whole, and on them closed; Hell, their fit habitation, fraught with fire 876 Unquenchable, the house of woe and pain. Disburden'd Heaven rejoiced, and soon repair d Her mural breach, returning whence it roll'd. Sole victor, from the expulsion of his foes, 880 Messiah his triumphal chariot turn'd: To meet him all his Saints, who silent stood Eye-witnesses of his almighty acts, With jubilee advanced; and, as they went, Shaded with branching palm, each Order bright 885 Sung triumph, and him sung victorious King, Son, Heir, and Lord, to him dominion given, Worthiest to reign: He, celebrated, rode Triumphant through mid Heaven, into the courts And temple of his Mighty Father throned 890 On high; who into glory him received, Where now he sits at the right hand of bliss. [Earth, Thus, measuring things in Heaven by things on

At thy request, and that thou mayst beware

By what is pass'd, to thee I have reveal'd What might have else to human race been hid: The discord which befel, and war in Heaven Among the angelic Powers, and the deep fall Of those too high aspiring, who rebell'd With Satan; he who envies now thy state, 900 Who now is plotting how he may seduce Thee also from obedience, that, with him Bereaved of happiness, thou mayst partake His punishment, eternal misery; Which would be all his solace and revenge, As a despite done against the Host High, Thee once to gain companion of his woe. But listen not to his temptations, warn Thy weaker: let it profit thee to have heard, By terrible example, the reward 910 Of disobedience; firm they might have stood, Yet fell; remember, and fear to transgress.

PARADISE LOST.

BOOK VII.

Raphael, at the request of Adam, relates how and wherefore this world was first created; that God, after the expelling of Satan and his Angels out of Heaven, declared his pleasure to create another world, and other creatures to dwell therein; sends his Son with glory, and attendance of Angels, to perform the work of Creation in six days: the Angels celebrate with hymns the performance thereof, and his reascension into Heaven

DESCEND from Heaven, Urania, by that name
If rightly thou art call'd, whose voice divine
Following, above the Olympian hill I soar,
The meaning, not the name, I call: for thou	5
Nor of the Muses nine, nor on the top
Of old Olympus dwell'st; but heavenly born,
Before the hills appear'd or fountain flow'd,
Thou with eternal Wisdom didst converse,
Wisdom thy sister, and with her didst play	10
In presence of the Almighty Father, pleased
With thy celestial song. Up led by thee
Into the Heaven of Heavens I have presumed,
An earthly guest, and drawn empyreal air,
Thy tempering: with like safety guided down	15
Return me to my native element:
Lest from this flying steed unrein'd (as once
Bellerophon, though from a lower clime,)
Dismounted, on the Aleian field I fall,
Erroneous there to wander, and forlorn.	20
Half yet remains unsung, but narrower bound
Within the visible diurnal sphere;
Standing on earth, not wrapp'd above the pole,

194	I AILADISE LOSI.
More safe	I sing with mortal voice, unchanged
	e or mute, though fallen on evil days,	25
On evil d	ays though fallen, and evil tongues;
	ess, and with dangers compass'd round,
And solite	ude; yet not alone, while thou
	y slumbers nightly, or when morn
Purples tl	he east: still govern thou my song,	30
Urania, a	nd fit audience find, though few.
But drive	far off the barbarous dissonance
Of Bacch	nus and his revellers, the race
Of that v	vild rout that tore the Thracian bard
In Rhodo	pe, where woods and rocks had ears	35
To raptur	e, till the savage clamour drown'd
Both harp	and voice; nor could the Muse defend
Her son.	So fail not thou, who thee implores.
For thou	art heavenly, she an empty dream.
Say, G	oddess, what ensued when Raphaël,	40
The affab	le Archangel, had forewarn'd dire example, to beware
	, by what befel in Heaven
	apostates: lest the like befal
	se to Adam or his race,	45
	not to touch the interdicted tree,
	cansgress, and slight that sole command,	r
	obey'd amid the choice
Of all tas	stes else to please their appetite,
	wandering. He, with his consorted Eve,	50
	y heard attentive, and was fill'd niration and deep muse, to hear
	s so high and strange; things, to their thou	ght
	aginable, as hate in Heaven,
	so near the peace of God in bliss,	55
	h confusion: but the evil, soon
	ack, redounded as a flood on those

Lea on, y	yet sinless, with desire to know

What nearer might concern him, how this world Of Heaven and Earth conspicuous first began; When, and whereof created; for what cause; What within Eden, or without, was done 65 Before his memory; as one whose drouth Yet scarce allay'd still eyes the current stream, Whose liquid murmur heard new thirst excites, Proceeded thus to ask his heavenly guest. Great things, and full of wonder in our ears, 70 Far differing from this world, thou hast reveal'd, Divine interpreter! by favour sent Down from the empyréan, to forewarn Us timely of what might else have been our loss, Unknown, which human knowledge could not reach: For which to the infinitely Good we owe Immortal thanks, and his admonishment Receive, with solemn purpose to observe Immutably his sov'reign will, the end Of what we are. But since thou hast vouchsafed 80 Gently, for our instruction, to impart Things above earthly thought, which yet concern'd Our knowing, as to highest wisdom seem'd, Deign to descend now lower, and relate What may no less perhaps avail us known, 85 How first began this Heaven which we behold Distant so high, with moving fires adorn'd Innumerable; and this which yields or fills All space, the ambient are wide interfused Embracing round this florid Earth; what cause 90 Moved the Creator, in his holy rest Through all eternity, so late to build In Chaos; and, the work begun, how soon Absolved; if unforbid thou mayst unfold What we, not to explore the secrets ask 95 Of his eternal empire, but the more To magnify his works, the more we know. And the great light of day yet wants to run

Much of his race though steep; suspense in Heaven, Held by thy voice, thy potent voice, he hears, And longer will delay to hear thee tell His generation, and the rising birth Of Nature from the unapparent Deep . Or if the star of evening and the moon Haste to thy audience, Night with her will bring 105 Silence; and Sleep, listening to thee, will watch; Or we can bid his absence, till thy song End, and dismiss thee ere the morning shinc. Thus Adam his illustrious guest besought: And thus the Godlike Angel answer'd mild: 110 This also thy request, with caution ask'd, Obtain; though to recount almighty works What words or tongue of Seraph can suffice, Or heart of man suffice to comprehend? Yet what thou canst attain, which best may serve 115 To glorify the Maker, and infer Thee also happier, shall not be withheld Thy hearing; such commission from above I have received, to answer thy desire Of knowledge within bounds; beyond, abstain 120 To ask; nor let thine own inventions hope Things not reveal'd, which the invisible King, Only Omniscient, hath suppress'd in night; To none communicable in Earth or Heaven: Enough is left besides to search and know. 125 But knowledge is as food, and needs no less Her temperance over appetite, to know In measure what the mind may well contain; Oppresses else with surfeit, and soon turns Wisdom to folly, as nourishment to wind. 130 Know then, that, after Lucifer from Heaven (So call him, brighter once amidst the host Of Angels than that star the stars among,)

Fell with his flaming legions through the deep Into his place: and the great Son return'd

Victorious with his Saints, the Omnipotent Eternal Father from his throne beheld Their multitude; and to his Son thus spake:

At least our envious Foe hath fail'd, who thought All like himself rebellious, by whose aid 140 This inaccessible high strength, the seat Of Deity supreme, us dispossess'd, He trusted to have seized, and into fraud Drew many, whom their place knows here no more: Yet far the greater part have kept, I see, 145 Their station; Heaven, yet populous, retains Number sufficient to possess her realms Though wide, and this high temple to frequent With ministeries due and solemn rites; But, lest his heart exalt him in the harm 150 Already done, to have dispeopled Heaven, My damage fondly deem'd, I can repair That detriment, if such it be to lose Self-lost; and in a moment will create Another world, out of one man a race 155 Of men innumerable, there to dwell, Not here: till, by degrees of merit raised, They open to themselves at length the way Up hither, under long obedience tried;

One kingdom, joy and union without end.

Meanwhile inhabit lax, ye Powers of Heaven;

And thou my Word, begotten Son, by thee

This I perform; speak thou, and be it done!
My overshadowing Spirit and Might with thee
I send along; ride forth, and bid the Deep
Within appointed bounds be Heaven and Earth,
Boundless the Deep, because I Am who fill

Infinitude, nor vacuous the space.

Though I, uncircumscribed myself, retire,

And put not forth my goodness, which is free To act or not, Necessity and Chance Approach not me, and what I will is Fate.

So spake the Almighty, and to what he spake His Word, the Filial Godhead, gave effect. 175 Immediate are the acts of God, more swift Than time or motion, but to human ears Cannot without process of speech be told. So told as earthly notion can receive. Great triumph and rejoicing was in Heaven, 180 When such was heard declared the Almighty's will: Glory they sung to the Most High, good will To future men, and in their dwellings peace; Glory to Him, whose just avenging ire Had driven out the ungodly from his sight 185 And the habitations of the just; to Him Glory and praise, whose wisdom had ordain'd Good cut of evil to create: instead Of Spirits malign, a better race to bring Into their vacant room, and thence diffuse 190 His good to worlds and ages infinite So sang the Hierarchies: meanwhile the Son On his great expedition now appear'd, Girt with Omnipotence, with radiance crown'd Of Majesty Divine; sapience and love 195 Immense, and all his Father in him shone. About his chariot numberless were pour'd Cherub, and Seraph, Potentates, and Thrones, And Virtues, winged Spirits, and chariots wing'd From the armory of God; where stand of oid 200 Myriads, between two brazen mountains lodged Against a solemn day, harness'd at hand, Celestial equipage; and now came forth Spontaneous, for within them Spirit lived, Attendant on their Lord: Heaven open'd wide 205 Her ever during gates, harmonious sound, On golden hinges moving, to let forth The King of Glory, in his powerful Word And Spirit coming to create new worlds. On heavenly ground they stood; and from the shore 'They view'd the vast immeasurable abyes

Outrageous as a sea, dark, wasteful, wild, Up from the bottom turn'd by furious winds And surging waves, as mountains, to assault 214 Heaven's height, and with the centre mix the pole. Silence, ye troubled Waves, and, thou Deep, peace, Said then the Omnific Word; your discord end! Nor staid; but, on the wings of Cherubim Uplifted, in paternal glory rode Far into Chaos, and the world unborn; 220 For Chaos heard his voice: Him all his train Follow'd in bright procession, to behold Creation, and the wonders of his might. Then staid the fervid wheels, and in his hand He took the golden compasses, prepared In God's eternal store, to circumscribe This universe, and all created things: One foot he centred, and the other turn'd Round through the vast profundity obscure; And said. Thus far extend, thus far thy bounds, 230 This be thy just circumference, O World! Thus God the Heaven created, thus the Earth, Matter unform'd and void: darkness profound Cover'd the abyss: but on the watery calm His brooding wings the Spirit of God outspread, 235 And vital virtue infused, and vital warmth Throughout the fluid mass; but downward purged The black tartareous cold infernal dregs, Adverse to life: then founded, then conglobed Like things to like; the rest to several place 240 Disparted, and between spun out the air; And Earth self-balanced on her centre hung. Ethereal, first of things, quintessence pure,

Let there be Light, said God; and forthwith Light Ethereal, first of things, quintessence pure, Sprung from the deep; and from her native east 245 To journey through the aery gloom began, Sphered in a radiant cloud, for yet the sun Was not; she in a cloudy tabernacle Sojourn'd the while. God saw the light was good,

And light from darkness by the hemisphere
Divided: light the Day, and darkness Night,
He named. Thus was the first day even and morn.
Nor pass'd uncelebrated, nor unsung
By the celestial choirs, when orient light
Exhaling first from darkness they beheld;
Birthday of Heaven and Earth; with joy and shout
The hollow universal orb they fill'd,
And touch'd their golden harps, and hymning praised
God and his works; Creator him they sung,
Both when first evening was, and when first morn. 260
Again, God said, Let there be firmament
Amid the waters, and let it divide

Both when first evening was, and when first morn. 260
Again, God said, Let there be firmament
Amid the waters, and let it divide
The waters from the waters; and God made
The firmament, expanse of liquid, pure,
Transparent, elemental air, diffused
In circuit to the uttermost convex
Of this great round; parfition firm and sure,
The waters underneath from those above
Dividing: for as earth, so he the world
Built on circumfluous waters calm, in wide
Crystalline ocean, and the loud misrule
Of Chaos far removed; lest fierce extremes
Contiguous might distemper the whole frame:
And Heaven he named the Firmament: so even
And morning chorus sung the second day.

275

The Earth was form'd, but, in the womb as vet
Of waters, embryon immature involved,
Appear'd not: over all the face of Earth
Main ocean flow'd, not idle; but, with warm
Prolific humour softening all her globe,
Fermented the great mother to conceive,
Satiate with genial moisture; when God said,
Be gather'd now, ye waters under Heaven,
Into one place, and let dry land appear.
Inmediately the mountains huge appear
Emergent, and their broad bare backs upheave
Into the clouds; their tops ascend the sky;

PARADISE LOST.

So high as heaved the tumid hills, so low Down sunk a hollow bottom broad and deep, Capacious bed of waters: thither they 290 Hasted with glad precipitance, uproll'd, As drops on dust conglobing from the dry. Part rise in crystal wall, or ridge direct, For haste; such flight the great command impress'd On the swift floods: as armies at the call 295 Of trumpet (for of armies thou hast heard) Troop to their standard; so the watery throng, Wave rolling after wave, where way they found, If steep, with torrent rapture, if through plain, Soft-ebbing; nor withstood them rock or hill; 300 But they, or under ground, or circuit wide With serpent error wandering, found their way, And on the washy ocze deep channels wore; Easy, ere God had bid the ground be dry, All but within those banks, where rivers now 305 Stream, and perpetual draw their humid train. The dry land Earth, and the great receptacle Of congregated waters he call'd Seas: And saw that it was good; and said, Let the Earth Put forth the verdant grass, herb vielding seed, 310 And fruit-tree yielding fruit after her kind, Whose seed is in herself upon the Earth. He scarce had said, when the bare Earth, till then Desert and bare, unsightly, unadorn'd, Brought forth the tender grass, whose verdure clad 315 Her universal face with pleasant green; Then herbs of every leaf, that sudden flower'd Opening their various colours, and made gay Her bosom, smelling sweet: and, these scarce blown, Forth flourish'd thick the clustering vine, forth crept The swelling gourd, up stood the corny reed 321 Embattled in her field, and the humble shrub. And bush with frizzled hair implicit: last Rose, as in dance, the stately trees, and spread Their branches hung with copious fruit, or gemm'd 325

Their blossoms: with high woods the hills were crown'd; With tufts the valleys, and each fountain side; With borders long the rivers: the Earth now Seem'd like to Heaven, a seat where Gods might dwell, Or wander with delight, and love to haunt 330 Her sacred shades: though God had yet not rain'd Upon the Earth, and man to till the ground None was; but from the Earth a dewy mist Went up, and water'd all the ground, and each Plant of the field; which, ere it was in the Earth, 335 God made, and every herb, before it grew On the green stem: God saw that it was good: So even and morn recorded the third day.

Again the Almighty spake, Let there be lights High in the expanse of Heaven, to divide 340 The day from night; and let them be for signs, For seasons, and for days, and circling years; And let them be for lights, as I ordain Their office in the firmament of Heaven. To give light on the Earth; and it was so. 345 And God made two great lights, great for their use To Man, the greater to have rule by day, The less by night, altern; and made the stars, And set them in the firmament of Heaven To illuminate the Earth, and rule the day 350 In their vicissitude, and rule the night, And light from darkness to divide. God saw, Surveying his great work, that it was good: For of celestial bodies first the sun A mighty sphere he framed, unlightsome first, 355 Though of ethereal mould: then form'd the moon Globose, and every magnitude of stars, And sow'd with stars the Heaven, thick as a field: Of light by far the greater part he took, Transplanted from her cloudy shrine, and placed 360. In the sun's orb, made porous to receive And drink the liquid light; firm to retain Her gather'd beams, great palace now of light.

With fry innumerable swarm, and shoals

Of fish that with their fins and shining scales

Glide under the green wave, in sculls that oft Bank the mid sea: part single, or with mate, Graze the seaweed their pasture, and through groves Of coral stray; or, sporting with quick glance, Show to the sun their waved coats dropp'd with gold; Or, in their pearly shells at ease, attend Moist nutriment: or under rocks their food In jointed armour watch: on smooth the seal And bended dolphins play: part huge of bulk 410 Wallowing unwieldy, enormous in their gait, Tempest the ocean: there leviathan, Hugest of living creatures, on the deep Stretch'd like a promontory sleeps or swims, And seems a moving land; and at his gills 415 Draws in, and at his trunk spouts out, a sea. Mcanwhile the tepid caves and fens and shores Their broad as numerous hatch, from the egg that soon Bursting with kindly rupture forth disclosed 419 Their callow young; but feather'd soon and fledge They summ'd their pens; and, soaring the air sublime, With clang despised the ground, under a cloud In prospect; there the eagle and the stork On cliffs and cedar tops their eyries build: Part loosely wing the region, part more wise 425 In common, ranged in figure, wedge their way, Intelligent of seasons, and set forth Their aery caravan, high over seas Flying, and over lands, with mutual wing Easing their flight; so steers the prudent crane 430 Her annual voyage, borne on winds; the air Floats as they pass, fann'd with unnumber'd plumes: From branch to branch the smaller birds with song Solaced the woods, and spread their painted wings Till even; nor then the solemn nightingale Ceased warbling, but all night tuned her soft lays: Others, on silver lakes and rivers, bathed Their downy breast; the swan with arched neck, Between her white wings mantling proudly, rows

Her state with oary feet; yet oft they quit 440 The dank, and, rising on stiff pennons, tower The mid aerial sky: others on ground Walk'd firm; the crested cock whose clarion sounds The silent hours, and the other whose gay train Adorns him, colour'd with the florid hue 445 Of rainbows and starry eyes. The waters thus With fish replenish'd, and the air with fowl, Evening and morn solemnized the fifth day. The sixth, and of creation last, arose With evening harps and matin; when God said, 450 Let the Earth bring forth soul living in her kind, Cattle, and creeping things, and beast of the Earth, Each in their kind. The Earth obey'd, and straight Opening her fertile womb teem'd at a birth Innumerous living creatures, perfect forms. 455 Limb'd and full grown: out of the ground uprose, As from his lair, the wild beast where he wons In forest wild, in thicket, brake, or den; Among the trees in pairs they rose, they walk'd The cattle in the fields and meadows green: 460 Those rare and solitary, these in flocks, Pasturing at once, and in broad herds upsprung. 'The grassy clods now calved; now half appear'd The tawny lion, pawing to get free His hinder parts, then springs as broke from bonds, 465 And rampant shakes his brinded mane; the ounce, The libbard, and the tiger, as the mole Rising, the crumbled earth above them threw In hillocks: the swift stag from under ground Bore up his branching head: scarce from his mould 470 Behemoth biggest born of earth upheaved His vastness: fleeced the flocks and bleating rose, As plants: ambiguous between sca and land The river-horse, and scaly crocodile. At once came forth whatever creeps the ground, 475 Insect or worm: those waved their limber fans

For wings, and smallest lineaments exact

In all the liveries deck'd of summer's pride With spots of gold and purple, azure and green: These, as a line, their long dimension drew, Streaking the ground with sinuous trace; not all Minims of nature; some of serpent kind. Wondrous in length and corpulence, involved Their snaky folds, and added wings. First crept The parsimonious emmet, provident 485 Of future; in small room large heart enclosed; Pattern of just equality perhaps Hereafter, joined in her popular tribes Of commonalty: swarming next appear'd The female bee, that feeds her husband drone Deliciously, and builds her waxen cells With honey stored: the rest are numberless, And thou their natures know'st, and gavest them names. Needless to thee repeated; nor unknown The serpent, subtlest beast of all the field, 495 Of huge extent sometimes, with brazen eyes And hairy mane terrific, though to thee Not noxious, but obedient at thy call. Now Heaven in all her glory shone, and roll'd Her motions, as the great first Mover's hand 500 First wheel'd their course: Earth in her rich attire Consummate lovely smiled; air, water, earth, By fowl, fish, beast, was flown, was swum, was walk'd, Frequent; and of the sixth day yet remain'd: There wanted yet the master-work, the end 505 Of all yet done; a creature, who, not prone And brute as other creatures, but endued With sanctity of reason, might erect His stature, and upright with front serene Govern the rest, self-knowing; and from thence 510 Magnanimous to correspond with Heaven, But grateful to acknowledge whence his good

Of all his works: therefore the Omnipotent Eternal Father (for where is not he Present?) thus to his Son audibly spake: Let us make now Man in our image, Man In our similitude, and let them rule 520 Over the fish and fowl of sea and air. Beast of the field, and over all the Earth, And every creeping thing that creeps the ground. This said, he form'd thee, Adam, thee, O Man, Dust of the ground, and in thy nostrils breathed 525 The breath of life; in his own image he Created thee, in the image of God Express; and thou becamest a living soul. Male he created thee; but thy consort Female, for race; then bless'd mankind, and said, 530 Be fruitful, multiply, and fill the earth; Subdue it, and throughout dominion hold Over fish of the sea, and fowl of the air, And every living thing that moves on the Earth. Wherever thus created, for no place 535 Is yet distinct by name, thence, as thou know'st, He brought thee into this delicious grove, This garden, planted with the trees of God, Delectable both to behold and taste; And freely all their pleasant fruit for food 540 Gave thee; all sorts are here that all the Earth yields Variety without end; but of the tree, Which, tasted, works knowledge of good and evil, Thou mayst not; in the day thou eat'st, thou diest: Death is the penalty imposed; beware, 545 And govern well thy appetite; lest Sin Surprise thee, and her black attendant Death. Here finish'd he, and all that he had made View'd, and behold all was entirely good; So even and morn accomplish'd the sixth day; 550

Yet not till the Creator from his work Desisting, though unwearied, up return'd, Up to the Heaven of Heavens, his high abode: Thence to behold this new created world, The addition of his empire, how it show'd 555 In prospect from his throne, how good, how fair, Answering his great idea. Up he rode Follow'd with acclamation, and the sound Symphonious of ten thousand harps, that tuned Angelic harmonies: the earth, the air 560 Resounded (thou remember'st, for thou heard'st,) The heavens and all the constellations rung The planets in their station listening stood, While the bright pomp ascended jubilant. Open, ye everlasting gates! they sung, Open, ye Heavens! your living doors; let in The great Creator from his work return'd Magnificent, his six days' work, a World; Open, and henceforth oft; for God will deign To visit oft the dwellings of just men, 570 Delighted; and with frequent intercourse Thither will send his winged messengers On errands of supernal grace. So sung The glorious train ascending: He through Heaven. That open'd wide her blazing portals, led 575 To God's eternal house direct the way : A broad and ample road, whose dust is gold And pavement stars, as stars to thee appear, Seen in the galaxy, that milky way, Which nightly, as a circling zone, thou seest Powder'd with stars. And now on Earth the seventh Evening arose in Eden, for the sun Was set, and twilight from the east came on. Forerunning night; when at the holy mount Of Heaven's high-seated top, the imperial throne 585 Of Godhead, fix'd for ever firm and sure, The Filial Power arrived, and sat him down With his great Father; for he also went Invisible, yet staid (such privilege Hath Omnipresence,) and the work ordain'd, 590 Author and End of all things; and, from work

Now resting, blessed and hallow'd the seventh day, As resting on that day from all his work. But not in silence holy kept: the harp Had work and rested not; the solemn pipe, 595 And dulcimer, all organs of sweet stop, All sounds on fret by string or golden wire, Temper'd soft tunings, intermix'd with voice Choral or unison: of incense clouds, Fuming from golden censers, hid the mount. 600 Creation and the six days' acts they sung: Great are thy works, Jehovah! infinite Thy power! what thought can measure thee, or tongue Relate thee! Greater now in thy return Than from the giant Angels: Thee that day 605 Thy thunders magnified; but to create Is greater than created to destroy. Who can impair thee, Mighty King, or bound Thy empire! Easily the proud attempt Of Spirits apostate, and their counsels vain, 610 Thou hast repelled; while impiously they thought Thee to diminish, and from thee withdraw The number of thy worshippers. Who secks To lessen thee, against his purpose serves To manifest the more thy might: his evil 615 Thou usest, and from thence createst more good. Witness this new-made world, another Heaven From Heaven gate not far, founded in view On the clear hyaline, the glassy sea; Of amplitude almost immense, with stars 620 Numerous, and every star perhaps a world Of destined habitation; but thou know'st Their seasons: among these the seat of Men, Earth, with her nether ocean circumfused, Their pleasant dwelling place. Thrice happy Men, 625 And sons of Men, whom God hath thus advanced! Created in his image, there to dwell And worship him; and in reward to rule Over his works, on earth, in sea, or air,

Not unattended; for on her, as Queen, A pomp of winning Graces waited still, 60

PARADISE LOST. 173 And from about her shot darts of desire Into all eyes, to wish her still in sight. And Raphael now, to Adam's doubt proposed, Benevolent and facile thus replied: 65 To ask or search, I blame thee not; for Heaven Is as the book of God before thee set, Wherein to read his wondrous works, and learn His seasons, hours, or days, or months, or years: This to attain, whether Heaven move or Earth. 70 Imports not, if thou reckon right; the rest Fro.n Man or Angel the great Architect Did wisely to conceal, and not divulge His secrets to be scann'd by them who ought Rather admire; or, if they list to try 75 Conjecture, he his fabric of the Heavens Hath left to their disputes, perhaps to move His laughter at their quaint opinions wide Hereafter; when they come to model Heaven And calculate the stars, how they will wield 80 The mighty frame; how build, unbuild, contrive To save appearances; how gird the sphere With centric and eccentric scribbled o'er, Cycle and epicycle, orb in orb: Already by thy reasoning this I guess, 85 Who art to lead thy offspring, and supposest

Who art to lead thy offspring, and supposest
That bodies bright and greater should not serve
The less not bright, nor Heaven such journeys run
Earth sitting still, when she alone receives
The benefit: Consider first, that great
Or bright infers not excellence: the Earth,
Though, in comparison of Heaven, so small,

95

Nor glistering, may of solid good contain More plenty than the sun that barren shines; Whose virtue on itself works no effect, But in the fruitful Earth; there first received,

His beams, unactive else, their vigour find.
Yet not to earth are those bright luminaries
Officious; but to thee, Earth's habitant.

And for the Heaven's wide circuit, let it speak 100 The Maker's high magnificence, who built So spacious, and his line stretch'd out so far ; That Man may know he dwells not in his own; An edifice too large for him to fill, Lodged in a small partition; and the rest 105 Ordain'd for uses to his Lord best known. The swiftness of those circles attribute. Though numberless to his Omnipotence, That to corporeal substances could add Speed almost spiritual: Me thou think'st not slow, Who since the morning-hour set out from Heaven 111 Where God resides, and ere mid-day arrived In Eden; distance inexpressible By numbers that have name. But this I urge, Admitting motion in the Heavens, to show 115 Invalid that which thee to doubt it moved ; Not that I so affirm, though so it seem To thee who hast thy dwelling here on Earth. God, to remove his ways from human sense, Placed Heaven from Earth so far, that earthly sight If it presume, might err in things too high, 121 And no advantage gain. What if the sun Be centre to the world; and other stars, By his attractive virtue and their own Incited, dance about him various rounds? 125 Their wandering course now high, now low, then hid, Progressive, retrograde, or standing still, In six thou seest; and what if seventh to these The planet earth, so steadfast though she seem, Insensibly three different motions move? 130 Which else to several spheres thou must ascribe, Moved contrary with thwart obliquities; Or save the sun his labour, and that swift Nocturnal and diurnal rhomb supposed, Invisible else above all stars, the wheel 135 Of day and night; which needs not thy belief, If earth, industrious of herself, fetch day

Travelling east, and with her part adverse
From the sun's beam meet night, her other part
Still luminous by his ray. What if that light	140
Sent from her through the wide transpicuous air,
To the terrestrial moon be as a star,
Enlightening her by day, as she by night
This earth? reciprocal, if land be there,
Fields, and inhabitants: Her spots thou seest	145
As clouds, and clouds may rain, and rain produce
Fruits in her soften'd soil for some to eat
Allotted there; and other suns perhaps,
With their attendant moons, thou wilt descry,
Communicating male and female light;	150
Which two great sexes animate the world,
Stored in each orb perhaps with some that live.
For such vast room in Nature unpossess'd
By living soul, desert and desolate,
Only to shine, yet scarce to contribute	155
Each orb a glimpse of light, convey'd so far
Down to this habitable, which returns
Light back to them, is obvious to dispute.
But whether thus these things, or whether not;
Whether the sun, predominant in Heaven,	160
Rise on the earth; or earth rise on the sun;
He from the east his flaming road begin;
Or she from west her silent course advance,
With inoffensive pace that spinning sleeps
On her soft axle, while she paces even,	165
And bears thee soft with the smooth air along;
Solicit not thy thoughts with matters hid;
Leave them to God above; him serve, and fear!
Of other creatures, as him pleases best,
Wherever placed, let him dispose; joy thou	170
In what he gives to thee, this Paradise
And thy fair Eve; Heaven is for thee too high
To know what passes there; be lowly wise:
Think only what concerns thee, and thy being;
Dream not of other worlds, what creatures there	175

Live, in what state, condition, or degree; Contented that thus far hath been reveal'd Not of Earth only, but of highest Heaven.

To whom thus Adam, clear'd of doubt, replied: How fully hast thou satisfied me, pure 180 Intelligence of Heaven, Angel serene! And, freed from intricacies, taught to live The easiest way; nor with perplexing thoughts To interrupt the sweet of life, from which God hath bid dwell far off all anxious cares, 185 And not molest us; unless we ourselves Seek them with wandering thoughts and notions vain. But apt the mind or fancy is to rove Uncheck'd, and of her roving is no end; Till warn'd, or by experience taught, she learn, 190 That, not to know at large of things remote From use, obscure and subtle; but, to know That which before us lies in daily life, Is the prime wisdom: What is more is fume, Or emptiness, or fond impertinence: 195 And renders us, in things that most concern, Unpractised, unprepared, and still to seek. Therefore from this high pitch let us descend A lower flight, and speak of things at hand Useful; whence, haply, mention may arise 200 Of something not unseasonable to ask, By sufferance, and thy wonted favour, deign'd. Thee I have heard relating what was done Ere my remembrance: now, hear me relate My story, which perhaps thou hast not heard; 205 And day is not yet spent; till then thou seest How subtly to detain thee I devise; Inviting thee to hear while I relate; Fond! were it not in hope of thy reply: For, while I sit with thee, I seem in Heaven . 210 And sweeter thy discourse is to my ear Than fruits of palm tree pleasantest to thirst And hunger both, from labour, at the hour

Of sweet repast; they satiate, and soon fill,
Though pleasant; but thy words, with grace divi-	ne
Imbued, bring to their sweetness no satiety.	216
To whom thus Raphael answer'd heavenly mee	k:
Nor are thy lips ungraceful, Sire of men,
Nor tongue ineloquent; for God on thee
Abundantly his gifts hath also pour'd	220
Inward and outward both, his image fair:
Speaking, or mute, all comeliness and grace
Attend thee; and each word, each motion, form;
Nor less think we in Heaven of thee on Earth
Than of our fellow-servant, and inquire	225
Gladly into the ways of God with Man:
For God, we see, hath honour'd thee, and set
On Man his equal love: Say therefore on;
For I that day was absent, as befel,
Bound on a voyage uncouth and obscure,	230
Far on excursion toward the gates of Hell;
Squared in full legion (such command we had,)
To see that none thence issued forth a spy,
Or enemy, while God was in his work;
Lest he, incensed at such eruption bold,	235
Destruction with creation might have mix'd.
Not that they durst without his leave attempt;
But us he sends upon his high behests
For state, as Sov'reign King; and to inure
Our prompt obedience. Fast we found, fast shut	240
The dismal gates, and barricadoed strong;
But long ere our approaching heard within
Noise, other than the sound of dance or song,
Torment, and loud lament, and furious rage.
Glad we return'd up to the coasts of light	245
Ere sabbath-evening: so we had in charge.
But thy relation now; for I attend,
Pleased with thy words no less than thou with m
So spake the Godlike Power, and thus our Sire
For Man to tell how human life began	250
Is hard: for who himself beginning knew?

Desire with thee still longer to converse Induced me. As new waked from soundest sleep, Soft on the flowery herb I found me laid, In balmy sweat; which with his beams the sun 255 Soon dried, and on the reeking moisture fed. Straight toward Heaven my wondering eyes I turn'd, And gazed awhile the ample sky; till, raised By quick instinctive motion, up I sprung, As thitherward endeavouring, and upright 260 Stood on my feet: about me round I saw Hill, dale, and shady woods, and sunny plains, And liquid lapse of murmuring streams; by these Creatures that lived and moved, and walk'd, or flew; Birds on the branches warbling; all things smiled; With fragrance and with joy my heart o'erflow'd. 266 Myself I then perused, and limb by limb Survey'd, and sometimes went, and sometimes ran With supple joints, as lively vigour led: But who I was, or where, or from what cause, Knew not; to speak I tried, and forthwith spake: My tongue obey'd, and readily could name Whate'er I saw. Thou Sun, said I, fair light, And thou enlighten'd Earth, so fresh and gay, Ye Hills, and Dales, ye Rivers, Woods, and Plains, And ye that live and move, fair Creatures, tell, 276 Tell, if ye saw, how I came thus, how here ?-Not of myself; -- by some great Maker then, In goodness and in power preeminent: Tell me, how may I know him, how adore, 280 From whom I have that thus I move and live, And feel that I am happier than I know.-While thus I call'd, and strayed I knew not whither, From where I first drew air, and first beheld This happy light; when, answer none return'd, On a green shady bank, profuse of flowers, Pensive I sat me down: there gentle sleep First found me, and with soft oppression seized My drowsied sense, untroubled, though I thought

PARADISE LOST.	179
I then was passing to my former state	290
Insensible, and forthwith to dissolve ·
When suddenly stood at my head a dream,
Whose inward apparition gently moved
My fancy to believe I yet had being,
And lived One came, methought, of shape divin	е,
And said, Thy mansion wants thee, Adam: rise,	2 96
First Man, of men innumerable ordain'd
First Father! call'd by thee, I come thy guide
To the garden of bliss, thy seat prepared.
So saying, by the hand he took me raised,	300
And over fields and waters, as in air
Smooth sliding without step, last led me up
A woody mountain; whose high top was plain,
A circuit wide, enclosed, with goodliest trees
Planted, with walks and bowers; that what I saw	305
Of Earth before scarce pleasant seem'd. Each tre	ee,
Loaden with fairest fruit that hung to the eye
Tempting, stirr'd in me sudden appetite
To pluck and eat; whereat I waked, and found
Before mine eyes all real, as the dream	310
Had lively shadow'd: Here had new begun
My wandering, had not he, who was my guide
Up hither, from among the trees appear'd,
Presence Divine. Rejoicing, but with awe,
In adoration at his feet I fell	315
Submiss: He rear'd me, and Whom thou sought'st I	am,
Said mildly, Author of all this thou seest
Above, or round about thee, or beneath.
This Paradise I give thee, count it thine
To till and keep, and of the fruit to eat:	320
Of every tree that in the garden grows
Eat freely with glad heart; fear here no dearth
But of the tree whose operation brings
Knowledge of good and ill, which I have set
The pledge of thy obedience and thy faith,	32 5
Amid the garden by the tree of life,
Remember what I warn thee, shun to taste,

And shun the bitter consequence: for know The day thou eat'st thereof, my sole command Transgress'd, inevitably thou shalt die, 330 From that day mortal; and this happy state Shalt lose, expell'd from hence into a world Of woe and sorrow. Sternly he pronounce The rigid interdiction, which resounds Yet dreadful in mine ear, though in my choice Not to incur; but soon his clear aspect Return'd, and gracious purpose thus renew'd Not only these fair bounds, but all the Earth To thee and to thy race I give; as lords Possess it, and all things that therein live, Or live in sea, or air; beast, fish, and fowl. In sign whereof, each bird and beast behold After their kinds; I bring them to receive From thee their names, and pay thee fealty With low subjection: understand the same Of fish within their watery residence, Not hither summon'd, since they cannot change Their element, to draw the thinner air. And thus he spake, each bird and beast behold Approaching two and two; these cowering low 350 With blandishment; each bird stoop'd on his wing. I named them as they pass'd, and understood Their nature, with such knowledge God endued My sudden apprehension: But in these I found not what methought I wanted still; And to the heavenly Vision thus presumed: O, by what name, for thou above all these, Above mankind, or aught than mankind higher, Surpassest far my naming; how may I Adore thee, Author of this universe, 360 And all this good to man? for whose well being So amply, and with hands so liberal, Thou hast provided all things: But with me I see not who partakes. In solitude What happiness, who can enjoy alone. 365

PARADISE LUST.	101
Or, all enjoying, what contentment find?
Thus I presumptuous; and the Vision bright,
As with a smile more brighten'd, thus replied:
What call'st thou solitude? Is not the Earth
With various living creatures, and the air	370
Replenish'd, and all these at thy command
To come and play before thee? Know'st thou not
Their language and their ways? They also know,
And reason not contemptibly; With these
Find pastime, and bear rule: thy realm is large.	375
So spake the Universal Lord, and seem'd
So ordering: I, with leave of speech implored,
And humble deprecation, thus replied:
Let not my words offend thee, Heavenly Power	,
My Maker, be propitious while I speak.	380
Hast thou not made me here thy substitute,
And these inferior far beneath me set?
Among unequals what society
Can sort, what harmony, or true delight?
Which must be mutual, in proportion due	385
Given and received; but, in disparity
The one intense, the other still remiss,
Cannot well suit with either, but soon prove
Tedious alike: of fellowship I speak,
Such as I seek, fit to participate	390
All rational delight: wherein the brute
Cannot be human consort: They rejoice
Each with their kind, lion with lioness;
So fitly them in pairs thou hast combined:
,	395
So well converse, nor with the ox the ape;
Worse then can man with beast, and least of all.
Whereto the Almighty answer'd, not displeased
A nice and subtle happiness, I see,
Thou to thyself proposest, in the choice	400
Of thy associates, Adam! and wilt taste
No pleasure, though in pleasure, solitary.
What think'st thou then of me, and this my state	?

Seem I to thee sufficiently possess'd Of happiness, or not? who am alone From all eternity; for none I know Second to me or like, equal much less. How have I then with whom to hold converse, Save with the creatures which I made, and those To me inferior, infinite descents Beneath what other creatures are to thee? He ceased; I lowly answer'd: To attain The height and depth of thy eternal ways All human thoughts come short, Supreme of things! Thou in thyself art perfect, and in thee 415 Is no deficience found: Not so is Man, But in degree; the cause of his desire By conversation with his like to help

Or solace his defects. No need that thou Shouldst propagate, already Infinite; And through all numbers absolute, though One: But Man by number is to manifest

His single imperfection, and beget
Like of his like, his image multiplied,
In unity defective; which requires
Collateral love, and dearest amity.
Thou in thy secrecy although alone,
Best with thyself accompanied, seek'st not

Social communication; yet, so pleased, Canst raise thy creature to what height thou wilt 430 Of union or communion, deified:

I, by conversing, cannot these erect From prone; nor in their ways complacence find Thus I embolden'd spake, and freedom used Permissive, and acceptance found; which gain'd This answer from the gracious Voice Divine:

Thus far to try thee, Adam, I was pleased; And find thee knowing, not of beasts alone, Which thou hast rightly named, but of thyself;

Expressing well the spirit within thee free, My image, not imparted to the brute;

Sweetness into my heart, unfelt before,

And into all things from her air inspired The spirit of love and amorous delight. She disappear'd, and left me dark; I waked To find her, or for eyer to deplore 475

The more desirable; or, to say all,

Nature herself, though pure of sinful thought, Wrought in her so, that seeing me she turn'd: I follow'd her; she what was honour knew, And with obsequious majesty approved My pleaded reason. To the nuptial bower

I led her blushing like the morn: All Heaven And happy constellations on that hour Shed their selectest influence; the Earth Gave sign of gratulation, and each hill; Joyous the birds; fresh gales and gentle airs

Whisper'd it to the woods, and from their wings Flung rose, flung odours from the spicy shrub,

Disporting, till the amorous bird of night Sung spousal, and bid haste the evening star On his hill top, to light the bridal lamp. Thus have I told thee all my state, and brought My stery to the sum of earthly bliss, Which I enjoy; and must confess to find In all things else delight indeed, but such	520
As, used or not, works in the mind no change,	525
Nor vehement desire; these delicacies
I mean of taste, sight, smell, herbs, fruits, and flow	vers,
Walks, and the melody of birds: but here
Far otherwise, transported I behold,
Transported touch; here passion first I felt,	530
Commotion strange! in all enjoyments else
Superior and unmoved; here only weak
Against the charm of Beauty's powerful glance
Or Nature fail'd in me, and left some part
Not proof enough such object to sustain;	535
Or, from my side subducting, took perhaps
More than enough; at least on her bestow'd
Too much of ornament, in outward show
Elaborate, of inward less exact.	540
For well I understand in the prime end	540
Of Nature her the inferior, in the mind
And inward faculties, which most excel; In outward also her resembling less
His image who made both, and less expressing
The character of that dominion given	545
O'er other creatures: Yet when I approach	0.30
Her loveliness, so absolute she seems
And in herself complete, so well to know
Her own, that what she wills to do or say
Seems wisest, virtuousest, discreetest, best:	550
All higher knowledge in her presence falls
Degraded; Wisdom in discourse with her
Loses discountenanced, and like folly shows
Authority and Reason on her wait,

As one intended first, not after made 555 Occasionally; and, to consummate all, Greatness of mind and nobleness their seat Build in her loveliest, and create an awe About her, as a guard angelic placed. To whom the Angel with contracted brow: 560 Accuse not Nature, she hath done her part; Do thou but thine; and be not diffident Of Wisdom; she deserts thee not, if thou Dismiss not her, when most thou need'st her nigh, By attributing overmuch to things 565 Less exellent, as thou thyself perceivest. For, what admirest thou, what transports thee so? An outside? fair, no doubt, and worthy well Thy cherishing, thy honouring, and thy love; Not thy subjection; Weigh with her thyself; 570 Then value: Ofttimes nothing profits more Than self-esteem, grounded on just and right Well managed; of that skill the more thou know'st, The more she will acknowledge thee her head, And to realities vield all her shows: 575 Made so adorn for thy delight the more, So awful, that with honour thou mayst love Thy mate, who sees when thou art seen least wisc. But if the sense of touch, whereby mankind Is propagated, seem such dear delight 580 Beyond all other; think the same vouchsafed To cattle and each beast; which would not be To them made common and divulged, if aught Therein enjoy'd were worthy to subdue The soul of man, or passion in him move. 585 What higher in her society thou find'st Attractive, human, rational, love still; In loving thou dost well, in passion not,

Wherein true love consists not: Love refines
The thoughts, and heart enlarges; hath his seat 500

In reason and is judicious; is the scale

By which to heavenly love thou mayst ascend, Not sunk in carnal pleasure; for which cause, Among the beasts no mate for thee was found. To whom thus, half abash'd, Adam replied: 595 Neither her outside form'd so fair, nor aught In procreation common to all kinds (Though higher of the genial bed by far, And with mysterious reverence I deem,) So much delights me, as those graceful acts, 600 Those thousand decencies, that daily flow From all her words and actions mix'd with love And sweet compliance, which declare unfeign'd Union of mind, or in us both one soul; Harmony to behold in wedded pair 605 More grateful than harmonious sound to the ear. Yet these subject not; I to thee disclose What inward thence I feel, not therefore foil'd, Who meet with various objects, from the sense Variously representing; yet still free, 610 Approve the best, and follow what I approve. To love thou blamest me not; for Love, thou say'st, Leads up to Heaven, is both the way and guide: Bear with me then, if lawful what I ask: Love not the heavenly Spirits, and how their love 615 Express they? by looks only? or do they mix Irradiance, virtual or immediate touch? To whom the Angel, with a smile that glow'd Celestial rosy red, Love's proper hue, Answer'd: Let it suffice thee that thou know'st 620 Us happy, and without love no happiness Whatever pure thou in the body enjoy'st (And pure thou wert created,) we enjoy In eminence; and obstacle find none Of membrane, joint, or limb, exclusive bars; 625

Easier than air with air, if Spirits embrace, Total they mix, union of pure with pure Desiring, nor restrain'd conveyance need,

As flesh to mix with flesh, or soul with soul.

188 B. VIII. But I can now no more; the parting sun 630 Beyond the Earth's green Cape and verdant Isles Hesperian sets, my signal to depart. Be strong, live happy, and love! But, first of all, Him, whom to love is to obey, and keep His great command: take heed lest passion sway 635 Thy judgment to do aught, which else free will Would not admit: thine, and of all thy sons, The weal or woe in thee is placed: beware! I in thy persevering shall rejoice, And all the bless'd: Stand fast; to stand or fall 640 Free in thine own arbitrement it lies. Perfect within, no outward aid require; And all temptation to transgress repel. So saving, he arose; whom Adam thus Follow'd with benediction. Since to part, 645 Go, heavenly guest, ethereal Messenger. Sent from whose sov'reign goodness I adore!

Gentle to me and affable hath been Thy condescension, and shall be honour'd ever With grateful memory: Thou to mankind Be good and friendly still, and oft return!

So parted they; the Angel up to Heaven From the thick shade, and Adam to his bower

PARADISE LOST.

BOOK IX.

Satan, having compassed the Earth, with meditated guile returns, as a mist, by night into Paradise; enters into the Serpent sleep-ing. Adam and Eve in the morning go forth to their labours, which Eve proposes to divide in several places, each labouring apart: Adam consents not; alleging the danger, lest that enemy, of whom they were forewarned, should attempt her found alone; Eve, loath to be thought not circumspect or firm enough, urges her going apart, the rather desirous to make trial of her strength; Adam at last yields: The Serpent finds her alone; his subtle approach, first gazing, then speaking; with much flattery extolling Eve above all other creatures. Eve, wondering to hear the Scr-pent speak, asks how he attained to human speech and such understanding not till now; the Serpent answers, that by tasting of a certain tree in the garden he attained both to speech and reason, till then void of both: Eve requires him to bring her to that tree, and finds it to be the tree of knowledge forbidden: The Serpent, now grown bolder, with many wiles and arguments, induces her at length to eat; she, pleased with the taste, deliberates awhile whether to impart thereof to Adam or not; at last brings him of the fruit; relates what persuaded her to eat thereof; Adam, at first amazed, but perceiving her lost, resolves, through vehemence of love, to perish with her: and, extenuating the trespass, eats also of the fruit; The effects thereof in them both; they seek to cover their nakedness; then fall to variance and accusation of one another.

With Man, as with his friend, familiar used,
To sit indulgent, and with him partake
Rural repast; permitting him the while
Venial discourse unblamed. I now must change
Those notes to tragic; foul distrust, and breach
Disloyal on the part of Man, revolt,
And disobedience: on the part of Heaven,
Now alienated, distance and distaste,
Anger and just rebuke, and judgment given,
That brought into this world a world of woe,
Sin and her shadow Death, and misery,
Death's harbinger: sad task! yet argument
Not less but more heroic than the wrath
Of stern Achilles on his foe pursued

PARADISE LOST.	191
Of Gabriel out of Eden, now improved
In meditated fraud and malice, bent	55
On Man's destruction, maugre what might hap
Of heavier on himself, fearless return'd.
By night he fled, and at midnight return'd
From compassing the earth; cautious of day,
Since Uriel, regent of the sun, descried	60
His entrance, and forewarn'd the Cherubim
That kept their watch; thence full of anguish dri	ven,
The space of seven continued nights he rode
With darkness; thrice the equinoctial line
He circled; four times cross'd the car of night.	65
From pole to pole, travérsing each colure;
On the eighth return'd; and, on the coast averse
From entrance or cherubic watch, by stealth
Found unsuspected way. There was a place,
Now not, though sin, not time, first wrought the cha	nge,
Where Tigris, at the foot of Paradise,	71
Into a gulf shot under ground, till part
Rose up a fountain by the tree of life:
In with the river sunk, and with it rose
Satan, involved in rising mist; then sought	75
Where to lie hid; sea he had search'd, and land,
From Eden over Pontus and the pool
Mæotis, up beyond the river Ob;
Downward as far antarctic; and in length,
West from Orontes to the ocean barr'd	80
At Darien; thence to the land where flows
Ganges and Indus: Thus the orb he roam'd
With narrow search; and with inspection deep
Consider'd every creature, which of all
Most opportune might serve his wiles; and found	85
The Serpent subtlest beast of all the field.

Whatever sleights, none would suspicious mark,
As from his wit and native subtlety
Proceeding; which, in other beasts observed,
Doubt might beget of diabolic power
Active within, beyond the sense of brute.
Thus he resolved, but first from inward grief
His bursting passion into plaints thus pour'd:

O Earth, how like to Heaven, if not preferr'd More justly, seat worthier of Gods, as built 100 With second thoughts, reforming what was old! For what God, after better, worse would build? Terrestrial Heaven, danced round by other Heavens That shine, yet bear their bright officious lamps, Light above light, for thee alone, as seems, 105 In thee concentring all their precious beams Of sacred influence! As God in Heaven Is centre, yet extends to all; so thou, Centring, receivest from all those orbs: in thee Not in themselves, all their known virtue appears 110 Productive in herb, plant, and nobler birth Of creatures animate with gradual life Of growth, sense, reason, all summ'd up in Man. With what delight could I have walk'd thee round, If I could joy in aught, sweet interchange 115 Of hill, and valley, rivers, woods, and plains, Now land, now sea, and shores with forest crown d, Rocks, dens, and caves! But I in none of these Find place or refuge; and the more I see Pleasures about me, so much more I feel 120 Torment within me, as from the hateful siege Of contraries: all good to me becomes Bane, and in Heaven much worse would be my state. But neither here seek I, no nor in Heaven To dwell, unless by mastering Heaven's Supreme; 125 Nor hope to be myself less miserable By what I seek, but others to make such As I, though thereby worse to me redound: For only in destroying I find ease

PARADISE LOST. 193 To my relentless thoughts; and, him destroy'd, 130 Or won to what may work his utter loss, For whom all this was made, all this will soon Follow, as to him link'd in weal or woe; In woe then; that destruction wide may range: To me shall be the glory sole among 135 The infernal Powers, in one day to have marr'd What he, Almighty styled, six nights and days Continued making; and who knows how long Before had been contriving? though perhaps Not longer since than I, in one night, freed 140 From servitude inglorious well nigh half The angelic name, and thinner left the throng Of his adorers: He, to be avenged, And to repair his numbers thus impair'd, 145

Whether such virtue spent of old now fail'd
More Angels to create, if they at least
Are his created, or, to spite us more,
Determined to advance into our room
A creature form'd of earth, and him endow,
Exalted from so base original,
With heavenly spoils, our spoils What he decreed,
He effected; Man he made, and for him built
Magnificent this world, and earth his seat,

Him lord pronounced; and, O indignity!
Subjected to his service angel-wings,
And flaming ministers to watch and tend
Their earthly charge: Of these the vigilance
I dread; and, to elude, thus wrapp'd in mist
Ot midnight vapour glide obscure, and pry

every bush and brake, where hap may find to serpent sleeping; in whose mazy folds
To hide me, and the dark intent I bring.
O foul descent! that I, who erst contended
With Gods to sit the highest, am now constrain'd
Into a beast; and, mix'd with bestial slime,

This essence to incarnate and imbrute, That to the height of Deity aspired

But what will not ambition and revenge
Descend to? Who aspires must down as low
As high he soar'd; obnoxious, first or last,
To basest things. Revenge, at first though sweet,
Bitter ere long, back on itself recoils:
Let it; I reck not, so it light well aim'd,
Since higher I fall short, on him who next
Provokes my envy, this new favourite
Of Heaven, this man of clay, son of despite,
Whom, us the more to spite, his Maker raised
From dust: Spite then with spite is best repaid.
So saying, through each thicket dank or dry,
Like a black mist low-creeping, he held on

180 His midnight search, where soonest he might find The serpent; him fast sleeping soon he found In labyrinth of many a round self-roll'd, His head the midst, well stored with subtile wiles. Not yet in horrid shade or dismal den, 185 Nor nocent yet; but, on the grassy herb, Fearless unfear'd he slept: in at his mouth The Devil enter'd; and his brutal sense. In heart or head, possessing, soon inspired With act intelligential; but his sleep 190 Disturb'd not, waiting close the approach of morn Now, when as sacred light began to dawn In Eden on the humid flowers, that breathed Their morning incense, when all things that breathe, From the Earth's great altar send up silent praise 195 To the Creator, and his nostrils fill With grateful smell, forth came the human pair, And join'd their vocal worship to the choir Of creatures wanting voice; that done, partake The season, prime for sweetest scents and airs: 200 Then commune, how that day they best may ply Their growing work: for much their work outgrew The hands' despatch of two gardening so wide, And Eve first to her husband thus began:

Adam, well may we labour still to dress

This garden, still to tend plant, herb, and flower, Our pleasant task enjoin'd; but, till more hands Aid us, the work under our labour grows, Luxurious by restraint; what we by day Lop overgrown, or prune, or prop, or bind, 210 One night or two with wanton growth derides, Tending to wild. Thou therefore now advise, Or bear what to my mind first thoughts present: Let us divide our labours; thou, where choice Leads thee, or where most needs, whether to wind 215 The woodbine round this arbour, or direct The clasping ivy where to climb; while I, In yonder spring of roses intermix'd With myrtle, find what to redress till noon: For, while so near each other thus all day Our task we choose, what wonder if, so near, Looks intervene and smiles, or object new Casual discourse draw on; which intermits Our day's work, brought to little, though begun Early, and the hour of supper comes unearn'd? 225 To whom mild answer Adam thus return'd: Sole Eve, associate sole, to me beyond Compare above all living creatures dear! Well hast thou motion'd, well thy thoughts employ'd, How we might best fulfil the work which here 230 God hath assign'd us; nor of me shalt pass Unpraised: for nothing lovelier can be found In woman, than to study household good, And good works in her husband to promote. Yet not so strictly hath our Lord imposed Labour, as to debar us when we need Refreshment, whether food or talk between, Food of the mind, or this sweet intercourse Of looks and smiles; for smiles from reason flow. To brute denied, and are of love the food, 240 Love, not the lowest end of human life. For not to irksome toil, but to delight,

He made us, and delight to reason join'd.

These paths and bowers doubt not but our joint he Will keep from wilderness with case, as wide As we need walk, till younger hands ere long Assist us: but, if much converse perhaps Thee satiate, to short absence I could yield: For solitude sometimes is best society,	ands 245
And short retirement urges sweet return. But other doubt possesses me, lest harm Befal thee sever'd from me; for thou know'st What hath been warn'd us, what malicious foe Envying our happiness, and of his own	250
Despairing, seeks to work us woe and shame By sly assault; and somewhere nigh at hand Watches, no doubt, with greedy hope to find His wish and best advantage, us asunder; Hopeless to circumvent us join'd, where each	255
To other speedy aid might lend at need: Whether his first design be to withdraw Our fealty from God, or to disturb Conjugal love, than which perhaps no bliss Enjoy'd by us excites his envy more;	260
Or this, or worse, leave not the faithful side That gave thee being, still shades thee, and protec The wife, where danger or dishonour lurks, Safest and seemliest by her husband stays, Who guards her, or with her the worst endures.	265 ets
To whom the virgin majesty of Eve, As one who loves, and some unkindness meets, With sweet austere composure thus replied: Offspring of Heaven and Earth, and all Earth's L That such an enemy we have, who seeks	270 ord [†]
Our ruin, both by thee inform'd I learn, And from the parting Angel overheard, As in a shady nook I stood behind, Just then return'd at shut of evening flowers. But, that thou shouldst my firmness therefore doul	275
To God or thee, because we have a foe May tempt it, I expected not to hear.	280

PARADISE LOST.

197

His violence thou fear'st not, being such As we, not capable of death or pain, Can either not receive, or can repel. His fraud is then thy fear; which plain infers 285 Thy equal fear, that my firm faith and love Can by his fraud be shaken or seduced; Thoughts, which how found they harbour in thy breast. Adam, misthought of her to thee so dear? To whom with healing words Adam replied 290 Daughter of God and Man, immortal Eve! For such thou art: from sin and blame entire: Not diffident of thee do I dissuade Thy absence from my sight, but to avoid The attempt itself, intended by our foe. 295 For he who tempts, though in vain, at least asperses The tempted with dishonour foul; supposed Not incorruptible of faith, not proof Against temptation: thou thyself with scorn And anger wouldst resent the offer'd wrong, 300 Though ineffectual found: misdeem not then, If such affront I labour to avert From thee alone, which on us both at once The enemy, though bold, will hardly dare? Or daring, first on me the assault shall light. 305 Nor thou his malice and false guile contemn; Subtle he needs must be, who could seduce Angels; nor think superfluous others' aid. I, from the influence of thy looks, receive Access in every virtue; in thy sight 310 More wise, more watchful, stronger, if need were Of outward strength; while shame, thou looking on, Shame to be overcome or overreach'd, Would utmost vigour raise, and raised unite. Why shouldst not thou like sense within thee feel 315

With me, best witness of thy virtue tried?

So spake domestic Adam in his care
And matrimonial love; but Eve, who thought

When I am present, and thy trial choose

Less attributed to her faith sincere,
Thus her reply with accent sweet renew'd

If this be our condition, thus to dwell In narrow circuit straiten'd by a foe. Subtle or violent, we not endued Single with like defence, wherever met; How are we happy, still in fear of harm? But harm precedes not sin : only our foe, Tempting, affronts us with his foul esteem Of our integrity: his foul esteem Sticks no dishonour on our front, but turns Foul on himself; then wherefore shunn'd or fear'd By us? who rather double honour gain From his surmise proved false; find peace within, Favour from Heaven, our witness, from the event. And what is faith, love, virtue, unassay'd 335 Alone, without exterior help sustain'd? Let us not then suspect our happy state Left so imperfect by the Maker wise. As not secure to single or combined.

Left so imperfect by the Maker wise,

As not secure to single or combined.

Frail is our happiness, if this be so,

And Eden were no Eden, thus exposed.

To whom thus Adam fervently replied:

O Woman, best are all things as the will Of God ordain'd them: His creating hand Nothing imperfect or deficient left Of all that he created, much less Man, Or aught that might his happy state secure, Secure from outward force; within himself The danger lies, yet lies within his power: Against his will he can receive no harm. But God left free the will; for what obeys Reason, is free; and Reason he made right, But bid her well beware, and still erect; Lest, by some fair-appearing good surprised, She dictate false; and misinform the will To do what God expressly hath forbid.

Not then mistrust, but tender love, enjoins,

That I should mind thee oft; and mind thou me,	£Ω
Firm we subsist, yet possible to swerve;
Since Reason not impossibly may meet	360
Some specious object by the foe suborn'd,
And fall into deception unaware,
Not keeping strictest watch, as she was warn'd.
Seek not temptation then, which to avoid
Were better, and most likely if from me	365
Thou sever not: trial will come unsought.
Wouldst thou approve thy constancy, approve
First thy obedience; the other who can know,
Not seeing thee attempted, who attest?
But, if thou think, trial unsought may find	370
Us both securer than thus warn'd thou seem'st,
Go; for thy stay, not free, absents thee more;
Go in thy native innocence, rely
On what thou hast of virtue; summon all!
For God towards thee hath done his part : do thin	ie.
So spake the patriarch of mankind; but Eve	375
Persisted; yet submiss, though last, replied:
With thy permission then, and thus forewarn'd
Chiefly by what thy own last reasoning words
Touch'd only; that our trial, when least sought,
May find us both perhaps far less prepared,	380
The willinger I go, nor much expect
A foe so proud will first the weaker seek;
So bent, the more shall shame him his repulse.
Thus saying, from her husband's hand her hand
Soft she withdrew; and, like a Woodnymph light,	, 385
Oread or Dryad, or of Delia's train,
Betook her to the groves; but Delia's self
In gait surpass'd, and goddesslike deport,
Though not as she with bow and quiver arm'd,	123
But with such gardening tools as Art yet rude,	390
Guiltless of fire, had form'd, or Angels brought.
To Pales, or Pomona, thus adorn'd,
Likest she seem'd, Pomona when she fled
Vertumnus, or to Ceres in her prime,

Yet virgin of Proserpina from Jove. 395 Her long with ardent look his eye pursued Delighted, but desiring more her stay. Oft he to her his charge of quick return Repeated; she to him as oft engaged To be return'd by noon amid the bower, 400 And all things in best order to invite Noontide repast, or afternoon's repose. O much deceived, much failing, hapless Eve, Of thy presumed return! event perverse! Thou never from that hour in Paradise 405 Found'st either sweet repast or sound repose; Such ambush, hid among sweet flowers and shades, Waited with hellish rancour imminent To intercept thy way, or send thee back Despoil'd of innocence, of faith, of bliss! 410 For now, and since first break of dawn, the Fiend, Mere serpent in appearance, forth was come; And on his quest, where likeliest he might find The only two of mankind, but in them The whole included race, his purposed prey. 415 In bower and field he sought, where any tuft Of grove or garden plot more pleasant lay, Their tendance, or plantation for delight; By fountain or by shady rivulet He sought them both, but wish'd his hap might find Eve separate; he wish'd, but not with hope Of what so seldom chanced; when to his wish, Beyond his hope, Eve separate he spies, Veil'd in a cloud of fragrance, where she stood, Half spied, so thick the roses blushing round 425 About her glow'd, oft stooping to support Each flower of slender stalk, whose head, though gay Carnation, purple, azure, or speck'd with gold, Hung drooping unsustain'd; them she upstays Gently with myrtle band, mindless the while 430 Herself, though fairest unsupported flower, From her best prop so far, and storm so nigh.

PARADISE LOST.	201
Nearer he drew, and many a walk traversed
Of stateliest covert, cedar, pine, or palm;
Then voluble and bold, now hid, now seen,	435
Among thick-woven arborets, and flowers
Embroider'd on each bank, the hand of Eve:
Spot more delicious than those gardens feign'd
Or of revived Adonis, or renown'd
Alcinous, host of old Laertes' son;	440
Or that, not mystic, where the sapient king
Held dalliance with his fair Egyptian spouse.
Much he the place admired, the person more.	M.
As one who long in populous city pent,
Where houses thick and sewers annoy the air,	445
Forth issuing on a summer's morn, to breathe
Among the pleasant villages and farms
Adjoin'd, from each thing met conceives delight;
The smell of grain, or tedded grass, or kine,
Or dairy, each rural sight, each rural sound;	450
If chance, with nymphlike step, fair virgin pass,
What pleasing seem'd, for her now pleases more;
She most, and in her look sums all delight:
Such pleasure took the Serpent to behold
This flowery plat, the sweet recess of Eve,	455
Thus early, thus alone: her heavenly form
Angelic, but more soft and feminine,
Her graceful innocence, her every air
Of gesture, or least action, overawed	400
His malice, and with rapine sweet bereaved	460
His fierceness of the fierce intent it brought:
That space the Evil One abstracted stood
From his own evil, and for the time remain'd
Stupidly good; of enmity disarm'd,	400
Of guile, of hate, of envy, of revenge:	465
But the hot Hell that always in him burns,
Though in mid Heaven, soon ended his delight,
And tortures him now more, the more he sees
Of pleasure, not for him ordain'd · then soon

Fierce hate he recollects, and all his thoughts 470 Of mischief, gratulating, thus excites. Thoughts, whither have ye led me! with what sweet Compulsion thus transported, to forget What hither brought us! hate, not love; nor hope Of Paradise for Hell, hope here to taste 475 Of pleasure; but all pleasure to destroy, Save what is in destroying; other joy To me is lost. Then, let me not let pass Occasion which now smiles; behold alone The woman, opportune to all attempts, Her husband, for I view far round, not nigh, Whose higher intellectual more I shun, And strength, of courage haughty, and of limb Heroic built, though of terrestrial mould; Foe not informidable! exempt from wound, I not; so much hath Hell debased, and pain Enfeebled me, to what I was in Heaven. She fair, divinely fair, fit love for Gods! Not terrible, though terror be in love And beauty, not approach'd by stronger hate, 490 Hate stronger, under show of love well feign'd; The way which to her ruin now I tend. So spake the enemy of mankind, enclosed In serpent, inmate bad! and toward Eve Address'd his way: not with indented wave, 495 Prone on the ground, as since; but on his rear, Circular base of rising folds, that tower'd Fold above fold, a surging maze! his head Crested aloft, and carbuncle his eyes; With burnish'd neck of verdant gold, erect 500 Amidst his circling spires, that on the grass Floated redundant: pleasing was his shape

And lovely; never since of serpent-kind Lovelier, not those that in Illyria changed, Hermione and Cadmus, or the god

In Epidaurus; nor to which transform'd

Ammonian Jove, or Capitoline, was seen;
He with Olympias; this with her who bore
Scipio, the height of Rome. With tract oblique
At first, as one who sought access, but fear'd	510.
To interrupt, sidelong he works his way,
As when a ship, by skilful steersmen wrought
Nigh river's mouth or foreland, where the wind
Veers oft, as oft so steers, and shifts her sail:
So varied he, and of his tortuous train	515
Curl'd many a wanton wreath in sight of Eve,
To lure her eye; she, busied, heard the sound
Of rustling leaves, but minded not, as used
To such disport before her through the field,
From every beast; more duteous at her call	520
Than at Circean call the herd disguised.
He, bolder now, uncall'd before her stood,
But as in gaze admiring: of the bow'd
His turret crest, and sleek enamel neck.
Fawning; and lick'd the ground whereon she trod.	525
His gentle dumb expression turn'd at length
The eye of Eve to mark his play: he, glad
Of her attention gain'd, with serpent-tongue
Organic, or impulse of vocal air,
His fraudulent temptation thus began:	530
Wonder not, sov'reign Mistress, if perhaps
Thou canst, who art sole wonder! much less arm
Thy looks, the Heaven of mildness, with disdain,
Displeased that I approach thee thus, and gaze
Insatiate; I thus single; nor have fear'd	535
Thy awful brow, more awful thus retired.
Fairest resemblance of thy Maker fair.
Thee all things living gaze on, all things thine
By gift, and thy celestial beauty adore
With ravishment beheld! there best beheld,	540
Where universally admired; but here
In this enclosure wild, these beasts among,
Beholders rude, and shallow to discern
Half what in thee is fair, one man except,

Who sees thee? (and what is one?) who should be seen A Goddess among Gods, adored and served 546 By Angels numberless, thy daily train.

So glozed the Tempter, and his proem tuned: Into the heart of Eve his words made way, Though at the voice much marveling; at length 550

Not unamazed, she thus in answer spake:

What may this mean? language of man proncunced By tongue of brute, and human sense express'd? The first, at least, of these I thought denied To beasts; whom God, on their creation-day. Created mute to all articulate sound: The latter I demur; for in their looks Much reason, and in their actions, oft appears. Thee, Serpent, subtlest beast of all the field I knew, but not with human voice endued; 560 Redouble then this miracle, and say, How camest thou speakable of mute, and how To me so friendly grown above the rest Of brutal kind, that daily are in sight? Say, for such wonder claims attention due. 565 To whom the guileful Tempter thus replied: Empress of this fair world, resplendent Eve! Easy to me it is to tell thee all [obey'd:

Empress of this fair work, respendent We Easy to me it is to tell thee all [obey'd: What thou command'st; and right thou shouldst be I was at first as other beasts that graze 570 The trodden herb, of abject thoughts and low, As was my food; nor aught but food discern'd Or sex, and apprehended nothing high:

Till, on a day roving the field, I chanced A goodly tree far distant to behold 575 Loaden with fruit of fairest colours mix'd, Ruddy and gold: I nearer drew to gaze;

When from the boughs a savoury odour blown, Grateful to appetite, more pleased my sense

Than smell of sweetest fennel, or the teats Of ewe or goat dropping with milk at even, Unsuck'd of lamb or kid, that tend their play.

PARADISE LOST.	205
To satisfy the sharp desire I had
Of tasting those fair apples, I resolved
Not to defer; hunger and thirst at once,	585
Powerful persuaders, quicken'd at the scent
Of that alluring fruit, urged me so keen.
About the mossy trunk I wound me soon;
For, high from ground the branches would require	,
Thy utmost reach or Adam's: round the tree	590
All other beasts that saw, with like desire
Longing and envying stood, but could not reach.
Amid the tree now got, where plenty hung
Tempting so nigh, to pluck and eat my fill
I spared not; for, such pleasure till that hour,	595
At feed or fountain, never had I found.
Sated at length, ere long I might perceive
Strange alteration in me, to degree
Of reason in my inward powers; and speech	1
Wanted not long; though to this shape retain'd.	600
Thenceforth to speculations high or deep
I turn'd my thoughts, and with capacious mind
Consider'd all things visible in Heaven,
Or Earth, or Middle; all things fair and good:
But all that fair and good in thy divine	605
Semblance, and in thy beauty's heavenly ray,
United I beheld; no fair to thine
Equivalent or second! which compell'd
Me thus, though importune perhaps, to come
And gaze, and worship thee of right declared	610
Sov'reign of creatures, universal Dame!
So talk'd the spirited sly Snake; and Eve,
Yet more amazed, unwary thus replied:
Serpent, thy overpraising leaves in doubt
The virtue of that fruit, in thee first proved:	615
But say, where grows the tree? from nence how	ar?
For many are the trees of God that grow
In Paradise, and various, yet unknown
To us; in such abundance lies our choice,
As leaves a greater store of fruit untouch'd,	620

Still hanging incorruptible, till men Grow up to their provision, and more hands Help to disburden Nature of her birth.

To whom the wily Adder, blithe and glad:
Empress, the way is ready, and not long;
Beyond a row of myrtles, on a flat,
Fast by a fountain, one small thicket pass'd
Of blowing myrrh and balm: if thou accept
My conduct, I can bring thee thither soon.

Lead then, said Eve. He, leading, swiftly ro.l'd 630 In tangles, and made intricate seem straight, To mischief swift. Hope elevates, and joy Brightens his crest; as when a wandering fire, Compact of unctuous vapour, which the night Condenses, and the cold environs round 635 Kindled through agitation to a flame, Which oft, they say, some evil Spirit attends, Hovering and blazing with delusive light, Misleads the amazed night-wanderer from his way To bogs and mires, and oft through pond or pool; 640 There swallow'd up and lost, from succour far. So glister'd the dire Snake, and into fraud Led Eve, our credulous mother, to the tree Of prohibition, root of all our woe; 644 Which when she saw, thus to her guide she spake:

Serpent, we might have spared our coming hither,
Fruitless to me, though fruit be here to excess,
The credit of whose virtue kest with thee;
Wondrous indeed, if cause of such effects.
But of this tree we may not taste nor touch;
God so commanded, and left that command
Sole daughter of his voice; the rest, we live

Law to ourselves; our reason is our law.

To whom the Tempter guilefully replied:
Indeed! hath God then said that of the fruit
Of all these garden-trees ye shall not eat,
Yet Lords declared of all in earth or air?

To whom thus Eve, yet sinless. Of the fruit

Of good how just? of evil, if what is evil Be real, why not known, since easier shunn'd? God therefore cannot hurt ye, and be just; Not just; not God; not fear'd then, nor obey'd: 700 Your fear itself of death removes the fear. Why then was this forbid? Why, but to awe? Why, but to keep ye low and ignorant His worshippers? He knows that in the day Ye eat thereof, your eyes that seem so clear, 705 Yet are but dim, shall perfectly be then Open'd and clear'd, and ye shall be as Gods, Knowing both good and evil, as they know. That ye shall be as Gods, since I as Man, Internal Man, is but proportion meet; 710 I, of brute, human; ye, of human, Gods. So ve shall die perhaps, by putting off Human, to put on Gods; death to be wish'd, Though threaten'd, which no worse than this can bring. And what are Gods, that Man may not become As they, participating Godlike food? The Gods are first, and that advantage use On our belief, that all from them proceeds . I question it; for this fair earth I see, Warm'd by the sun, producing every kind; Them, nothing: if they all things, who enclosed Knowledge of good and evil in this tree. That whose eats thereof forthwith attains Wisdom without their leave? and wherein lies The offence, that Man should thus attain to know? What can your knowledge hurt him, or this tree 726 Impart against his will, if all be his? Or is it envy? and can envy dwell In heavenly breasts?—These, these, and many more Causes import your need of this fair fruit. 730 Goddess humane, reach then, and freely taste!

He ended; and his words, replete with guile, Into her heart too easy entrance won; Fix'd on the fruit she gazed, which to behold

Might tempt alone; and in her ears the sound 735 Yet rung of his persuasive words, impregn'd With reason to her seeming, and with truth: Meanwhile the hour of noon drew on, and waked An eager appetite, raised by the smell So savoury of that fruit, which with desire, 740 Inclinable now grown to touch or taste, Solicited her longing eye; yet first Pausing awhile, thus to herself she mused . Great are thy virtues, doubtless, best of fruits, Though kept from man, and worthy to be admired; Whose taste, too long forborne, at first essay 746 Gave elocution to the mute, and taught The tongue not made for speech to speak thy praise Thy praise he also, who forbids thy use, Conceals not from us, naming thee the tree 750 Of knowledge, knowledge both of good and evil; Forbids us then to taste! but his forbidding Commends thee more, while it infers the good By thee communicated, and our want; For good unknown sure is not had: or, had 755 And yet unknown, is as not had at all. In plain then, what forbids he but to know, Forbids us good, forbids us to be wise? Such prohibitions bind not. But if death Bind us with after-bands, what profits then 760 Our inward freedom? In the day we eat Of this fair fruit, our doom is, we shall die! How dies the Serpent? he hath eaten, lives, And knows, and speaks, and reasons, and discerns, Irrational till then. For us alone 765 Was death invented? or to us denied This intellectual food, for beasts reserved? For beasts it seems: yet that one beast which first Hath tasted envies not, but brings with joy The good befallen him, author unsuspect, 770

Friendly to man, far from deceit or guile.

What fear 1 then? rather, what know to fear

Under this ignorance of good and evil,
Of God or death, of law or penalty?
Here grows the cure of all, this fruit divine,
Fair to the eye, inviting to the taste,
Of virtue to make wise: What hinders then
To reach, and feed at once both body and mind?
So saying, her rash hand in evil hour
Forth reaching to the fruit, she pluck'd, she eat! 780
Earth felt the wound; and Nature from her seat,
Sighing through all her works, gave signs of wee.

Forth reaching to the fruit, she pluck'd, she eat! 780
Earth felt the wound; and Nature from her seat,
Sighing through all her works, gave signs of woe,
That all was lost. Back to the thicket slunk
The guilty Scrpent; and well might; for Eve,
Intent now wholly on her taste, nought else
Regarded; such delight till then, as sem'd,
In fruit she never tasted, whether true
Or fancied so, through expectation high
Of knowledge; nor was Godhead from her thought.
Greedily she ingorged without restraint,
And knew not eating death; Satiate at length,
And heighten'd as with wine, jocund and boon,
Thus to herself she pleasingly began:
O sov'reign, virtuous, precious of all trees

In Paradise! of operation bless'd 795 To sapience, hitherto obscured, infamed, And thy fair fruit let hang, as to no end Created; but henceforth my early care, Not without song, each morning, and due praise, Shall tend thee, and the fertile burden ease 800 Of thy full branches offer'd free to all ; Till, dieted by thee, I grow mature In knowledge, as the Gods, who all things know: 'Though others envy what they cannot give: For, had the gift been theirs, it had not here 805 Thus grown. Experience next, to thee I owe, Best guide; not following thee, I had remain'd In ignorance; thou open'st wisdom's way, And givest access, though secret she retire. And I perhaps am secret: Heaven is high,

PARADISE LOST.	211
Migh, and remote to see from thence distinct
Each thing on Earth; and other care perhaps
May have diverted from continual watch
Our great Forbidder, safe with all his spies
About him. But to Adam in what sort	815
Shall I appear? shall I to him make known
As yet my change, and give him to partake
Full happiness with me, or rather not,
But keep the odds of knowledge in my power
Without copartner? so to add what wants	820
In female sex, the more to draw his love,
And render me more equal; and perhaps,
A thing not undesirable, sometime
Superior; for inferior, who is free?
This may be well: But what if God have seen,	825
And death ensue? Then I shall be no more!
And Adam, wedded to another Eve,
Shall live with her enjoying, I extinct;
A death to think! Confirm'd then I resolve,
Adam shall share with me in bliss or woe:	830
So dear I love him, that with him all deaths
I could endure, without him live no life.
So saying, from the tree her step she turn'd;
But first low reverence done, as to the Power
That dwelt within, whose presence had infused	835

But first low reverence done, as to the Power
That dwelt within, whose presence had infused
Into the plant sciential sap, derived
From nectar, drink of Gods. Adam the while,
Waiting desirous her return, had wove
Of choicest flowers a garland, to adorn
Her tresses, and her rural labours crown;
As reapers oft are wont their harvest-queen.
Great joy he promised to his thoughts, and new
Solace in her return, so long delay'd:
Yet oft his heart, divine of something ill,
Misgave him; he the faltering measure felt;
And forth to meet her went, the way she took
That morn when first they parted: by the tree
Of knowledge he must pass; there he her met

RAG

Scarce from the tree returning; in her hand A bough of fairest fruit, that downy smiled, 850 New gather'd, and ambrosial smell diffused. To him she hasted; in her face excuse Came prologue and apology, too prompt; Which, with bland words at will, she thus address'd: Hast thou not wonder'd, Adam, at my stay? Thee I have miss'd, and thought it long, deprived Thy presence; agony of love till now Not felt, nor shall be twice; for never more Mean I to try, what rash untried I sought, The pain of absence from thy sight. But strange 860 Hath been the cause, and wonderful to hear: This tree is not, as we are told, a tree Of danger tasted, or to evil unknown Opening the way, but of divine effect

Opening the way, but of divine effect
To open eyes, and make them Gods who taste; 865
And hath been tasted such: The scripent wise,
Or not restrain'd as we, or not obeying,
Hath eaten of the fruit; and is become,
Not dead, as we are threaten'd, but thenceforth
Endued with human voice and human sense,
Reasoning to admiration; and with me

Persuasively hath so prevail'd that I
Have also tasted, and have also found
The effects to correspond; opener mine eyes,

Dim erst, dilated spirits, ampler heart, And growing up to Godhead; which for thee Chiefly I sought, without thee can despise. For bliss, as thou hast part, to me is bliss;

Tedious, unshared with thee, and odious soon. Thou therefore also taste, that equal lot

May join us, equal joy, as equal love; Lest, thou not tasting, different degree Disjoin us, and I then too late renounce Deity for thee, when Fate will not permit.

Thus Eve, with countenance blithe her story told; But in her cheek distemper flushing glow'd.

IMENDIOL LOSI.	~10
On the other side Adam, soon as he heard
The fatal trespass done by Eve, amazed,
Astonied stood and blank, while horror chill
Ran through his veins, and all his joints relax'd;	890
From his slack hand the garland wreathed for Eve	е
Down dropp'd, and all the faded roses shed;
Speechless he stood and pale, till thus at length
First to himself he inward silence broke:
O fairest of Creation, last and best	895
Of all God's works, Creature in whom excell'd
Whatever can to sight or thought be form'd,
Holy, divine, good, amiable, or sweet!
How art thou lost! now on a sudden lost,
Defaced, deflower'd, and now to death devote!	900
Rather, how hast thou yielded to transgress
The strict forbiddance, how to violate
The sacred fruit forbidden! Some cursed fraud
Of enemy hath beguiled thee, yet unknown,	100
And me with thee hath ruin'd; for with thee	905
Certain my resolution is to die:
How can I live without thee! how forego
Thy sweet converse, and love so dearly join'd,
To live again in these wild woods forlorn!
Should God create another Eve, and I	910
Another rib afford, yet loss of thee
Would never from my heart: no, no! I feel
The link of Nature draw me: flesh of flesh,
Bone of my bone thou art, and from thy state
Mine never shall be parted, bliss or woe.	915
So having said, as one from sad dismay
Recomforted, and after thoughts disturb'd
Submitting to what seem'd remediless,
Thus in calm mood his words to Eve he turn'd:
Bold deed thou hast presumed, adventurous Eve	, 920
And peril great provoked, who thus hast dared,
Had it been only coveting to eye
That sacred fruit, sacred to abstinence,

Much more to taste it under ban to touch.

THE LOST	~47
Of thy perfection, how shall I attain,
Adam, from whose dear side I boast me sprung,
And gladly of our union hear thee speak,	965
One heart, one soul in both; whereof good proof
This day affords, declaring thee resolved,
Rather than death, or aught than death more drea	d,
Shall separate us, link'd in love so dear,
To undergo with me one guilt, one crime,	970
If any be, of tasting this fair fruit;
Whose virtue (for of good still good proceeds,
Direct, or by occasion) hath presented
This happy trial of thy love, which else
So eminently never had been known?	975
Were it I thought death menaced would ensue
This my attempt, I would sustain alone
The worst, and not persuaded thee, rather die
Deserted, than oblige thee with a fact
Pernicious to thy peace; chiefly assured	980
Remarkably so late of thy so true,
So faithful, love unequal'd: but I feel
Far otherwise the event; not death, but life
Augmented, open'd eyes, new hopes, new joys,
Taste so divine that what of sweet before	985
Hath touch'd my sense flat seems to this, and hars	h.
On my experience, Adam, freely taste,
And fear of death deliver to the winds.
So saying, she embraced him, and for joy
Tenderly wept; much won, that he his love	990
Had so ennobled, as of choice to incur
Divine displeasure for her sake, or death.
In recompense (for such compliance bad
Such recompense best merits) from the bough
She gave him of that fair enticing fruit	995
With liberal hand: he scrupled not to eat,
Against his better knowledge; not deceived,
But fondly overcome with female charm.

Earth trembled from her entrails, as again In pangs; and Nature gave a second groan;

Sky lour'd; and, muttering thunder, some sad drops Wept at completing of the mortal sin Original: while Adam took no thought, Eating his fill; nor Eve to iterate Her former trespass fear'd, the more to sooth 1005 Him with her loved society; that now, As with new wine intoxicated both, They swim in mirth, and fancy that they feel Divinity within them breeding wings, Wherewith to scorn the earth: But that false fruit Far other operation first display'd, 1011 Carnal desire inflaming; he on Eve Began to cast lascivious eyes; she him As wantonly repaid; in lust they burn: Till Adam thus 'gan Eve to dalliance move: 1015 Eve, now I see thou art exact of taste And elegant, of sapience no small part; Since to each meaning sayour we apply, And palate call judicious: I the praise Yield thee, so well this day thou hast purvey'd. 1020 Much pleasure we have lost, while we abstain'd From this delightful fruit, nor known till now True relish, tasting; if such pleasure be In things to us forbidden, it might be wish'd For this one tree had been forbidden ten. 1025 But come, so well refresh'd, now let us play, As meet is, after such delicious fare; For never did thy beauty, since the day I saw thee first and wedded thee, adorn'd With all perfections, so inflame my sense 1030 With ardour to enjoy thee, fairer now Than ever; bounty of this virtuous tree!

So said he, and forbore not glance or toy Of amorous intent; well understood Of Eve, whose eve darted contagious fire. 1035 Her hand he seized; and to a shady bank Thick overhead with verdant roof imbower'd, He led her nothing loath: flowers were the couch,

Pansies, and violets, and asphodel, And hyacinth; Earth's freshest softest lap. 1040 There they their fill of love and love's disport Took largely, of their mutual guilt the seal, The solace of their sin; till dewy sleep Oppress'd them, wearied with their amorous play. Soon as the force of that fallacious fruit, 1045 That with exhilarating vapour bland About their spirits had play'd, and inmost powers Made err, was now exhaled; and grosser sleep, Bred of unkindly fumes, with conscious dreams Incumber'd, now had left them: up they rose 1050 As from unrest; and, each the other viewing, Soon found their eyes how open'd, and their minds How darken'd; innocence, that as a veil Had shadow'd them from knowing ill, was gone: Just confidence, and native righteousness, 1055 And honour, from about them, naked left To guilty Shame; he cover'd, but his robe Uncover'd more So rose the Danite strong, Herculean Samson, from the harlot lap Of Philistéan Dalilah, and waked 1060 Shorn of his strength, They destitute and bare Of all their virtue: Silent, and in face Confounded, long they sat, as stricken mute: Till Adam, though not less than Eve abash'd, At length gave utterance to these words constrain'd: O Eve, in evil hour thou didst give ear 1066 To that false worm, of whomsoever taught To counterfeit Man's voice : true in our fall. False in our promised rising; since our eyes Open'd we find indeed, and find we know 1070 Both good and evil: good lost, and evil got; Bad fruit of knowledge, if this be to know; Which leaves us naked thus, of honour void, Of innocence, of faith, of purity,

And in our faces evident the signs

Our wonted ornaments now soil'd and stain'd,

Of foul concupiscence; whence evil store; Even shame, the last of evils; of the first Be sure then .- How shall I behold the face Henceforth of God or Angel, erst with joy 1080 And rapture so oft beheld? Those heavenly shapes Will dazzle now this earthly with their blaze Insufferably bright. O! might I here In solitude live savage; in some glade ()bscured, where highest woods, impenetrable 1085 To star or sunlight, spread their umbrage broad And brown as evening: Cover me, ye Pines! Ye Cedars, with innumerable boughs Hide me, where I may never see them more !-But let us now, as in bad plight, devise 1090 What best may for the present serve to hide The parts of each from other, that seem most To shame obnoxious, and unseemliest seen; Some tree, whose broad smooth leaves together sew'd, And girded on our loins, may cover round Those middle parts; that this new comer, Shame, There sit not, and reproach us as unclean.

So counsel'd he, and both together went Into the thickest wood; there soon they chose The fig tree; not that kind for fruit renown'd, 1100 But such as at this day, to Indians known, In Malabar or Decan spreads her arms Branching so broad and long, that in the ground The bended twigs take root, and daughters grow About the mother tree, a pillar'd shade 1105 High overarch'd, and echoing walks between . There oft the Indian herdsmen, shunning heat, Shelters in cool, and tends his pasturing herds At loopholes cut through thickest shade: Those leaves They gather'd, broad as Amazonian targe; 1110 And, with what skill they had, together sew'd, To gird their waist; vain covering, if to hide Their guilt and dreaded shame! O, how unlike To that first naked glory! Such of late

Columbus found the American, so girt 1115 With feather'd cincture; naked else, and wild Among the trees on isles and woody shores. Thus fenced, and, as they thought, their shame in part Cover'd, but not at rest or ease of mind, They sat them down to weep; nor only tears 1120 Rain'd at their eyes, but high winds worse within Began to rise, high passions, anger, hate, Mistrust, suspicion, discord; and shook sore Their inward state of mind, calm region once And full of peace, now toss'd and turbulent: 1125 For Understanding ruled not, and the Will Heard not her lore; both in subjection now To sensual appetite, who from beneath Usurping over sov'reign Reason claim'd Superior sway: From thus distemper'd breast, 1130 Adam, estranged in look and alter'd style, Speech intermitted thus to Eve renew'd: Would thou hadst hearken'd to my words, and staid With me, as I besought thee, when that strange Desire of wandering, this unhappy morn, 1135 I know not whence possess'd thee; we had then Remain'd still happy; not as now, despoil'd Of all our good; shamed, naked, miserable! Let none henceforth seek needless cause to approve The faith they owe; when earnestly they seek Such proof, conclude, they then begin to fail. To whom, soon moved with touch of blame, thus What words have pass'd thy lips, Adam, severe! Imputest thou that to my default, or will Of wandering as thou call'st it, which who knows 1145 But might as ill have happen'd thou being by, Or to thyself perhaps? Hadst thou been there, Or here the attempt, thou couldst not have discern'd Fraud in the Serpent, speaking as he spake; No ground of enmity between us known, 1150 Why he should mean me ill, or seek to harm.

Was I to have never parted from thy side?

As good have grown there still a lifeless rib. Being as I am, why didst not thou, the head, Command me absolutely not to go, 1155 Going into such danger, as thou saidst? Too facile then, thou didst not much gainsay; Nav, didst permit, approve, and fair dismiss. Hadst thou been firm and fix'd in thy dissent, Neither had I transgress'd, nor thou with me. 1160 To whom, then first incensed, Adam replied: Is this the love, is this the recompense Of mine to thee, ingrateful Eve! express'd Immutable, when thou wert lost, not I; Who might have lived, and joy'd immortal bliss, 1165 Yet willingly chose rather death with thee? And am I now upbraided, as the cause Of thy transgressing? Not enough severe,

It seems, in thy restraint; What could I more? It seems, in thy restraint; What could I more? I warn'd thee, I admonish'd thee, foretold The danger, and the lurking enemy
That lay in wait; beyond this had been force; And force upon free will hath here no place. But confidence then bore thee on; secure Either to meet no danger, or to find Matter of glorious trial; and perhaps I also err'd, in overmuch admiring
What seem'd in thee so perfect, that I thought
No evil durst attempt thee; but I rue
The error now, which is become my crime,
And thou the accuser. Thus it shall befal

She first his weak indulgence will accuse.

Thus they in mutual accusation spent
The fruitless hours, but neither self-condemning;
And of their vain contest appear'd no end.

Him, who, to worth in women overtrusting, Lets her will rule: restraint she will not brook, And, left to herself. if evil thence ensue,

PARADISE LOST.

BOOK X.

Man's transgression known, the guardian Angels forsake Paradise, and return up to Heaven to approve their vigi.ance, and are approved; God declaring that the entrance of Satan could not be by them prevented. He sends his Son to judge the transgressors, who descends and gives sentence accordingly; then in pity clothes them both, and reascends. Sin and Death, sitting till then at the gates of Hell, by wondrous sympathy feeling the success of Satan in this new world, and the sin by Man there committed, resolve to sit no longer confined in Hell, but to follow Satan their sire up to the place of Man: To make the way easier from Hell to this world to and fro, they pave a broad highway or bridge over Chaos, according to the tract that Satan first made; then, preparing for Earth, they meet him, proud of his success, return ing to Hell; their mutual gratulation. Satan arrives at Pande monium, in full assembly relates with boasting his success against Man; instead of applause is entertained with a general hiss by all his audience, transformed with himself also suddenly into serpents, according to his doom given in Paradise; then, de-luded with a show of the forbidden tree springing up before them, they, greedily reaching to take of the fruit, chew dust and bitter ashes. The proceedings of Sin and Death: God foretels the final victory of his Son over them, and the renewing of all things; but, for the present, commands his Angels to make several alterations in the Heavens and elements. Adam, more and more perceiving his fallen condition, heavily bewails, rejects the condolement of Eve; she persists, and at length appeases him: then, to evade the curse likely to fall on their offspring, proposes to Adam violent ways, which heapproves not; but, conceiving better hope, puts her in mind of the late promise made them, that her seed should be revenged on the Serpent; and exhorts her with him to seek peace of the offended Deity, by repentance and supplication.

MEANWHILE the heinous and despiteful act
Of Satan, done in Paradise; and how
He, in the Serpent, had perverted Eve,
Her husband she, to taste the fatal fruit,
Was known in Heaven; for what can scape the eye 5
Of God all-seeing, or deceive his heart
Omniscient? who, in all things wise and just

Hinder'd not Satan to attempt the mind
Of Man, with strength entire and free will arm'd,
Complete to have discover'd and repulsed	10
Whatever wiles of fee or seeming friend.
For still they knew, and ought to have still remembe	r'd,
The high injunction, not to taste that fruit,
Whoever tempted; which they not obeying,
incurr'd (what could they less?) the penalty;	15
And, manifold in sin, deserved to fall.
Up into Heaven from Paradise in haste
The Angelic guards ascended, mute and sad,
For Man; for of his state by this they knew,
Much wondering how the subtle Fiend had stolen	20
Entrance unseen. Soon as the unwelcome news
From Earth arrived at Heaven-gate, displeased
All were who heard; dim Sadness did not spare
That time celestial visages, yet, mix'd
With pity, violated not their bliss.	25
About the new-arrived, in multitudes
The ethereal people ran, to hear and know
How all befel: They towards the throne supreme,
Accountable, made haste, to make appear,
With righteous plea, their utmost vigilance,	30
And easily approved: when the Most High
Eternal Father, from his secret cloud,
Amidst in thunder utter'd thus his voice:
Assembled Angels, and ye Powers return'd
From unsuccessful charge, be not dismay'd,	35
Nor troubled at these tidings from the earth,
Which your sincerest care could not prevent;
Foretold so lately what would come to pass,
When first this Tempter cross'd the gulf from Hell
I told ye then he should prevail, and speed	40
On his bad errand; Man should be seduced,
And flatter'd out of all, believing lies
Against his Maker; no decree of mine
Concurring to necessitate his fall,
Or touch with lightest moment of impulse	45

His free will, to her own inclining left
In even scale. But fallen he is; and now
What rests, but that the mortal sentence pass
On his transgression, death denounced that day
Which he presumes already vain and void,	50
Because not yet inflicted, as he fear'd,
By some immediate stroke; but soon shall find
Forbearance no acquittance, ere day end.
Justice shall not return as bounty scorn'd.
But whom send I to judge them? whom but thee,	55
Vicegerent Son? To thee I have transferr'd
All judgment, whether in Heaven, or Earth, or He	11.
Easy it may be seen that I intend
Mercy colleague with Justice, sending thee,
Man's friend, his Mediator, his design'd	60
Both ransom and Redeemer voluntary,
And destined Man himself to judge Man fallen.
So spake the Father; and, unfolding bright
Toward the right hand his glory, on the Son
Blazed forth unclouded Deity: He full	65
Resplendent all his Father manifest
Express'd, and thus divinely answer'd mild:
Father Eternal, thine is to decree;
Mine, both in Heaven and Earth, to do thy will
Supreme; that thou in me, thy Son beloved,	70
Mayst ever rest well pleased. I go to judge
On earth these thy transgressors; but thou know's	t,
Whoever judged, the worst on me must light,
When time shall be; for so I undertook
Before thee; and, not repenting, this obtain	75
Of right, that I may mitigate their doom
On me derived; yet I shall temper so
Justice with mercy as may illustrate most
Them fully satisfied, and thee appease.
Attendance none shall need, nor train, where none	80
Are to behold the judgment, but the judged,
Those two: the third best absent is condemn'd.

Convict by flight, and rebel to all law: Conviction to the serpent none belongs.

Thus saying, from his radiant seat he rose 85 Of high collateral glory; Him Thrones, and Powers, Princedoms, and Dominations ministrant, Accompanied to Heaven-gate; from whence Eden and all the coast in prospect lay. Down he descended straight; the speed of Gods Time counts not, though with swiftest minutes wing'd: Now was the sun in western cadence low From noon, and gentle airs, due at their hour, To fan the earth now waked, and usher in The evening cool; when he, from wrath more cool, 95 Came the mild judge, and Intercessor both, To sentence Man: The voice of God they heard Now walking in the garden, by soft winds Brought to their ears, while day declined; they heard, And from his presence hid themselves among The thickest trees, both man and wife; till God, Approaching, thus to Adam call'd aloud :

Where art thou, Adam wont with joy to meet
My coming seen far off? I miss thee here,
Not pleased, thus entertain'd with solitude,
Where obvious duty ere while appear'd unsought:

Or come I less conspicuous, or what change

Absents thee, or what chance detains?—Come forth!

He came; and with him Eve, more loath, though first
To offend; discountenanced both, and discomposed;
Love was not in their looks, either to God,
Or to each other; but apparent guilt,
And shame, and perturbation, and despair,

And shame, and perturbation, and despair,
Anger, and obstinacy, and hate, and guile.
Whence Adam, faltering long, thus answer'd brief:

I heard thee in the garden, and of thy voice
Afraid, being naked, hid myself. To whom
The gracious Judge without revile replied:

My voice thou oft hast heard, and hast not fear'd,

PARADISE LOST.	225
But still rejoiced; how is it now become	120
So dreadful to thee! That thou art naked, who Hath told thee? Hast thou eaten of the tree
Whereof I gave thee charge thou shouldst not eat	?
To whom thus Adam sore beset replied:
O Heaven! in evil strait this day I stand	125
Before my Judge; either to undergo
Myself the total crime, or to accuse
My other self, the partner of my life;
Whose failing, while her faith to me remains,
I should conceal, and not expose to blame	130
By my complaint: but strict necessity
Subdues me, and calamitous constraint;
Lest on my head both sin and punishment
However insupportable, be all	,
Devolved; though should I hold my peace, yet th
Wouldst easily detect what I conceal.—	136
This Woman, whom thou madest to be my help,
And gavest me as thy perfect gift, so good,
So fit, so acceptable, so divine,
That from her hand I could suspect no ill,	140
And what she did, whatever in itself,
Her doing seem'd to justify the deed;
She gave me of the tree, and I did eat.
To whom the Sov'reign Presence thus replied.	4.5
Was she thy God, that her thou didst obey	145
Before his voice? or was she made thy guide,
Superior, or but equal, that to her
Thou didst resign thy manhood, and the place
Wherein God set thee above her made of thee,	120
And for thee, whose perfection far excell'd Hers in all real dignity? Adorn'd	150
She was indeed, and lovely, to attract
Thy love, not thy subjection; and her gifts

So having said, he thus to Eve in few: Say, Woman, what is this which thou hast done?

To whom sad Eve, with shame nigh overwhelm'd, Confessing soon, yet not before her Judge 160

Bold or loquacious, thus abash'd replied: The Serpent me beguiled, and I did eat.

The Serpent me begulled, and I did eat.

To judgment he proceeded on the accused

Serpent, though brute; unable to transfer The guilt on him who made him instrument

Of mischief, and polluted from the end

Of his creation; justly then accursed,

As vitiated in nature: More to know

Concern'd not man (since he no further knew,)

Nor alter'd his offence; yet God at last

To Satan first in sin his doom applied,

Though in mysterious terms, judged as then best:

And on the Scrpent thus his curse let fall:

Because thou hast done this thou art accursed 175 Above all cattle, each beast of the field;

Above all cattle, each beast of the field; Upon thy belly grovelling thou shalt go,

And dust shalt eat all the days of thy life.

Between thee and the woman I will put

Enmity, and between thine and her seed; 180

Her seed shall bruise thy head, thou bruise his heel.

So spake this oracle, then verified

When Jesus, Son of Mary, second Eve, Saw Satan fall like lightning down from Heaven,

Prince of the air, then, rising from his grave,

Spoil'd Principalities and Powers, triumph'd

In open show; and, with ascension bright,

Captivity led captive through the air,
The realm itself of Satan, long usurp'd;

Whom he shall tread at last under our feet;

Even he, who now foretold his fatal bruise;

'nd to the woman thus his sentence turn d'

'hy sorrow I will greatly multiply

By thy conception; children thou shalt bring
In sorrow forth; and to thy husband's will	195
Thine shall submit; he over thee shall rule.
On Adam last thus judgment he pronounced:	4
Because thou hast hearken'd to the voice of thy	wife,
And eaten of the tree, concerning which
I charged thee, saying, Thou shalt not eat thereof	: 200
Cursed is the ground for thy sake; thou in sorro	W

Thorns also and thistles it shall bring thee forth
Unbid; and thou shalt eat the herb of the field;
In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread,	205
Till thou return unto the ground; for thou
Out of the ground wast taken, know thy birth,
For dust thou art, and shalt to dust return.
So judged he Man, both Judge and Saviour ser

Before him naked to the air, that now
Must suffer change, disdain'd not to begin
Thenceforth the form of servant to assume;
As when he wash'd his servants' feet; so now	215
As father of his family, he clad
Their nakedness with skins of beasts, or slain,
Or as the snake with youthful coat repaid;
And thought not much to clothe his enemies:	7
Nor he their outward only with the skins	220
Of beasts, but inward nakedness much more
Opprobrious, with his robe of righteousness
Arraying, cover'd from his Father's sight.
To him with swift ascent he up return'd,	00-
Into his blissful bosom reassumed	225

In glory, as of old; to him appeased All, though all-knowing, what had pass'd with Man Recounted, mixing intercession sweet. Meanwhile, ere thus was sinn'd and judged on Earth,

Within the gates of Hell sat Sin and Death, 230

In counterview within the gates, that now

Stood open wide, belching outrageous flame Far into Chaos, since the Fiend pass'd through, Sin opening; who thus now to Death began:

O Son, why sit we here each other viewing 235 Idly, while Satan, our great author, thrives In other worlds, and happier seat provides For us, his offspring dear? It cannot be But that success attends him; if mishap, Ere this he had return'd, with fury driven By his avengers; since no place like this Can fit his punishment, or their revenge. Methinks I feel new strength within me rise, Wings growing, and dominion given me large Beyond this deep; whatever draws me on, 245 Or sympathy, or some connatural force, Powerful at greatest distance to unite, With secret amity things of like kind, By secretest conveyance. Thou, my shade Inseparable, must with me along: For Death from Sin no power can separate. But, lest the difficulty of passing back Stay his return perhaps over this gulf Impassable, impervious; let us try Adventurous work, yet to thy power and mine Not unagreeable, to found a path Over this main from Hell to that new world, Where Satan now prevails: a monument Of merit high to all the infernal host, Easing their passage hence, for intercourse, Or transmigration, as their lot shall lead. Nor can I miss the way, so strongly drawn By this new-felt attraction and instinct. Whom thus the meagre shadow answer'd soon: 265

Go, whitner Fate and inclination strong
Leads thee; I shall not lag behind, nor err
The way, thou leading; such a scent I draw
Of carnage, prey innumerable, and taste
The savour of death from all things there that live

PARADISE LOST.	229
Nor shall I to the work thou enterprisest	270
Be wanting, but afford thee equal aid.
So saying, with delight he snuff'd the smell
Of mortal change on earth. As when a flock
Of ravenous fowl, though many a league remote,
Against the day of battle, to a field,	275
Where armics lie encamp'd, come flying, lured
With scent of living carcasses design'd
For death, the following day, in bloody fight:
So scented the grim Feature, and upturn'd
His nostril wide into the murky air;	280
Sagacious of his quarry from so far.
Them both from out Hell gates, into the waste
Wide anarchy of Chaos, damp and dark,
Flew diverse; and with power (their power was gr	eat)
Hcrering upon the waters, what they met	285
Solid or slimy, as in raging sea
Toss'd up and down, together crowded drove,
From each side shoaling towards the mouth of He	ılı:
As when two polar winds, blowing adverse
Upon the Cronian sea, together drive	290
Mountains of ice, that stop the imagined way
Beyond Petsora eastward, to the rich
Cathaian coast. The aggregated soil
Death with his mace petrific, cold and dry,
As with a trident, smote; and fix'd as firm	295
As Delos, floating once; the rest his look
Bound with Gorgonian rigour not to move;
And with Asphaltic slime, broad as the gate,
Deep to the roots of Hell the gather'd beach
They fasten'd, and the mole immense wrought on	300
Over the foaming deep high-arch'd, a bridge
Of length prodigious, joining to the wall
Immovable of this now fenceless world,
Forfeit to Death; from hence a passage broad,
Smooth, easy, inoffensive, down to Hell.	305
So, if great things to small may be compared,
Xerxes, the liberty of Greece to yoke,

In sight, to each of these three places led.	4
And now their way to Earth they had descried,	325
To Paradise first tending; when, behold!
Satan, in likeness of an Angel bright,
Betwixt the Centaur and the Scorpion steering
His zenith, while the sun in Aries rose:
Disguised he came; but those his children dear	330
Their parent soon discern'd, though in disguise.
He after Eve seduced, unminded slunk

Vain covertures; but when he saw descend
The Son of God to judge them, terrified
He fled; not hoping to escape, but shun	-
The present; fearing, guilty, what his wrath	340

Thence gather'd his own doom; which understo
Not instant, but of future time, with joy	345

And tidings fraught, to Hell he now return'd: And at the brink of Chaos, near the foot Of this new wondrous pontifice, unhoped Met, who to meet him came, his offspring dear. Great joy was at their meeting, and at sight 350 Of that stupendous bridge his joy increased. Long he admiring stood, till Sin, his fair Enchanting daughter, thus the silence broke: O Parent, these are thy magnific deeds, Thy trophies! which thou view'st as not thine own; Thou art their author, and prime architect: 356 For I no sooner in my heart divined, My heart, which by a secret harmony Still moves with thine, join'd in connexion sweet, That thou on earth hadst prosper'd, which thy looks Now also evidence, but straight 1 felt, 360 Though distant from thee worlds between, yet felt. That I must after thee, with this thy son; Such fatal consequence unites us three! Hell could no longer hold us in our bounds, 365 Nor this unvoyageable gulf obscure Detain from following thy illustrious track. Thou hast achieved our liberty, confined Within Hell-gates till now; thou us impower'd To fortify thus far, and overlay, 370 With this portentous bridge, the dark abyss, Thine now is all this world; thy virtue hath won What thy hands builded not; thy wisdom gain'd With odds what war hath lost, and fully avenged Our foil in Heaven; here thou shalt monarch reign, There didst not; there let him still victor sway, As battle hath adjudged; from this new world Retiring, by his own doom alienated; And henceforth monarchy with thee divide Of all things, parted by the empyreal bounds, 380

His quadrature, from thy orbicular world;
Or try thee now more dangerous to his throne

Whom thus the Prince of darkness answer'd glad: Fair Daughter, and thou Son and Grandchild both ; High proof ye now have given to be the race Of Satan (for I glory in the name, Antagonist of Heaven's Almighty King,) Amply have merited of me, of all The infernal empire, that so near Heaven's door Triumphal with triumphal act have met, Mine, with this glorious work; and made one realm, Hell and this world, one realm, one continent Of easy thoroughfare. Therefore, while I Descend through darkness, on your road with ease, To my associate Powers, them to acquaint 395 With these successes, and with them rejoice; You too this way, among these numerous orbs, All yours, right down to Paradise descend; There dwell, and reign in bliss; thence on the earth Dominion exercise and in the air, 400 Chiefly on Man, solc lord of all declared; Him first make sure your thrall, and lastly kill. My substitutes I send ye, and create Plenipotent on earth, of matchless might assuing from me; on your joint vigour now 405 My hold of this new kingdom all depends, Through Sin to Death exposed by my exploit. If your joint power prevail, the affairs of Hell No detriment need fear; go, and be strong! So saying he dismiss'd them; they with speed 410 Their course through thickest constellations held, Spreading their bane; the blasted stars look'd wan, And planets, planet-struck, real eclipse

Raised from their dark Divan, and with like joy

Congratulant approach'd him; who with hand Silence, and with these words attention, won.

Thrones, Dominations, Princedoms, Virtues, Powers; For in possession such, not only of right, 461 I call ye, and declare ye now; return'd Successful beyond hope, to lead ye forth Triumphant out of this infernal pit Abominable, accursed, the house of woe, 465 And dungeon of our tyrant: Now possess, As Lords, a spacious world, to our native Heaven Little inferior, by my adventure hard With peril great achieved. Long were to tell What I have done, what suffer'd; with what pain 470 Voyaged the' unreal, vast, unbounded deep Of horrible confusion: over which By Sin and Death a broad way now is paved, To expedite your glorious march; but I Toil'd out my uncouth passage, forced to ride 475 The untractable abyss, plunged in the womb Of unoriginal Night and Chaos wild; That, jealous of their secrets, fiercely opposed My journey strange, with clamorous uproar Protesting Fate supreme; thence how I found 480 The new created world, which fame in Heaven Long had foretold, a fabric wonderful Of absolute perfection! therein Man Placed in a Paradise, by our exile Made happy; Him by fraud I have seduced 485 From his Creator; and, the more to increase Your wonder, with an apple; he, thereat Offended, worth your laughter! hath given up Both his beloved Man, and all his world, To Sin and Death a prey, and so to us, 490 Without our hazard, labour, or alarm, To range in, and to dwell, and over Man To rule, as over all he should have ruled.

Him follow'd, issuing forth to the open field, Where all yet left of that revolted rout, Heaven-fallen, in station stood or just array 535 Sublime with expectation when to see In triumph issuing forth their glorious Chief They saw, but other sight instead! a crowd Of ugly serpents: horror on them fell, And horrid sympathy; for, what they saw, 540 They felt themselves, now changing; down their arms, Down fell both spear and shield; down they as fast; And the dire hiss renew'd, and the dire form Catch'd by contagion; like in punishment, As in their crime. Thus was the applause they meant Turn'd to exploding hiss, triumph to shame 546 Cast on themselves from their own mouths. There stood A grove hard by, sprung up with this their change, His will who reigns above, to aggravate Their penance, laden with fair fruit, like that 550 Which grew in Paradise, the bait of Eve Used by the Tempter: on that prospect strange Their earnest eyes they fix'd, imagining For one forbidden tree a multitude Now risen, to work them further woe or shame; 555 Yet, parch'd with scalding thirst and hunger fierce. Though to delude them sent, could not abstain: But on they roll'd in heaps, and, up the trees Climbing, sat thicker than the snaky locks That curl'd Megæra; greedily they pluck'd 560 The fruitage fair to sight, like that which grew Near that bituminous lake where Sodom flamed: This, more delusive, not the touch, but taste Deceived; they, fondly thinking to allay Their appetite with gust, instead of fruit 565 Chew'd bitter ashes, which the offended taste With spattering noise rejected; oft they essay'd, Hunger and thirst constraining; drugg'd as oft, With hatefulest disrelish writhed their jaws, With soot and cinders fill'd; so oft they fell 570

Into the same illusion, not as Man [plagued Whom they triumph'd once lapsed. Thus were they And worn with famine, long and ceaseless hiss, Till their lost shape, permitted, they resumed; Yearly enjoin'd, some say, to undergo 575 This annual humbling certain number'd days, To dash their pride and joy, for Man seduced. However, some tradition they dispersed Among the Heathen of their purchase got, And fabled how the Serpent, whom they call'd 580 Ophion, with Eurynome, the wide Encroaching Eve perhaps, had first the rule Of high Olympus; thence by Saturn driven And Orps, ere yet Dictean Jove was born. Meanwhile in Paradise the hellish pair 585 Too soon arrived; Sin, there in power before, Once actual; now in body, and to dwell Habitual habitant ; behind her Death, Close following pace for pace, not mounted yet On his pale horse; to whom Sin thus began: 590 Second of Satan sprung, all conquering Death! What thinkst thou of our empire now, though earn'd With travel difficult, not better far Than still at Hell's dark threshold to have set watch, Unnamed, undreaded, and thyself half starved? Whom thus the Sin-born monster answer'd soon: To me, who with eternal famine pine, Alike is Hell, or Paradise, or Heaven; There best, where most with ravine I may meet; Which there, though plenteous, all too little seems 600 To stuff this maw, this vast unhide-bound corpse. To whom the incestuous mother thus replied: Thou therefore on these herbs, and fruits, and flowers Feed first; on each beast next, and fish, and fowl; No homely morsels! and, whatever thing 605 The scythe of Time mows down, devour unspared: Till I, in Man residing, through the race,

His thoughts, his looks, words, actions, all infect;

And season him thy last and sweetest prev. This said, they both betook them several ways, 610 Both to destroy, or unimmortal make All kinds, and for destruction to mature Sooner or later; which the Almighty seeing, From his transcendent seat the Saints among, To those bright Orders utter'd thus his voice: 615 See, with what heat these dogs of Hell advance To waste and havoc yonder world, which I So fair and good created; and had still Kept in that state, had not the folly of Man Let in these wasteful furies, who impute 620 Folly to me; so doth the Prince of Hell And his adherents, that with so much ease I suffer them to enter and possess A place so heavenly; and, conniving, seem To gratify my scornful enemies, That laugh, as if, transported with some fit Of passion, I to them had quitted all, At random vielded up to their misrule; And know not that I call'd, and drew them thither, My Hell-hounds, to lick up the draff and filth 630 Which Man's polluting sin with taint hath shed On what was pure; till, cramm'd and gorged, nigh With suck'd and glutted offal, at one sling Tburst, Of thy victorious arm, well pleasing Son, Both Sin, and Death, and yawning Grave, at last, 635 Through Chaos hurl'd, obstruct the mouth of Hell For ever, and seal up his ravenous jaws. Then Heaven and Earth renew'd shall be made pure To sanctity, that shall receive no stain:

Till then, the curse pronounced on both precedes. 640 He ended, and the heavenly audience loud Sung Hallelujah, as the sound of seas, Through multitude that sung: Just are thy wavs. Righteous are thy decrees on all thy works; Who can extenuate thee? Next, to the Son Destined restorer of mankind, by whom

New Heaven and Earth shall to the ages rise, Or down from Heaven descend .- Such was their song; While the Creator, calling forth by name His mighty Angels, gave them several charge, 650 As sorted best with present things. The sun Had first his precept so to move, so shine, As might affect the earth with cold and heat Scarce tolerable; and from the north to call Decrepit winter; from the south to bring 655 Solstitial summer's heat. To the blanc moon Her office they prescribed; to the other five Their planetary motions, and aspects, In sextile, square, and trine, and opposite, Of noxious efficacy, and when to join 660 In synod unbenign; and taught the fix'd Their influence malignant when to shower, Which of them rising with the sun, or falling, Should prove tempestuous: To the winds they set Their corners, when with bluster to confound 665 Sea, air, and shore; the thunder when to roll With terror through the dark aërial hall. Some say, he bid his Angels turn askance The poles of earth, twice ten degrees and more, From the sun's axle; they with labour push'd 670 Oblique the centric globe: Some say, the sun Was bid turn reins from the' equinoctial road Like distant breadth to Taurus with the seven Atlantic Sisters, and the Spartan Twins, Up to the Tropic Crab; thence down amain 675 By Leo, and the Virgin, and the Scales, As deep as Capricorn; to bring in change Of seasons to each clime; else had the spring Perpetual smiled on earth with verdant flowers Equal in days and nights, except to those 680 Beyond the polar circles; to them day Had unbenighted shone, while the low sun,

To recompense his distance, in their sight Had rounded still the horizon, and not known

Or east or west; which had forbid the snow 685 From cold Estotiland, and south as far Beneath Magellan. At that tasted fruit The sun, as from Thyéstean banquet, turn'd His course intended; else how had the world Inhabited, though sinless, more than now 690 Avoided pinching cold and scorching heat? These changes in the Heavens, though slow, produced Like change on sea and land; sideral blast, Vapour, and mist, and exhalation hot, Corrupt and pestilent; Now from the north 695 Of Norumbega, and the Sameod shore, Bursting their brazen dungeon, arm'd with ice, And snow, and hail, and stormy gust and flaw, Boreas, and Cæcias, and Argestes loud, And Thrascias, rend the woods, and seas upturn; 700 With adverse blast upturns them from the south Notus, and Afer black with thunderous clouds From Serraliona; thwart of these, as fierce, Forth rush the Lévant and the Ponent winds. Eurus and Zephyr, with their lateral noise. 705 Sirocco and Libecchio. Thus began Outrage from lifeless things; but Discord first, Daughter of Sin, among the irrational Death introduced, through fierce antipathy: Beast now with beast 'gan war, and fowl with fowl, 710 And fish with fish; to graze the herb all leaving, Devour'd each other; nor stood much in awe Of Man, but fled him; or, with countenance grim. Glared on him passing. These were from without The growing miscries, which Adam saw 715 Already in part, though hid in gloomiest shade, To sorrow abandon'd, but worse felt within; And, in a troubled sea of passion toss'd, Thus to disburden sought with sad complaint:

O miserable of happy! Is this the end Of this new glorious world, and me so late The glory of that glory, who now become

Prove disobedient; and, reproved, retort, Wherefore didst thou beget me? I sought it not: Wouldst thou admit for his contempt of thee: That proud excuse? yet him not thy election, But natural necessity begot. 765 God made thee of choice his own, and of his own To serve him: thy reward was of his grace; Thy punishment then justly is at his will. Yet one doubt Pursues me still, lest all I cannot die; Lest that pure breath of life, the spirit of Man Which God inspired, cannot together perish With this corporeal clod; then, in the grave Or in some other dismal place, who knows But I shall die a living death? O thought Horrid, if true! Yet why? It was but breath Of life that sinn'd; what dies but what had life And sin? The body properly had neither. All of me then shall die: let this appease The doubt, since human reach no further knows. For though the Lord of all be infinite, Is his wrath also? Be it, Man is not so, 795 But mortal doom'd. How can he exercise Wrath without end on Man, whom death must end? Can he make deathless death? That were to make

If guiltless? But from me what can proceed,
But all corrupt; both mind and will depraved	825
Not to do only, but to will the same
With me? How can they then acquitted stand
In sight of God? Him, after all disputes,
Forced I absolve: all my evasions vain,
And reasonings, though through mazes, lead me st	till
But to my own conviction: first and last	831
On me, me only, as the source and spring
Of all corruption, all the blame lights due;
So might the wrath! Fond wish! couldst thou sup	port
That burden, heavier than the earth to bear;	835
Than all the world much heavier, though divided

With that bad Woman? Thus, what thou desirest,
And what thou fear'st, alike destroys all hope
Of refuge, and concludes thee miserable
Beyond all past example and future;
To Satan only like both crime and doom.
O Conscience! into what abyss of fears
And horrors hast thou driven me: out of which
I find no way, from deep to eper plunged!

Thus Adam to himself lamented loud, 845 Through the still night; not now, as ere Man fell, Wholesome, and cool, and mild, but with black air Accompanied; with damps, and dreadful gloom; Which to his evil conscience represented All things with double terror: on the ground 850 Outstretch'd he lay, on the cold ground; and oft Cursed his creation: Death as oft accused Of tardy execution, since denounced The day of his offence. Why comes not Death, Said he, with one thrice-acceptable stroke 855 To end me? Shall Truth fail to keep her word. Justice Divine not hasten to be just? But Death comes not at call; Justice Divine Mends not her slowest pace for prayers or cries. O woods, O fountains, hillocks, dales, and bowers 1860 With other echo late I taught your shades To answer, and resound far other song .--Whom thus afflicted when sad Eve beheld. Desolate where she sat, approaching nigh, Soft words to his fierce passion she essay'd: 865

Out of my sight, thou Serpent! That name best Befits thee with him leagued, thyself as false And hateful; nothing wants, but that thy shape, Like his, and colour serpentine, may show 870 Thy inward fraud; to warn all creatures from thee Henceforth; lest that too heavenly form, pretended, To hellish falsehood snare them! But for thee I had persisted happy; had not thy pride

But her with stern regard he thus repell'd:

PARADISE LOST. 245 And wandering vanity, when least was safe, 875 Rejected my forewarning, and disdain'd Not to be trusted; longing to be seen, Though by the Devil himself; him overweening To overreach; but, with the serpent meeting, Fool'd and beguiled; by him thou, I by thee, 880 To trust thee from my side; imagined wise, Constant, mature, proof against all assaults; And understood not all was but a show, Rather than solid virtue; all but a rib Crooked by nature, bent, as now appears, 885 More to the part sinister, from me drawn; Well if thrown out, as supernumerary To my just number found. O! why did God, Creator wise, that peopled highest Heaven With Spirits masculine, create at last 890 This novelty on earth, this fair defect Of nature, and not fill the world at once With Men, as Angels, without feminine ; Or find some other way to generate Mankind? This mischief had not then befallen, 895 And more that shall befal; innumerable Disturbances on earth through female snares, And strait conjunction with this sex: for either He never shall find out fit mate, but such

To a fell adversary, his hate or shame:
Which infinite calamity shall cause
To human life, and household peace confound.
He added not, and from her turn'd: but Eve,
Not so repulsed, with tears that ceased not flowing,
And tresses all disorder'd, at his feet

965

As some misfortune brings him, or mistake;

Or whom he wishes most shall seldom gain Through her perverseness, but shall see her gain'd By a far worse; or, if she love, withheld By parents; or his happiest choice too late Shall meet, already link'd and wedlock bound Fell humble; and, embracing them, besought His peace, and thus proceeded in her plaint:

Forsake me not thus, Adam! witness, Heaven, What love sincere and reverence in my heart 915 I bear thee, and unweeting have offended. Unhappily deceived! Thy suppliant I beg, and clasp thy knees; bereave me not. Whereon I live, thy gentle looks, thy aid, Thy counsel, in this uttermost distress. 920 My only strength and stay : forlorn of thee, Whither shall I betake me, where subsist? While yet we live, scarce one short hour perhaps, Between us two let there be peace; both joining, As join'd in injuries, one enmity 925 Against a foe by doom express assign'd us. That cruel Serpent: on me exercise not Thy hatred for this misery befallen: On me already lost, me than thyself More miserable! Both have sinn'd; but thou 930 Against God only; I against God and thee; And to the place of judgment will return, There with my cries importune Heaven, that all The sentence, from thy head removed, may light On me, sole cause to thee of all this woe : 935 Me, me only, just object of his ire! She ended weeping; and her lowly plight. Immovable, till peace obtain'd from fault Acknowledged and deplored, in Adam wrought Commiseration: soon his heart relented 940 Towards her, his life so late, and sole delight, Now at his feet submissive in distress: Creature so fair his reconcilement seeking, His counsel, whom she had displeased, his aid: As one disarm'd, his anger all he lost, 945 And thus with peaceful words upraised her soon:

Unwary, and too desirous, as before, So now of what thou know'st not, who desirest

PARADISE LOST.	247
The punishment all on thyself; alas!
Bear thine own first, ill able to sustain	950
His full wrath, whose thou feel'st as yet least part	,
And my displeasure bear'st so ill. If prayers
Could alter high decrees, I to that place
Would speed before thee, and be louder heard,
That on my head all might be visited;	955
Thy frailty and infirmer sex forgiven,	-7
To me committed, and by me exposed.
But rise;—let us no more contend, nor blame
Each other, blamed enough elsewhere; but strive
In offices of love, how we may lighten	960
Each other's burden, in our share of woe;
Since this day's death denounced, if aught I see,
Will prove no sudden, but a slow-paced evil;
A long day's dying, to augment our pain;
And to our seed (O hapless seed!) derived.	965
To whom thus Eve, recovering heart, replied:
Adam, by sad experiment I know
How little weight my words with thee can find,
Found so erroneous; thence by just event
Found so unfortunate: nevertheless,	970
Restored by thee, vile as I am, to place
Of new acceptance, hopeful to regain
Thy love, the sole contentment of my heart
Living or dying, from thee I will not hide
What thoughts in my unquiet breast are risen,	975
Tending to some relief of our extremes,
Or end; though sharp and sad, yet tolerable,
As in our evils, and of easier choice.
If care of our descent perplex us most,	000
Which must be born to certain woe, devour'd	980
By Death at last; and miserable it is
To be to others cause of misery,
Our own begotten, and of our loins to bring
Into this cursed world a woful race,	005

That after wretched life must be at last

Food for so foul a monster; in thy power

985

It lies, yet ere conception to prevent The race unbless'd, to being yet unbegot. Childless thou art, childless remain: so Death Shall be deceived his glut, and with us two 990 Be forced to satisfy his ravenous maw. But if thou judge it hard and difficult, Conversing, looking, loving, to abstain From love's due rights, nuptial embraces sweet: And with desire to languish without hope, 995 Before the present object languishing With like desire; which would be misery And torment less than none of what we dread; Then, both ourselves and seed at once to free From what we fear for both, let us make short, 1000 Let us seek Death ;-or, he not found, supply With our own hands his office on ourselves: Why stand we longer shivering under fears, That show no end but death, and have the power, Of many ways to die the shortest choosing. 1005 Destruction with destruction to destroy?-She ended here, or vehement despair Broke off the rest; so much of death her thoughts Had entertain'd, as dyed her cheeks with pale. But Adam, with such counsel nothing sway'd, 1010 To better hopes his more attentive mind Labouring had raised; and thus to Eve replied. Eve, thy contempt of life and pleasure seems To argue in thee something more sublime And excellent, than what thy mind contemns; 1015 But self-destruction therefore sought refutes That excellent thought in thee; and implies, Not thy contempt, but anguish and regret For loss of life and pleasure overloved. Or if thou covet death, as utmost end 1020 Of misery, so thinking to evade The penalty pronounced; doubt not but God Hath wiselier arm'd his vengeful ire than so To be forestall'd: much more I fear lest death,

PARADISE LOST.	249
So snatch'd, will not exempt us from the pain	1025
We are by doom to pay; rather, such acts	-
Of contumacy will provoke the Highest
To make death in us live: then let us seek
Some safer resolution, which methinks
I have in view, calling to mind with heed	1030
Part of our sentence, that thy seed shall bruise
The Serpent's head; pitcous amends! unless	100
Be meant, whom I conjecture, our grand foe,
Satan; who, in the serpent, hath contrived
Against us this deceit: to crush his head	1035
Would be revenge indeed! which will be lost
By death brought on ourselves, or childless days
Resolved, as thou proposest; so our foe
Shall scape his punishment ordain'd, and we
Instead shall double ours upon our heads.	1040
No more be mention'd then of violence
Against ourselves; and wilful barrenness,
That cuts us off from hope; and savours only
Rancour and pride, impatience and despite,
Reluctance against God and his just yoke	1045
Laid on our necks. Remember with what mild
And gracious temper he both heard, and judged,
Without wrath or reviling; we expected
Immediate dissolution, which we thought	-
Was meant by death that day: when lo! to thee	1050
Pains only in childbearing were foretold,
And bringing forth; soon recompensed with joy,
Fruit of thy womb: on me the curse aslope
Glanced on the ground; with labour I must earn

Fruit of thy womb: on me the curse aslope
Glanced on the ground; with labour I must earn
My bread; what harm? Idleness had been worse. 1055
My labour will sustain me; and, lest cold
Or heat should injure us, his timely care
Hath, unbesought, provided; and his hands
Clothed us unworthy, pitying while he judged;
How much more, if we pray him, will his ear
1060
Be open, and his heart to pity incline,

And teach us further by what means to shun

The inclement seasons, rain, ice, hail, and snow!
Which now the sky, with various face, begins
To show us in this mountain; while the winds 1065
Blow moist and keen, shattering the graceful locks
Of these fair spreading trees; which bids us seek
Some better shroud, some better warmth to cherish
Our limbs benumb'd, ere this diurnal star
Leave cold the night, how we his gather'd beams 1070
Reflected may with matter sere foment;
Or, by collision of two bodies, grind
The air attrite to fire; as late the clouds
Justling, or push'd with winds, rude in their shock,
Tine the slant lightning; whose thwart flame, driven down,
Kindles the summy bark of firey pine:

Kindles the gummy bark of fir or pine; 1076 And sends a comfortable heat from far, Which might supply the sun: such fire to use, And what may else be remedy or cure To evils which our own misdeeds have wrought, 1080 He will instruct us praying, and of grace Beseeching him; so as we need not fear To pass commodiously this life, sustain'd By him with many comforts, till we end In dust, our final rest and native home. 1085 What better can we do than, to the place Repairing where he judged us, prostrate fall Before him reverent; and there confess Humbly our faults, and pardon beg; with tears Watering the ground, and with our sighs the air 1090 Frequenting, sent from hearts contrite, in sign Of sorrow unfeign'd, and humiliation meek? Undoubtedly he will relent, and turn From his displeasure; in whose look serene, When angry most he seem'd and most severe, 1095 What else but favour, grace, and mercy, shone? So spake our father penitent; nor Eve

Felt less remorse: they, forthwith to the place itepairing where he judged them, prostrate fell

Before him reverent; and both confessed
Humbly their faults, and pardon begg'd: with tears
Watering the ground, and with their sighs the air
Frequenting, sent from hearts contrite, in sign
Of sorrow unfeign'd and humiliation meek

PARADISE LOST

BOOK XI.

The Son of God presents to his Father the prayers of our first parents now repenting, and intercedes for them: God accepts them, but declares that they must no longer abide in Paradise; sends Michael with a band of Cherubim to dispossess them: but first to reveal to Adam future things: Michael's coming down. Adam shows to Evecertain ominous signs; he discerns Michael's aprzoach; goes out to meet him; the Angel denounces their departure. Eve's Lamontation. Adam pleads, but submits: The Angel leads him up to a high hill; sets before him in vision what shall happen till the Flood.

Thus they, in lowliest plight, repentant stood Praying; for from the mercy-seat above Prevenient grace descending had removed The stony from their hearts, and made new flesh Regenerate grow instead; that sighs now breathed 5 Unutterable; which the Spirit of praver Inspired, and wing'd for Heaven with speedier flight Than loudest oratory: yet their port Not of mean suitors; nor important less Seem'd their petition, than when the ancient pair 10 In fables old, less ancient yet than these, Deucalion and chaste Pyrrha, to restore The race of mankind drown'd, before the shrine Of Themis stood devout. To Heaven their prayers Flew up, nor miss'd the way, by envious winds 15 Blown vagabond or frustrate: in they pass'd Dimensionless through heavenly doors; then clad With incense, where the golden altar fumed By their great Intercessor, came in sight Before the Father's throne: them the glad Son 20 Presenting, thus to intercede began:

See, Father, what first-fruits on earth are sprung From thy implanted grace in Man; these sighs And prayers, which in this golden censer, mix'd With incense, I thy priest before thee bring: 25 Fruits of more pleasing sayour, from thy seed Sown with contrition in his heart, than those Which, his own hand manuring, all the trees Of Paradise could have produced, ere fallen From innocence. Now, therefore, bend thine ear 30 To supplication; hear his sighs, though mute; Unskilful with what words to pray, let me Interpret for him; me, his advocate And propitiation; all his works on me, Good or not good, ingraft; my merit those 35 Shall perfect, and for these my death shall pay. Accept me; and, in me, from these receive The smell of peace toward mankind: let him live Before thee reconciled, at least his days Number'd, though sad; till death, his doom (which I To mitigate thus plead, not to reverse,) 41 To better life shall yield him: where with me All my redeem'd may dwell in joy and bliss; Made one with me, as I with thee am one. To whom the Father, without cloud, serene; 45 All thy request for Man, accepted Son, Obtain; all thy request was my decree: But, longer in that Paradise to dwell, The law I gave to nature him forbids: Those pure immortal elements, that know 50 No gross, no unharmonious mixture foul, Eject him, tainted now; and purge him off, As a distemper, gross, to air as gross, And mortal food; as may dispose him best For dissolution wrought by sin, that first 55 Distemper'd all things, and of incorrupt Corrupted. I, at first, with too fair gifts

And immortality: that fondly lost, This other served but to eternize woe: Till I provided death: so death becomes His final remedy; and, after life, Tried in sharp tribulation, and refined By faith and faithful works, to second life, Waked in the renovation of the just, 65 Resigns him up with Heaven and Earth renew d. But let us call to synod all the Bless'd Thide Through Heaven's wide bounds: from them I will not My judgments: how with mankind I proceed, As how with peccant Angels late they saw, 70 And in their state, though firm, stood more confirm'd.

He ended, and the Son gave signal high
To the bright minister that watch'd; he blew
His trumpet, heard in Oreb since perhaps
When God descended, and perhaps once more
To sound at general doom. The angelic blast
Fill'd all the regions: from their blissful bowers
Of amarantine shade, fountain or spring,
By the waters of life, where'er they sat
In fellowships of joy, the sons of light
Hasted, resorting to the summons high;
And took their seats: till from his throne supreme
The Almighty thus pronounced his sov'reign will:

The Almighty thus pronounced his sov'reign will:
O Sons, like one of us Man is become
To know both good and evil, since his taste
Of that defended fruit; but let him boast
His knowledge of good lost, and evil got;
Happier, had it sufficed him to have known
Good by itself, and evil not at all.
He sorrows now, repents, and prays contrite,
My motions in him; longer than they move,
His heart I know, how variable and vain,
Self-left. Lest therefore his now bolder hand
Reach also of the tree of life, and eat,
And live for ever, dream at least to live

For ever, to remove him I decree,
And send him from the garden forth to till
The ground whence he was taken, fitter soil.
Michael, this my behest have thou in charge,
Take to thee from among the Cherubin 100
Thy choice of flaming warriors, lest the Fiend,
Or in behalf of Man, or to invade
Vacant possession, some new trouble raise:
Haste thee, and from the Paradise of God
Without remorse drive out the sinful pair; 105
From hallow'd ground the unholy; and denounce
To them, and to their progeny, from thence
Perpetual banishment. Yet, lest they faint
At the sad sentence rigorously urged
(For I behold them soften'd, and with tears 110
Bewailing their excess,) all terror hide.
If patiently thy bidding they obey,
Dismiss them not disconsolate; reveal
To Adam what shall come in future days,
As I shall thee enlighten; intermix 115
My covenant in the Woman's seed renew'd;
So send them forth, though sorrowing, yet in peace
And on the east side of the garden place,
Where entrance up from Eden easiest climbs,
Cherubic watch; and of a sword the flame 120
Wide-waving; all approach far off to fright,
And guard all presage to the tree of life:
Lest Paradise a receptacle prove
To Spirits foul, and all my trees their prey:
With whose stolen fruit Man once more to delude. 125
He ceased; and the archangelic Power prepared
For swift descent; with him the cohort bright
Of watchful Cherubim: four faces each
Had, like a double Janus; all their shape
C

Spangled with eyes more numerous than those Of Argus, and more wakeful than to drowse, Charm'd with Arcadian pipe, the pastoral reed Of Hermes, or his opiate rod. Meanwhile,

170

To resalute the world with sacred light, Leucothea waked; and with fresh dews embalm'd 135 The earth; when Adam and first matron Eve Had ended now their orisons, and found Strength added from above; new hope to spring Out of despair; joy, but with fear yet link'd; Which thus to Eve his welcome words renew'd: 140 Eve, easily may faith admit, that all The good which we enjoy from Heaven descends; But, that from us aught should ascend to Heaven So prevalent as to concern the mind Of God high-bless'd, or to incline his will, 145 Hard to belief may seem; yet this will prayer Or one short sight of human breath, upborne Even to the seat of God. For since I sought By prayer the offended Deity to appease; Kneel'd, and before him humbled all my heart; 150 Methought I saw him placable and mild, Bending his ear; persuasion in me grew That I was heard with favour; peace return'd Home to my breast, and to my memory His promise, that thy seed shall bruise our foe; 155 Which, then not minded in dismay, yet now Assures me that the bitterness of death Is pass'd, and we shall live. Whence hail to thee, Eve rightly call'd, mother of all mankind, Mother of all things living, since by 'hee 160 Man is to live; and all things live for Man. To whom thus Eve with sad demeanour meek: Ill worthy I such title should belong To me transgressor; who, for thee ordain'd A help, became thy snare; to me reproach 165

Ill worthy I such title should belong
To me transgressor; who, for thee ordain'd
A help, became thy snare; to me reproach
Rather belongs, distrust, and all dispraise;
But infinite in pardon was my Judge,
That I, who first brought death on all, am graced
'The source of life; next favourable thou,
Who highly thus to entitle me vouchsafest,
Far other name deserving. But the field

To labour calls us, now with sweat imposed, Though after sleepless night; for see! the morn, All unconcern'd with our unrest, begins Her rosy progress smiling: let us forth; 175 I never from thy side henceforth to stray, Where'er our day's work lies, though now enjoin'd Laborious, till day droop; while here we dwell, What can be toilsome in these pleasant walks? Here let us live, though in fallen state, content. So spake, so wish'd much humbled Eve; but Fate Subscribed not: Nature first gave signs, impress'd On bird, beast, air; air suddenly eclipsed, After short blush of morn; nigh in her sight The bird of Jove, stoop'd from his acry tour, 185 Two birds of gayest plume before him drove; Down from a hill the beast that reigns in woods, First hunter then, pursued a gentle brace. Goodliest of all the forest, hart and hind; Direct to the eastern gate was bent their flight. 190 Adam observed, and with his eye the chase

Pursuing, not unmoved, to Eve thus spake:

O Eve, some further change awaits us nigh,
Which Heaven, by these mute signs in Nature, shows
Forerunners of his purpose; or to warn
195
Us, haply too secure of our discharge
From penalty, because from death released
Some days: how long, and what till then our life,
Who knows? or more than this, that we are dust,
And thither must return, and be no more?
200
Why else this double object in our sight
Of flight pursued in the air, and o'er the ground,
One way the selfsame hour? why in the east

Darkness ere day's mid-course, and morning-light
More orient in you western cloud, that draws
O'er the blue firmament a radiant white,

And slow descends with something heavenly fraught?

He err'd not; for by this the heavenly bands

Down from a sky of jasper lighted now

Z36 TANADISE LOST.	R. YI.
In Paradise, and on a hill made halt;	210
A glorious apparition, had not doubt
And carnal fear that day dimm'd Adam's eye.
Not that more glorious, when the Angels met
Jacob in Mahanaïm, where he saw
The field pavilion'd with his guardians bright:	215
Nor that, which on the flaming mount appear'd
In Dothan, cover'd with a camp of fire,
Against the Syrian king, who to surprise
One man, assassin-like, had levied war,
War unproclaim'd. The princely Hierarch	220
In their bright stand there left his Powers, to sei	ze
Possession of the garden; he alone,
To find where Adam shelter'd, took his way,
Not unperceived of Adam: who to Eve,
While the great visitant approach'd, thus spake	225
Eve, now expect great tidings, which perhaps
Of us will soon determine, or impose
New laws to be observed; for I descry,
From yonder blazing cloud that veils the hill,
One of the heavenly host! and, by his gait,	230
None of the meanest; some great Potentate
Or of the Thrones above; such majesty
Invests him coming! yet not terrible,
That I should fear; nor sociably mild,
As Raphaël, that I should much confide;	235
But solemn and sublime; whom not to offend,
With reverence I must meet, and thou retire.
He ended: and the Archangel soon drew nigh	, .
Not in his shape celestial, but as man	0.46
Clad to meet man; over his lucid arms	240
A military vest of purple flow'd,
Livelier than Melibean, or the grain
Of Sarra, worn by kings and heroes old
In time of truce; Iris had dipp'd the woof;	045
His starry helm unbuckled show'd him prime	245
In manhood where youth ended; by his side,
As in a glistering zodiac, hung the sword,

PARADISE LOST. 259 Satan's dire dread; and in his hand the spear. Adam bow'd low; he, kingly, from his state Inclined not, but his coming thus declared: 250 Adam! Heaven's high behest no preface needs. Sufficient that thy prayers are heard; and Death, Then due by sentence when thou didst transgress, Defeated of his seizure many days Given thee of grace; wherein thou mayst repent, 255 And one bad act with many deeds well done Mayst cover: well may then thy Lord, appeased, Redeem thee quite from Death's rapacious claim; But longer in this Paradise to dwell Permits not: to remove thee I am come, 260 And send thee from the garden forth to till The ground whence thou wast taken, fitter soil. He added not : for Adam at the news Heart-struck with chilling gripe of sorrow stood, That all his senses bound; Eve, who unseen 265 Yet all had heard, with audible lament Discover'd soon the place of her retire. O unexpected stroke, worse than of Death! Must I thus leave thee, Paradise? thus leave Thee, native soil! these happy walks and shades, 270 Fit haunt of Gods? where I had hope to spend, Quiet though sad, the respite of that day That must be mortal to us both. O flowers, That never will in other climate grow, My early visitation, and my last At even, which I bred up with tender hand From the first opening bud, and gave ve names! Who now shall rear ve to the sun, or rank Your tribes, and water from the ambrosial fount? 280

Thee lastly, nuptial bower! by me adorn'd
With what to sight or smell was sweet! from thee
How shall I part, and whither wander down
Into a lower world; to this obscure
And wild? how shall we breathe in other air

And wild? how shall we breathe in other air Less pure, accustom'd to immortal fruits?

Whom thus the Angel interrupted mild:
Lament not, Eve, but patiently resign
What justly thou hast lost, nor set thy heart,
Thus overfond, on that which is not thine:
Thy going is not lonely; with thee goes
Thy husband; him to follow thou art bound;
Where he abides, think there thy native soil.

Adam, by this from the cold sudden damp Recovering, and his scatter'd spirits return'd, To Michael thus his humble words address'd:

Celestial, whether among the Thrones, or named Of them the highest; for such of shape may seem Prince above princes: gently hast thou told Thy message, which might else in telling wound, And in performing end us; what besides Of sorrow, and dejection, and despair, Our frailty can sustain, thy tidings bring, Departure from this happy place, our sweet Recess, and only consolation left Familiar to our eyes! all places else 305 Inhospitable appear, and desolate; Nor knowing us, nor known: and, if by prayer Incessant I could hope to change the will Of Him who all things can, I would not cease To weary him with my assiduous cries: 310 But prayer against his absolute decree No more avails than breath against the wind, Blown stifling back on him that breathes it forth:

Therefore to his great bidding I submit.

This most afflicts me, that, departing hence,
As from his face I shall be hid, deprived
His blessed countenance: here I could frequent

His blessed countenance: here I could frequent With worship place by place where he vouchsafed Presence Divine; and to my sons relate, On this mount he appear'd; under this tree

Stood visible; among these pines his voice I heard; here with him at this fountain talk'd So many grateful altars I would rear

As once thou slent'st, while she to life was form'd.

As once thou slept'st, while she to life was form'd. To whom thus Adam gratefully replied: 370 Ascend; I follow thee, safe Guide, the path Thou lead'st me; and to the hand of Heaven submit, However chastening; to the evil turn My obvious breast; arming to overcome By suffering, and earn rest from labour won, 375 If so I may attain .- So both ascend In the visions of God. It was a hill, Of Paradise the highest; from whose top The hemisphere of earth, in clearest ken, Stretch'd out to the amplest reach of prospect lay. 380 Not higher that hill, nor wider looking round, Whereon, for different cause, the Tempter set Our second Adam, in the wilderness; To show him all Earth's kingdoms and their glory. His eye might there command wherever stood City of old or modern fame, the seat Of mightiest empire, from the destined wall Of Cambalu, seat of Cathaian Can, And Samarchand by Oxus, Temir's throne, To Paquin of Sinean kings; and thence 390 To Agra and Lahor of great Mogul, Down to the golden Chersonese; or where The Persian in Ecbatan sat, or since In Hispahan; or where the Russian Ksar In Mosen; or the Sultan in Bizance, Turchestan-born; nor could his eye not ken The empire of Negus to his utmost port Ercoco, and the less maritime kings

Mombaza, and Quiloa, and Melind,

And Sofala, thought Ophir, to the realm 400 Of Congo, and Angola furthest south; Or thence from Niger flood to Atlas mount The kingdoms of Almansor, Fez and Sus, Morocco, and Algiers, and Tremisen: On Europe thence, and where Rome was to sway 405 The world: in spirit perhaps he also saw Rich Mexico, the seat of Montezume, And Cusco in Peru, the richer seat Of Atabalipa; and yet unspoil'd Guiana, whose great city Geryon's sons 410 Call El Dorado. But to nobler sights Michael from Adam's eyes the film removed, Which that false fruit that promised clearer sight Had bred; then purged with euphrasy and rue The visual nerve, for he had much to see; 415 And from the well of life three drops instill'd. So deep the power of these ingredients pierced, Even to the inmost seat of mental sight, That Adam, now enforced to close his eyes, Sunk down, and all his spirits became entranced; 420 But him the gentle Angel by the hand

Adam, now ope thine eyes; and first behold The effects which thy original crime hath wrought In some to spring from thee; who never touched 425 The excepted tree; nor with the snake conspired; Nor sinned thy sin; yet from that sin derive Corruption, to bring forth more violent deeds.

Soon raised, and his attention thus recall'd:

His eyes he opened, and beheld a field,
Part arable and tilth, whereon were sheaves 430
New reap'd; the other part sheep-walks and folds;
I' the midst an altar as the landmark stood,
Rustic, of grassy sord: thither anon
A sweaty reaper from his tillage brought
First fruits, the green ear, and the yellow sheaf,
Uncull'd, as came to hand: a shepherd next

More meek, came with the firstlings of his flock, Choicest and best: then, sacrificing, laid The inwards and their fat, with incense strow'd, On the cleft wood, and all due rites performed. His offering soon propitious fire from Heaven Consumed with nimble glance and grateful steam; The other's not, for his was not sincere: Whereat he inly raged, and, as they talk'd, Smote him into the midriff with a stone 445 That beat out life; he fell; and, deadly pale, Groan'd out his soul with gushing blood effused. Much at that sight was Adam in his heart Dismay'd, and thus in haste to the Angel cried: O Teacher! some great mischief hath befallen 450 To that meek man, who well had sacrificed;

Is piety thus and pure devotion paid?

To whom Michael thus, he also moved, replied:

These two are brethren, Adam, and to come
Out of thy loins; the unjust the just hath slain,
For envy that his brother's offering found
From Heaven acceptance; but the bloody fact
Will be avenged; and the other's faith, approved,
Lose no reward; though here thou see him die,
Rolling in dust and gore. To which our sire:

460

Alas! both for the deed and for the cause;
But have I now seen Death? Is this the way
I must return to native dust? O sight
Of terror, foul and ugly to behold,
Horrid to think, how horrible to feel!

To whom thus Michaël: Death thou hast seen
In his first shape on man; but many shapes
Of Death, and many are the ways that lead
To his grim cave, all dismal: yet to sense
More terrible at the entrance, than within,
Some, as thou saw'st, by violent stroke shall die;
By fire, flood, famine, by intemperance more
In meats and drinks, which on the earth shall bring

PARADISE LOST.	200
Diseases dire, of which a monstrous crew
Before thee shall appear; that thou may'st know	475
What misery the inabstinence of Eve
Shall bring on Men. Immediately a place
Before his eyes appear'd, sad, noisome, dark;
A lazar-house it seem'd; wherein were laid
Numbers of all diseased; all maladies	480
Of ghastly spasm, or racking torture, qualms
Of heartsick agony, all feverous kinds,
Convulsions, epilepsies, fierce catarrhs,
Intestine stone and ulcer, colic-pangs,
Demoniac frenzy, moping melancholy,	485
And moon-struck madness, pining atrophy,
Marasmus, and wide-wasting pestilence,
Dropsies, and asthmas, and joint-racking rheums.
Dirc was the tossing, deep the groans; Despair
Tended the sick busiest from couch to couch;	490
And over them triumphant Death his dart
Shook, but delay'd to strike, though oft invoked
With vows, as their chief good and final hope.
Sight so deform what heart of rock could long
Dry eyed behold? Adam could not, but wept,	495
Though not of woman born; compassion quell'd best of man, and gave him up to tears
pace, till firmer thoughts restrain d excess;
1, scarce recovering words, his plaint renew'd:
) miserable mankind, to what fall	500
graded, to what wretched state reserved!
etter end here unborn. Why is life given
o be thus wrested from us? rather, why
btruded on us thus? who, if we knew	FOF
What we receive, would either not accept	505
Life offer'd, or soon beg to lay it down;
Glad to be so dismiss'd in peace. Can thus
The image of God in Man, created once
So goodly and creet, though faulty since,	510
To such unsightly sufferings be debased Under inhuman pains? Why should not Man.	210
Chuci innuman pains? Why should not Man,

Retaining still divine similitude
In part, from such deformities be free,
And, for his Maker's image sake, exempt?

Their Maker's image, answer'd Michael, then
Forsook them, when themselves they vilified
To serve ungovern'd Appetite; and took
His image whom they served, a brutish vice,
Inductive mainly to the sin of Eve.
Therefore so abject is their punishment,
Disfiguring not God's likeness, but their own;
Or if his likeness, by themselves defaced;
While they pervert pure Nature's healthful rules
To loathsome sickness; worthily since they
God's image did not reverence in themselves.

I yield it just, said Adam, and submit. But is there yet no other way, besides These painful passages, how we may come To death, and mix with our connatural dust?

There is, said Michael, if thou well observe 530 The rule of Not too much ; by temperance taught, In what thou eat'st and drink'st; seeking from thence Due nourishment, not gluttonous delight, Till many years over thy head return : So mayst thou live; till, like ripe fruit, thou drop 535 Into thy mother's lap; or be with ease Gather'd, not harshly pluck'd; for death mature: This is Old Age; but then thou must outlive [change Thy youth, thy strength, thy beauty; which will To wither'd, weak, and gray; thy senses then, 540 Obtuse, all taste of pleasure must forego, To what thou hast; and, for the air of youth, Hopeful and cheerful, in thy blood will reign A melancholy damp of cold and dry To weigh thy spirits down, and last consume 545 The balm of life. To whom our ancestor:

Henceforth I fly not death, nor would prolong Life much; bent rather, how I may be quit, Fairest and easiest, of this cumbrous charge; Which I must keep till my appointed day
Of rendering up, and patiently attend
My dissolution. Michaël replied:

Nor love thy life, nor hate; but what thou livest Live well; how long, or short, permit to Heaven: And now prepare thee for another sight.

He look'd, and saw a spacious plain, whereon Were tents of various hue; by some were herds Of cattle grazing; others, whence the sound Of instruments, that made melodious chime, Was heard, of harp and organ; and, who moved 560 Their stops and chords, was seen; his volant touch. Instinct through all proportions, low and high, Fled and pursued transverse the resonant fugue. In other part stood one who, at the forge Labouring, two massy clods of iron and brass 565 Had melted (whether found where casual fire Had wasted woods on mountain cr in vale, Down to the veins of earth; thence gliding hot To some cave's mouth; or whether wash'd by stream From underground;) the liquid ore he drain'd. Into fit moulds prepared; from which he form'd First his own tools; then, what might else be wrought

Fusil or graven in metal. After these,
But on the hither side, a different sort

From the high neighbouring hills, which was their Down to the plain descended; by their guise

576

Just men they seem'd, and all their study bent
To worship God aright, and know his works
Not hid; nor those things last, which might preserve
Freedom and peace to Men; they on the plain 58
Long had not walk'd, when from the tents, behold!

A bevy of fair women, richly gay,
In gems and wanton dress; to the harp they sung
Soft amorous ditties, and in dance came on:
The men, though grave, eyed them; and let their eyes

Rove without rein; till, in the amorous net 5 Fast caught, they liked: and each his liking chose; And now of love they treat, till the evening star,
Love's harbinger, appear'd; then, all in heat
They light the nuptial torch, and bid invoke
Hymen, then first to marriage rites invoked.
With feast and music all the tents resound.
Such happy interview, and fair event
Of love and youth not lost, songs, garlands, flowers,
And charming sympnonies, attach'd the heart
Of Adam, soon inclined to admit delight,
The bent of nature; which he thus express'd:

True opener of mine eyes, prime Angel bless'd; Much better seems this vision, and more hope Of peaceful days portends, than those two pass'd; 600 Those were of hate and death, or pain much worse; Here Nature seems fulfill'd in all her ends.

To whom thus Michaël: Judge not what is best By pleasure, though to nature seeming meet; Created, as thou art, to nobler end 605 Holy and pure, conformity divine. Those tents thou saw'st so pleasant were the tents Of wickedness, wherein shall dwell his race Who slew his brother; studious they appear Of arts that polish life, inventors rare; 610 Unmindful of their Maker, though his Spirit Taught them; but they his gifts acknowledged none. Yet they a beauteous offspring shall beget; For that fair female troop thou saw'st, that seem'd Of Goddesses so blithe, so smooth, so gay, 615 Yet empty of all good wherein consists Woman's domestic honour and chief praise; Bred only and completed to the taste Of lustful appetence, to sing, to dance, To dress, and troll the tongue, and roll the eye: To these that sober race of men, whose lives Religious titled them the sons of God, Shall yield up all their virtue, all their fame Ignobly, to the trains and to the smiles Of these fair atheists; and now swim in joy,

PARADISE LOST. 269 Erelong to swim at large; and laugh for which The world erelong a world of tears must weep. To whom thus Adam, of short joy bereft: O pity and shame, that they, who to live well Enter'd so fair, should turn aside to tread 630 Paths indirect, or in the mid way faint! But still I see the tenor of Man's woe Holds on the same, from Woman to begin From Man's effeminate slackness it begins, Said the Angel, who should better hold his place 635 By wisdom, and superior gifts received. But now prepare thee for another scene. He look'd, and saw wide territory spread Before him, towns, and rural works between, Cities of Men with lofty gates and towers, 640 Concourse in arms, fierce faces threatening war, Giants of mighty bone and bold emprise; Part wield their arms, part curb the foaming steed, Single or in array of battle ranged Both horse and foot, nor idly mustering stood; 645 One way a band select from forage drives A herd of beeves, fair oxen and fair kine, From a fat meadow ground; or fleecy flock, Ewes and their bleating lambs over the plain, Their booty; scarce with life the shepherds fly, 650 But call in aid, which makes a bloody fray; With cruel tournament the squadrons join; Where cattle pastured late, now scatter'd lies With carcasses and arms the ensanguined field, Deserted: Others to a city strong 655 Lay siege, encamp'd; by battery, scale, and mine, Assaulting: others from the wall defend With dart and javelin, stones, and sulphurous fire; On each hand slaughter and gigantic deeds-In other part the sceptred heralds call 663

To council, in the city-gates; anon
Gray-headed men and grave, with warriors mix'd
Assemble, and harangues are heard: but soon,

In factious opposition; till at last, Of middle age one rising, eminent 665 In wise deport, spake much of right and wrong, Of justice, of religion, truth, and peace, And judgment from above : him old and young Exploded, and had seized with violent hands, Had not a cloud descending snatch'd him thence 670 Unseen amid the throng; so violence Proceeded, and oppression, and sword-law, Through all the plain, and refuge none was found Adam was all in tears, and to his guide Lamenting turn'd full sad: O! what are these, Death's ministers, not men? who thus deal death Inhumanly to men, and multiply Ten thousandfold the sin of him who slew His brother; for of whom such massacre Make they, but of their brethren; men of men? 680 But who was that just man, whom had not Heaven Rescued, had in his righteousness been lost? To whom thus Michael: These are the product Of those ill mated marriages thou saw'st; Where good with bad were match'd, who of them-686

Abhor to join; and, by imprudence mix'd, Produce prodigious births of body or mind. Such were these giants, men of high renown; For in those days might only shall be admired, And valour and heroic virtue call'd: 690 To overcome in battle, and subdue Nations, and bring home spoils with infinite Man-slaughter, shall be held the highest pitch Of human glory; and for glory done Of triumph, to be styled great conquerors, 695 Patrons of mankind, Gods, and sons of Gods; Destroyers rightlier call'd, and plagues of men. Thus fame shall be achieved, renown on Earth; And what most merits fame, in silence hid. But he, the seventh from thee, whom thou beliefdst The only righteous in a world perverse, 701

And therefore hated, therefore so beset With foes, for daring single to be just, And utter odious truth, that God would come To judge them with his Saints; him the Most High Wrapp'd in a balmy cloud with winged steeds Did, as thou saw'st, receive, to walk with God High in salvation and the climes of bliss, Exempt from death; to show thee what reward Awaits the good; the rest what punishment; 710 Which now direct thine eyes and soon behold. He look'd, and saw the face of things quite changed; The brazen throat of war had ceased to roar; All now was turn'd to jollity and game, To luxury and riot, feast and dance; 715 Marrying or prostituting, as befel, Rape or adultery, where passing fair Allured them; thence from cups to civil broils. At length a reverend sire among them came, And of their doings great dislike declared, 720 And testified against their ways; he oft Frequented their assemblies, whereso met, Triumphs or festivals; and to them preach'd Conversion and repentance, as to souls In prison, under judgments imminent : 725 But all in vain: which when he saw, he ceased Contending, and removed his tents far off; Then, from the mountain hewing timber tall, Began to build a vessel of huge bulk; Measured by cubit, length, and breadth, and height, Smear'd round with pitch; and in the side a door 731 Contrived; and of provisions laid in large, For man and beast: when lo, a wonder strange! Of every beast, and bird, and insect small Came sevens, and pairs: and enter'd in as taught 735 Their order: last the sire and his three sons, With their four wives; and God made fast the door. Meanwhile the south-wind rose, and, with black wings Wide-hovering, all the clouds together drove

B. A.	٠.
From under Heaven; the hills to their supply 74	0
Vapour, and exhalation dusk and moist,	è
Sent up amain; and now the thicken'd sky
Like a dark ceiling stood; down rush'd the rain
Impetuous; and continued, till the earth
No more was seen; the floating vessel swum 74	5
Uplifted, and secure with beaked prow	o
Rode tilting o'er the waves; all dwellings else
Flood overwhelm'd, and them with all their pomp
Deep under water roll'd; sea cover'd sea,
Sea without shore; and in their palaces, 75	0
Where luxury late reign'd, sea-monsters whelp'd
And stabled; of mankind, so numerous late,
All left in one small bottom swum embark'd.	i
How didst thou grieve then, Adam, to behold
The end of all thy offspring, end so sad, 75	5
Depopulation! Thee another flood,
Of tears and sorrow a flood, thee also drown'd,	i
And sunk thee as thy sons; till, gently rear'd
By the Angel, on thy feet thou stood'st at last,
Though comfortless; as when a father mourns 760	0
His children, all in view destroy'd at once;
And scarce to the Angel utter'dst thus thy plaint .	ò
O visions ill foreseen! Better had I
Lived ignorant of future! so had borne
My part of evil only, each day's lot 763	5
Enough to bear; those now, that were dispensed
The burden of many ages, on me light
At once, by my foreknowledge gaining birth
Abortive, to torment me ere their being,
With thought that they must be. Let no man seek
Henceforth to be foretold what shall befal 771	l
Him or his children; evil he may be sure,
Which neither his foreknowing can prevent;
And he the future evil shall no less
In apprehension than in substance feel, 775	5
Grievous to bear: but that care now is pass'd,
Man is not whom to warn; those few escaped

810

Famine and anguish will at last consume,
Wandering that watery desert: I had hope,
When violence was ceased, and war on earth,
All would have then gone well; peace would have crown'd

With length of happy days the race of man; But I was far deceived; for now I see Peace to corrupt no less than war to waste. How comes it thus? unfold, celestial Guide,

And whether here the race of Man will end.

To whom thus Michael: Those, whom last thou saw'st

In triumph and luxurious wealth, are they First seen in acts of prowess eminent And great exploits, but of true virtue void;

Who, having spilt much blood, and done much waste,

Subduing nations, and achieved thereby Fame in the world, high titles, and rich prey;

Shall change their course to pleasure, case, and sloth, Surfeit, and lust; till wantonness and pride 795

Raise out of friendship hostile deeds in peace. The conquer'd also, and enslaved by war,

Shall, with their freedom lost, all virtue lose And fear of God; from whom their piety feign'd In sharp contest of battle found no aid

Against invaders; therefore, cool'd in zeal,
Thenceforth shall practise how to live secure.

Worldly or dissolute, on what their lords
Shall leave them to enjoy: for the earth sh

Shall leave them to enjoy; for the earth shall bear More than enough, that temperance may be tried: 805

So all shall turn degenerate, all depraved; Justice and temperance, truth and faith, forgot;

One man except, the only son of light In a dark age, against example good,

Against allurement, custom, and a world Offended: fearless of reproach and scorn

Or violence, he of their wicked ways Shall them admonish; and before them set The paths of righteousness, how much more safe And full of peace; denouncing wrath to come 815 On their impenitence; and shall return Of them derided, but of God observed The one just man alive; by his command Shall build a wondrous ark, as thou beheldst, To save himself and household from amidst 820 A world devote to universal wrack. No sooner he, with them of man and beast Select for life, shall in the ark be lodged, And shelter'd round, but all the cataracts Of Heaven set open on the Earth shall pour Rain, day and night; all fountains of the deep, Broke up, shall heave the ocean to usurp Beyond all bounds; till inundation rise Above the highest hills: then shall this mount Of Paradise by might of waves be moved 830 Out of his place, push'd by the horned flood, With all his verdure spoil'd, and trees adrift, Down the great river to the opening gulf, And there take root an island salt and bare. The haunt of seals, and orcs, and seamews' clang: 835 To teach thee that God áttributes to place No sanctity, if none be thither brought By men who there frequent or therein dwell. And now, what further should ensue, behold. He look'd, and saw the ark hull on the flood, 840 Which now abated; for the clouds were fled. Driven by a keen north wind, that, blowing dry, Wrinkled the face of deluge, as decay'd; And the clear sun on his wide watery glass Gazed hot, and of the fresh wave largely drew, 845 As after thirst; which made their flowing shrink From standing lake to tripping ebb, that stole With soft foot towards the deep; who now had stopp'd His sluices, as the Heaven his windows shut. The ark no more now floats, but seems on ground, 850

Fast on the top of some high mountain fix'd.

And now the tops of hills, as rocks, appear;
With clamour thence the rapid currents drive,
Towards the retreating sea, their furious tide
Forthwith from out the ark a raven flies,	855
And after him, the surer messenger,
A dove sent forth once and again to spy	-19
Green tree or ground, whereon his foot may light	:
The second time returning, in his bill
An olive-leaf he brings, pacific sign:	860
Anon dry ground appears, and from his ark
The ancient sire descends, with all his train:
Then with uplifted hands, and eyes devout,
Grateful to Heaven, over his head beholds
A dewy cloud, and in the cloud a bow	865
Conspicuous with three listed colours gay,
Betokening peace from God, and covenant new.
Whereat the heart of Adam, erst so sad,
Greatly rejoiced; and thus his joy broke forth:
O thou, who future things canst represent	870
As present, heavenly Instructor! I revive
At this last sight; assured that Man shall live,
With all the creatures, and their seed preserve.
Far less I now lament for one whole world
Of wicked sons destroy'd, than I rejoice	875
For one man found so perfect and so just
That God vouchsafes to raise another world
From him, and all his anger to forget.
But say, what mean those colour'd streaks in Hea
Distended, as the brow of God appeased?	880
Or serve they, as a flowery verge, to bind
The fluid skirts of that same watery cloud,
Lest it again dissolve, and shower the earth?
To whom the Archangel: Dexterously thou ain
So willingly doth God remit his ire,	885

To whom the Archanger: Dexterously thou am So willingly doth God remit his ire,
Though late repenting him of Man depraved;
Grieved at his heart, when looking down he saw
The whole earth fill'd with violence, and all flesh
Corrupting each their way; yet, those removed,

Such grace shall one just man find in his sight,
That he relents, not to blot out mankind;
And makes a covenant never to destroy
The earth again by flood; nor let the sea
Surpass his bounds; nor rain to drown the world,
With man therein or beast; but, when he brings
Over the earth a cloud, will therein set
His triple-colour'd bow, whereon to look,
And call to mind his covenant: day and night,
Seed-time and harvest, heat and hoary frost,
Shall hold their course; till fire purge all things new,
Both Heaven and Earth, wherein the just shall dwell.

PARADISE LOST.

BOOK XII.

The Argel Michael continues, from the Flood, to relate wnatshall succeed; then, in the mention of Abraham, comes by degrees to explain who that Seed of the Woman shall be, which was promised Adam and Eve in the Fall; his incarnation, death, resurrection, and ascension; the state of the church till his second coming. Adam, greatly satisfied and recomforted by these relations and promises, descends the hill with Michael; wakens Eve, who all this while had slept, but with gentle dreams composed to quietness of mind and submission. Michael in either hand leads them out of Paradise, the fiery sword waving behind them, and the Cherubim taking their stations to guard the place.

As one who in his journey bates at noon,
Though bent on speed; so here the Archangel paus	sed
Betwixt the world destroy'd and world restored,	,
If Adam aught perhaps might interpose;
Then, with transition sweet, new speech resumes:	5
Thus thou hast seen one world begin and end;
And Man, as from a second stock, proceed.
Much thou hast yet to see; but I perceive
Thy mortal sight to fail; objects divine
Must needs impair and weary human sense:	10
Henceforth what is to come I will relate;
Thou therefore give due audience, and attend.
This second source of Men, while yet but few,
And while the dread of judgment past remains
Fresh in their minds, fearing the Deity,	15
With some regard to what is just and right
Shall lead their lives, and multiply apace;

Labouring the soil, and reaping plenteous crop, Corn, wine, and oil; and, from the herd or flock,

With large wine-offerings pour'd, and sacred feast, Shall spend their days in joy unblamed; and dwell Long time in peace, by families and tribes Under paternal rule : till one shall rise Of proud ambitious heart; who, not content 25 With fair equality, fraternal state, Will arrogate dominion undeserved Over his brethren, and quite dispossess Concord and law of nature from the earth: Hunting (and men not beasts shall be his game) 30 With war and hostile snare such as refuse Subjection to his empire tyrannous. A mighty hunter thence he shall be styled Before the Lord : as in despite of Heaven, Or from Heaven claiming second sovereignty; 35 And from rebellion shall derive his name, Though of rebellion others he accuse. He with a crew, whom like ambition joins With him or under him to tyrannize, Marching from Eden towards the west, shall find 40 The plain, wherein a black bituminous gurge Boils out from under ground, the mouth of Hell: Of brick, and of that stuff, they cast to build A city and tower, whose top may reach to Heaven; And get themselves a name; lest, far dispersed In foreign lands, their memory be lost; Regardless whether good or evil fame. But God, who oft descends to visit men Unseen, and through their habitations walks To mark their doings, them beholding soon, 50 Comes down to see their city, ere the tower Obstruct Heaven-towers; and in derision sets Upon their tongues a various spirit, to rase Quite out their native language; and, instead, To sow a jangling noise of words unknown: Forthwith a hideous gabble rises loud, Among the builders; each to other calls Not understood, till hoarse, and all in rage,

As mock'd they storm: great laughter was in Heav	en,
And looking down, to see the hubbub strange,	60
And hear the din: thus was the building left
Ridiculous, and the work Confusion named.
Whereto thus Adam, fatherly displeased:
O execrable son! so to aspire
Above his brethren; to himself assuming	65
Authority usurp'd, from God not given ·
He gave us only over beast, fish, fowl,
Dominion absolute; that right we hold
By his donation; but man over men
He made not lord; such title to himself	70
Reserving, human left from human free.
But this usurper his encroachment proud
Stays not on Man; to God his tower intends
Siege and defiance: wretched man! what food
Will he convey up thither, to sustain	75
Himself and his rash army; where thin air
Above the clouds will pine his entrails gross,
And famish him of breath, if not of bread?
To whom thus Michael: Justly thou abhorr'st	1,1.2
That son, who on the quiet state of men	80
Such trouble brought, affecting to subdue
Rational liberty; yet know withal,
Since thy original lapse, true liberty
Is lost, which always with right reason dwells
Twinn'd, and from her liath no dividual being	85
Reason in man obscured or not obey'd,
Immediately inordinate desires
And upstart passions catch the government	-
From reason; and to servitude reduce
Man, till then free. Therefore, since he permits	90
Within himself unworthy powers to reign
Over free reason, God, in judgment just,
Subjects him from without to violent lords,
Who oft as undeservedly enthral
His outward freedom: tyranny must be;	95
Though to the turent thereby no every

Yet sometimes nations will decline so low From virtue, which is reason, that no wrong, But justice and some fatal curse annex'd, Deprives them of their outward liberty; 100 Their inward lost: witness the irreverent son Of him who built the ark; who, for the shame Done to his father, heard this heavy curse, Servant of servants, on his vicious race. Thus will this latter, as the former world, 105 Still tend from bad to worse; till God at last, Wearied with their iniquities, withdraw His presence from among them, and avert His holy eyes; resolving from thenceforth To leave them to their own polluted ways; 110 And one peculiar nation to select From all the rest, of whom to be invoked, A nation from one faithful man to spring: Him on this side Euphrates yet residing, Bred up in idol-worship: O, that men 115 (Canst thou believe?) should be so stupid grown, While yet the patriarch lived who scaped the flood, As to forsake the living God, and fall To worship their own work in wood and stone For Gods! Yet him God the Most High vouchsafes To call by vision, from his father's house, 121 His kindred, and false Gods, into a land Which he will show him; and from him will raise A mighty nation; and upon him shower His benediction so that in his seed 125 All nations shall be bless'd: he straight obeys; Not knowing to what land, yet firm believes . I see him, but thou canst not, with what faith He leaves his Gods, his friends, and native soil, Ur of Chaldea, passing now the ford 130 To Haran; after him a cumbrous train Of herds and flocks, and numerous servitude; Not wandering poor, but trusting all his wealth With God, who call'd him, in a land unknown.

PARADISE LOST.

Canaan he now attains; I see his tents 135 Pitch'd about Sechem, and the neighbouring plain Of Moreh; there by promise he receives Gift to his progeny of all that land, From Hamath northward to the Desert south (Things by their names 1 call, thou yet unnamed;) From Hermon east to the great western Sea; 141 Mount Hermon, vender sea; each place behold In prospect, as I point them; on the shore Mount Carmel; here, the double-founted stream. Jordan, true limit eastward; but his sons 145 Shall dwell to Senir, that long ridge of hills. This ponder, that all nations of the earth Shall in his seed be blessed: by that seed Is meant thy great Deliverer, who shall bruise The Serpent's head; whereof to thee anon 150 Plainlier shall be reveal'd. This patriarch bless'd, Whom faithful Abraham due time shall call, A son, and of his son a grandchild, leaves; Like him in faith, in wisdom, and renown: The grandchild, with twelve sons increased, departs From Canaan, to a land hereafter call'd 156 Egypt, divided by the river Nile; See where it flows, disgorging at seven mouths Into the sea: to sojourn in that land He comes, invited by a younger son 160 In time of dearth; a son, whose worthy deeds Raise him to be the second in that realm Of Pharaoh: there he dies, and leaves his race Growing into a nation, and now grown Suspected to a sequent king, who seeks 165 To stop their overgrowth, as inmate guests Too numerous; whence of guests he makes them slaves Inhospitably, and kills their infant males: Till by two brethren (these two brethren call'd Moses and Aaron) sent from God to claim 170 His people from enthralment, they return,

With glory and spoil, back to their promised land.

But first, the lawless tyrant, who denies To know their God, or message to regard, Must be compell'd by signs and judgments dire; 175 To blood ushed the rivers must be turn'd; Frogs, lice, and flies must all his palace fill With loathed intrusion, and fill all the land; His cattle must of rot and murrain die; Botches and blains must all his flesh emboss, 180 And all his people; thunder mix'd with hail, Hail mix'd with fire, must rend the Egyptian sky, And wheel on the earth, devouring where it rolls; What it devours not, herb, or fruit, or grain, A darksome cloud of locusts swarming down Must eat, and on the ground leave nothing green; Darkness must overshadow all his bounds, Palpable darkness, and blot out three days; Last, with one midnight stroke, all the first-born Of Egypt must lie dead. Thus with ten wounds 190 The river-dragon tamed at length submits To let his sojourners depart, and oft Humbles his stubborn heart; but still, as ice More harden'd after thaw; till, in his rage Pursuing whom he late dismiss'd, the sea 195 Swallows him with his host; but them lets pass, As on dry land, between two crystal walls; Awed by the rod of Moses so to stand Divided, till his rescued gain their shore: Such wondrous power God to his saint will lend, 200 Though present in his Angel; who shall go Before them in a cloud, and pillar of fire; By day a cloud, by night a pillar of fire; To guide them in their journey, and remove Behind them, while the obdurate king pursues All night he will pursue; but his approach Darkness defends between till morning watch; Then through the fiery pillar, and the cloud, God looking forth will trouble all his host, 209 And craze their chariot-wheels: when by command

Moses once more his potent rod extends Over the sea; the sea his rod obeys; On their embattled ranks the waves return And overwhelm their war: the race elect Safe towards Canaan from the shore advance Through the wild Desert, not the readiest way; Lest, entering on the Canaanite alarm'd, War terrify them inexpert, and fear Return them back to Egypt, choosing rather Inglorious life with servitude; for life To noble and ignoble is more sweet Untrain'd in arms, where rashness leads not on. This also shall they gain by their delay In the wide wilderness; there they shall found Their government, and their great senate choose 225 Through the twelve tribes, to rule by laws ordain'd: God from the mount of Sinai, whose gray top Shall tremble, he descending, will himself In thunder, lightning, and loud trumpets' sound, Ordain them laws; part, such as appertain 230 To civil justice; part, religious rites Of sacrifice; informing them, by types And shadows, of that destined Seed to bruise The Serpent, by what means he shall achieve Mankind's deliverance. But the voice of God To mortal ear is dreadful: they beseech That Moses might report to them his will, And terror cease; he grants what they besought, Instructed that to God is no access Without Mediator, whose high office now 240 Moses in figure bears; to introduce One greater, of whose day he shall foretel, And all the Prophets in their age the times Of great Messiah shall sing. Thus, laws and rites Establish'd, such delight hath God in men 245 Obedient to his will, that he vouchsafes Among them to set up his tabernacle; The Holy One with mortal men to dwell .

Here Adam interposed: O send from Heaven, 270 Enlightener of my darkness, gracious things Thou hast reveal'd; those chiefly which concern Just Abraham and his seed; now first I find Mine eyes true-opening, and my heart much eased; Erewhile perplex'd with thoughts, what would become Of me and all mankind: but now I see His day, in whom all nations shall be bless'd; Favour unmerited by mc, who sought Forbidden knowledge by forbidden means. This yet I apprehend not, why to those 280 Among whom God will deign to dwell on earth So many and so various laws are given; So many laws argue so many sins Among them; how can God with such reside?

To whom thus Michael: Doubt not but that sin 285

Will reign among them, as of thee begot,

PARADISE LOST.	285
And therefore was law given them, to evince
Their natural pravity, by stirring up
Sin against law to fight: that when they see
Law can discover sin, but not remove,	290
Save by those shadowy expiations weak,
The blood of bulls and goats, they may conclude
Some blood more precious must be paid for Man,
Just for unjust; that in such righteousness
To them by faith imputed, they may find	295
Justification towards God, and peace
Of conscience; which the law by ceremonies
Cannot appease; nor Man the mortal part
Perform; and, not performing, cannot live.
So law appears imperfect; and but given	300
With purpose to resign them, in full time,
Up to a better covenant; disciplined
From shadowy types to truth; from flesh to spirit	;
From imposition of strict laws to free
Acceptance of large grace; from servile fear	305
To filial; works of law to works of faith.
And therefore shall not Moses, though of God
Highly beloved, being but the minister
Of law, his people into Canaan lead;
But Joshua, whom the Gentiles Jesus call,	310
His name and office bearing, who shall quell
The Adversary Serpent, and bring back
Through the world's wilderness long-wander'd Ma	ın
Safe to eternal Paradise of rest.
Meanwhile they, in their earthly Canaan placed,
Long time shall dwell and prosper; but when sing	5
National interrupt their public peace,
Provoking God to raise them enemies;
From whom as oft he saves them penitent
By judges first, then under kings; of whom	320
The second, both for piety renown'd
And puissant deeds, a promise shall receive
Irrevocable, that his regal throne
For ever shall endure; the like shall sing

Then lose it to a stranger, that the true
Anointed King Messiah might be born
Barr'd of his right; yet at his birth a star,
Unseen before in Heaven, proclaims him come;
And guides the eastern sages, who inquire

360

His place, to offer incense, myrrh, and gold: His place of birth a solemn Angel tells To simple shepherds, keeping watch by night; 365 They gladly thither haste, and by a choir Of squadron'd Angels hear his carol sung. A virgin is his mother, but his sire The power of the Most High: He shall ascend The throne hereditary, and bound his reign With Earth's wide bounds, his glory with the Heavens He ceased, discerning Adam with such joy Surcharged, as had like grief been dew'd in tears, Without the vent of words; which these he breathed. O prophet of glad tidings, finisher 375 Of utmost hope! now clear I understand What oft my steadiest thoughts have search'd in vain; Why our great Expectation should be call'd The seed of Woman: Virgin Mother, hail, High in the love of Heaven; yet from my loins 380 Thou shalt proceed, and from thy womb the Son Of God Most High: so God with Man unites! Needs must the Scrpent now his capital bruise Expect with mortal pain: say where and when Their fight, what stroke shall bruise the victor's heel. To whom thus Michael: Dream not of their fight, As of a duel, or the local wounds Of head or heel: not therefore joins the Son Manhood to Godhead, with more strength to foil Thy enemy; nor so is overcome 390 Satan, whose fall from Heaven, a deadlier bruise, Disabled, not to give thee thy death's wound: Which he, who comes thy Saviour, shall recure Not by destroying Satan, but his works In thee and in thy seed : nor can this be, 395 But by fulfilling that which thou didst want, Obedience to the law of God, imposed On penalty of death, and suffering death; The penalty to thy transgression due,

And due to theirs which out of thine will grow :

So only can high Justice rest appaid. The law of God exact he shall fulfil Both by obedience and by love, though love Alone fulfil the law; thy punishment He shall endure, by coming in the flesh 405 To a reproachful life and cursed death; Proclaiming life to all who shall believe In his redemption; and that his obedience, Imputed, becomes theirs by faith; his merits To save them, not their own, though legal, works. 410 For this he shall live hated, be blasphemed, Seized on by force, judged, and to death condemn'd A shameful and accursed, nail'd to the cross By his own nation; slain for bringing life -But to the cross he nails thy enemies, 415 The law that is against thee, and the sins Of all mankind, with him there crucified, Never to hurt them more who rightly trust In this his satisfaction; so he dies, But soon revives : Death over him no power 490 Shall long usurp; ere the third dawning light Return, the stars of morn shall see him rise Out of his grave, fresh as the dawning light, Thy ransom paid, which Man from death redeems; His death for Man, as many as offer'd life 495 Neglect not, and the benefit embrace By faith not void of works: this godlike act Annuls thy doom, the death thou shouldst have died. In sin for ever lost from life; this act Shall bruise the head of Satan, crush his strength, 430 Defeating Sin and Death, his two main arms: And fix far deeper in his head their stings Than temporal death shall bruise the victor's heel. Or theirs whom he redeems; a death, like sleep, A gentle wafting to immortal life. Nor after resurrection shall he stay Longer on earth than certain times to appear

To his disciples, men who in his life

Still follow'd him; to them shall leave in charge
To teach all nations what of him they learn'd	440
And his salvation; them who shall believe	-
Baptizing in the profiuent stream, the sign
Of washing them from guilt of sin to life
Pure, and in mind prepared, if so befal,	33.
For death, like that which the Redeemer died	445
All nations they shall teach; for, from that day
Not only to the sons of Abraham's loins
Salvation shall be preach'd, but to the sons
Of Abraham's faith wherever through the world;
So in his seed all nations shall be bless'd.	450
Then to the Heaven of Heavens he shall ascend
With victory, triumphing through the air
Over his foes and thine; there shall surprise
The Serpent, prince of air, and drag in chains
Through all his realm, and there confounded leave	;
Then enter into glory, and resume	456
His seat at God's right hand, exalted high
Above all names in Heaven; and thence shall com	ю,
When this world's dissolution shall be ripe,
With glory and power to judge both quick and dea	d;
To judge the unfaithful dead, but to reward	461
His faithful, and receive them into bliss,
Whether in Heaven or Earth; for then the Earth
Shall all be Paradise, far happier place	33
Than this of Eden, and far happier days.	465
So spake the Archangel Michael; then paused,	37
As at the world's great period; and our sire,	- 1
Replete with joy and wonder, thus replied:
O Goodness infinite, Goodness immense!
That all this good of evil shall produce,	470
And evil turn to good; more wonderful
Than that which by creation first brought forth
Light out of darkness! Full of doubt I stand,
Whether I should repent me now of sin
By me done and occasion'd; or rejoice	475
Much more, that much more good thereof shall spri	ngţ

To God more glory, more good-will to Men
From God, and over wrath grace shall abound.
But say, if our Deliverer up to Heaven
Must reascend, what will betide the few
His faithful, left among the unfaithful herd,
The enemies of truth? Who then shall guide
His people, who defend? Will they not deal
Worse with his followers than with him they dealt?
Be sure they will, said the Angel: but from Heaven

Be sure they will, said the Angel; but from Heaven He to his own a Comforter will send, The promise of the Father, who shall dwell His Spirit within them; and the law of faith, Working through love, upon their hearts shall write, To guide them in all truth; and also arm 490 With spiritual armour, able to resist Satan's assaults, and quench his fiery darts; What man can do against them, not afraid, Though to the death; against such cruelties With inward consolations recompensed. 495 And oft supported so as shall amaze Their proudest persecutors : for the Spirit. Pour'd first on his Apostles, whom he sends To evangelize the nations, then on all Baptized, shall them with wondrous gifts endue 500 To speak all tongues, and do all miracles, As did their Lord before them. Thus they win Great numbers of each nation to receive With joy the tidings brought from Heaven: at length Their ministry perform'd, and race well run, 505 Their doctrine and their story written left, They die; but in their room, as they forewarn, Wolves shall succeed for teachers, grievous wolves, Who all the sacred mysteries of Heaven To their own vile advantages shall turn 510 Of lucre and ambition; and the truth With superstitions and traditions taint.

Left only in those written records pure, Though not but by the Spirit understood. Then they shall seek to avail themselves of names, Places, and titles, and with these to join 516 Secular power; though feigning still to act By spiritual, to themselves appropriating The Spirit of God, promised alike and given To all believers; and, from that pretence, E20 Spiritual laws by carnal power shall force On every conscience; laws which none shall find Left them inroll'd, or what the Spirit within Shall on the heart engrave. What will they then But force the Spirit of Grace itself, and bind 525 His consort Liberty? What, but unbuild His living temples, built by faith to stand, Their own faith, not another's? For, on earth, Who against faith and conscience can be heard Infallible? yet many will presume: 530 Whence heavy persecution shall arise On all, who in the worship persevere Of spirit and truth; the rest, far greater part, Will deem in outward rites and specious forms Religion satisfied; truth shall retire 535 Bestuck with slanderous darts, and works of faith Rarely be found: so shall the world go on, To good malignant, to bad men benign; Under her own weight groaning; till the day Appear of respiration to the just, 540 And vengeance to the wicked, at return Of him so lately promised to thy aid, The Woman's Seed; obscurely then foretold, Now ampler known thy Saviour and thy Lord; Last, in the clouds, from Heaven to be reveal'd 545 In glory of the Father, to dissolve Satan with his perverted world; then raise From the conflagrant mass, purged and refined, New Heavens, new Earth, ages of endless date, Founded in righteousness, and peace, and love; 550 To bring forth fruits, joy and eternal bliss.

He ended; and thus Adam last replied

How soon hath thy prediction, Seer bless'd, Measured this transient world, the race of time, Till time stand fix'd! Beyond is all abyss, 555 Eternity, whose end no eye can reach. Greatly instructed I shall hence depart; Greatly in peace of thought; and have my fill Of knowledge, what this vessel can contain; Beyond which was my folly to aspire. 560 Henceforth I learn, that to obey is best, And love with fear the only God; to walk As in his presence; ever to observe His providence; and on him sole depend, Merciful over all his works, with good 565 Still overcoming evil, and by small Accomplishing great things, by things deem'd weak Subverting worldly strong, and worldly wise By simply meek: that suffering for truth's sake Is fortitude to highest victory, 570 And, to the faithful, death the gate of life; Taught this by his example, whom I now Acknowledge my Redeemer ever bless'd. To whom thus also the Angel last replied . This having learn'd, thou hast attain'd the sum 575 Of wisdom; hope no higher, though all the stars Thou knew'st by name, and all the ethereal powers,

All secrets of the deep, all Nature's works, Or works of God in Heaven, air, earth, or sea, And all the riches of this world enjoy'dst, 580 And all the rule, one empire; only add Deeds to thy knowledge answerable; add faith, Add virtue, patience, temperance; add love, By name to come call'd charity, the soul Of all the rest: then wilt thou not be loath 585 To leave this Paradise, but shalt possess A Paradise within thee, happier far .-Let us descend now therefore from this top Of speculation; for the hour precise

Exacts our parting hence; and see! the guards, 590

293

By me encamp'd on yonder hill, expect Their motion; at whose front a flaming sword, In signal of remove, waves fiercely round: We may no longer stay: go, waken Eve; Her also I with gentle dreams have calm'd 595 Portending good, and all her spirits composed To meek submission: thou, at season fit, Let her with thee partake what thou hast heard; Chiefly what may concern her faith to know. The great deliverance by her seed to come 600 (For by the Woman's seed) on all mankind. That ye may live, which will be many days, Both in one faith unanimous, though sad, With cause, for evils past; yet much more cheer'd With meditation on the happy end. 605

He ended, and they both descend the hill; Descended, Adam to the bower, where Eve Lay sleeping, ran before; but found her waked; And thus with words not sad she him received:

Whence thou return'st, and whither went'st, I know; For God is also in sleep; and dreams advise. 611 Which he hath sent propitious, some great good Presaging, since with sorrow and heart's distress Wearied I fell asleep: but now lead on; In me is no delay; with thee to go, 615 Is to stay here; without thee here to stay Is to go hence unwilling; thou to me Art all things under Heaven, all places thou, Who for my wilful crime art banish'd hence. This further consolation yet secure 620 I carry hence; though all by me is lost, Such favour I unworthy am vouchsafed, By me the Promised Seed shall all restore.

So spake our mother Eve; and Adam heard
Well pleased, but answer'd not: for now too nig
The Archangel stood; and, from the other hill
To their fix'd station, all in bright array
The Cherubim descended on the ground

25 *

Gliding meteorous, as evening mist
Risen from a river o'er the marish glides,
And gathers ground fast at the labourer's heel
Homeward returning. High in front advanced,
The brandish'd sword of God before them blazed,
Fierce as a comet; which with torrid heat
And vapour, as the Libyan air adust,
Began to parch that temperate clime; whereat
In either hand the hastening Angel caught
Our lingering parents, and to the castern gate
Led them direct, and down the cliffs first
To the subjected plain; then disappeared.

630

They, looking back, all the eastern side beheld
Of Paradise, so late their happy seat,
Waved over by that flaming brand; the gate
With dreadful faces throng'd, and fiery arms:
Some natural tears they dropp'd, but wiped them soon;
The world was all before them, where to choose
Their place of rest, and Providence their guide:
They, hand in hand, with wandering steps and slow,

Through Eden took their solitary way
